

Kentucky And Tennessee To Appear On Tar Heels' 1934 Football Schedule

Athletic Office Announces Nine Game Schedule for Next Year's Gridsters.

VANDY, 'GATORS DROPPED

Tar Heels Have Five Home Tilts; Meet Only Three Southern Conference Foes.

R. A. Fetzer, director of Carolina athletics yesterday announced the 1934 Carolina football schedule.

Two new teams, Tennessee and Kentucky, will replace Florida and Vanderbilt, dropped from the Carolina 1933 grid card. An attractive five home game schedule, including two new foes along with Wake Forest, N. C. State, and Duke will be played in Kenan stadium.

Three Conference Foes
The Tar Heels will meet only three Southern Conference opponents again, Virginia, Duke, and N. C. State, while encountering four Southeastern elevens, Georgia Tech, Georgia, Tennessee, and Kentucky.

The Tennessee Vols have appeared on the Carolina grid schedule before and the relations will not be new while the records only reveal one contest between the Tar Heels and Kentucky. This game took place back in the dark days of 1903, the Wildcats triumphing 6-5.

Conflict with Duke
Although the Duke schedule has not been officially announced it is understood that as usual there will be conflicting games despite the good-will efforts of the athletic authorities of the two schools. But the Tar Heels have the Dukesters stymied on the tentative dates which conflict thus far.

Carolina meets Tennessee on the same afternoon their neighbors clash with Clemson while the Tar Heels will entertain the Kentucky Colonels on the same Saturday Duke meets Davidson.

Here is the Carolina football card:
Sept. 29—Wake Forest, here.
Oct. 6—Tennessee, here.
Oct. 13—Georgia, Athens.
Oct. 20—Kentucky, here.
Oct. 27—N. C. State, here.
Nov. 3—Georgia Tech, Atlanta.
Nov. 10—Davidson, Davidson College.
Nov. 17—Duke, here.
Nov. 29—Virginia, Charlottesville.

ent that the attorneys for the plaintiff mean business. It is also just as evident that the DAILY TAR HEEL, though unaccustomed to such actions and bewildered like a man suddenly entering a hen house filled with screaming fowls, intends to protect its rights.

The DAILY TAR HEEL will attempt to prove that the statements made about the plaintiff Clark are true.

DR. BROOKS IMPROVES

According to a telegram received yesterday by President Frank Porter Graham from Washington, D. C., physicians in charge of Dr. E. C. Brooks, president of State College, stated that Dr. Brooks' health had improved considerably in the last few days.

Dr. Brooks has been critically ill for the last few weeks. Dr. Sterling Ruffin, and Dr. Harry Hurt, Dr. Brooks' physicians, stated that his health had improved so much that he will be able to sit up in a few days.

ROOM FOR MORE FROSH COURTMEN

Although Squad of 70 Has Already Reported, Coach Sandy Dameron Wants More.

Despite the fact that he already has a squad of 70, Coach Sandy Dameron has announced that he will welcome any more freshmen aspiring for berths on the frosh quintet.

The freshmen practice each evening at 7:15 o'clock in the Tin Can.

When approached as to the prospects for a successful frosh team this year, Coach Dameron could offer no specific view.

"We've only been practicing a few days," he said, "and I don't know the men and their ability well enough to say anything about the prospects for a successful season. We have men with good high and prep school reputations, but we still have to see how they will fare."

The freshman basketball schedule is still in the making, and at the present time it is not yet known who the first-year courtmen will encounter in their opener. The first game will probably be against some neighboring high school team.

MAT COACH ASKS FOR CONDITIONING

Quinlan Tells 28 Wrestling Candidates That Conditioning Is Prime Factor.

"Physical condition is the most important factor in the success of a good wrestler," said Coach "Chuck" Quinlan yesterday in addressing 28 freshman and varsity candidates at the first official practice.

Regular practice sessions will be held this afternoon, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. The fundamentals of wrestling will be stressed at these meetings and all are urged to attend. Daily practice will begin after Christmas.

It is expected that the combined squads will number over 60 men in January, and a program of work will be given each wrestler during the holidays.

Today's work was devoted chiefly to the improvement of a good defense and good offense which next to physical condition were pointed out as the essential elements in wrestling.

Coach Quinlan is particularly anxious to avenge the 18-14 defeat suffered at the hands of the State's Techs last year.

White Phantoms Take Another Long And Hard Practice Drill

Entire Squad Looks Ragged in Passing; Shooting Is Still Off Usual Form.

RESERVES SKIRMISH AGAIN

McCachrens Run at Guards; Glace, Center; and Weathers. And Aitken, Forwards.

Another long practice was taken by the varsity basketball team yesterday afternoon in the Tin Can under the direction of Coach "Bo" Shepard.

The entire squad still looked ragged in both passing and shooting. After the warm-ups Coach Shepard sent the squad through long passing drills, breaking for the basket, shooting, and guarding session.

A team was picked which took an offensive drill. On the first five were Captain Dave and Jim McCachren guards, Ivan Glace at center, and "Snooks" Aitken and Vergil Weathers at forwards. The guards passed fairly well, but the two forwards and center had plenty of trouble finding the basket.

A second team made up of Long and Nelson, forwards; Beale, center; and Harris, and Blood, guards also went through an offensive practice. The second string's passing was poor while their shooting was some better. The team has a long way to go before being ready for the opening game with Clemson and as a result will likely spend much of the Christmas vacation in Chapel Hill.

As usual Coach Shepard scrimmaged the reserve teams so that every man on the squad might get a chance to show his stuff. In the reserve game Crouch, Bell, and Rand were the outstanding men.

George Brandt, letterman at center, has not yet reported for work due to a knee injury received during football season. Brandt will probably be shifted to guard where he played some last year as Glace and Beale, lettermen, and Rankin, sophomore, have all been showing up well at the pivot position.

ODUM TO LECTURE TODAY

Dr. Howard W. Odum, Kenan professor of sociology at the University, will speak before a meeting of the North Carolina Folk-lore society in Raleigh this afternoon.

Conference Head Rules Barclay Cannot Take Part In Charity Game

Maryland's Cage Prospects Look Fine At Present

Coach Burton Shipley's Court Prospects Look Good for Successful Season.

(Special to the DAILY TAR HEEL)

College Park, Md., December 7.—With the football campaign finished, regular basketball practice at the University of Maryland is going on in earnest since the opening game with Michigan, here, December 18, is only a few days off.

A quartet of prominent candidates who were out for the football team have not bolstered the hopes of the Old Liners. These men are Rufus Vincent, high scorer for the Southern Conference and fine center; Buckley Buscher, guard; and Bob Snyder, forward—all regulars on last year's quint, while the fourth is Burnie Buscher, rising sophomore and brilliant freshman guard.

Another brace of lettermen in Specer Chase, forward, and George Weber coupled with some sophomores who played fine ball as freshmen will add to Coach Burton Shipley's cage hopes. The trio of Victor Willis, center; Fred Scheele and Alton Rabitt, forwards, comprise the up and coming sophs.

Willis, although ineligible until January 24, will be back in the Terps' line-up for their regular conference season. He spent the first semester at Maryland during last year, but finished up his academic work for 1933 at Delaware, where his home is located. He did not participate in sports while there.

The Old Liners will meet another Western Conference foe in Indiana which comes to College Park, December 30.

TAR HEEL MITMEN MEET NAVY CLUB

Carolina Boxers to Meet Same Five Conference Foes; Landis May Not Return After Christmas.

Carolina's boxing team faces five stiff conference meets topped by an inter-sectional contest with Navy and by the annual Southern Conference tournament, according to the schedule announced today by G. E. Shepard, assistant athletic director.

Norment Quarles, conference featherweight champion, Nat Lumpkin in the 145-pound class, and Sam Giddins in the 165-pound division form the small veteran nucleus around which Coach Crayton Rowe has been building in fall practice.

Only Two Losses

Captain Martin Levinson, star 125-pounder, and Tom Parsons, light heavy, were the only boxers to finish their eligibility last year.

It is doubtful, however, whether two or three of the other regulars, including Platt Landis, conference heavyweight champion and captain-elect, will be back in college after Christmas.

The 1933 team defeating V. M. I. and V. P. I., lost to Penn State and Duke, tied State and Virginia, and finished second to the latter team in the conference.

The 1934 schedule, which is the same as last year, except that Navy replaces Penn State, follows:

- Jan. 13—V. P. I., here.
- Jan. 20—N. C. State, there.
- Jan. 27—Virginia, there.
- Feb. 3—Navy, there.
- Feb. 10—V. M. I., there.
- Feb. 17—Duke, here.
- Feb. 23-24—Southern Conference tournament.

President Miles Explains Case In Wire to Daily Tar Heel Last Night.

Hopes that George Barclay would earn the chance to parade his brilliant football ability before northern fans in the North-South charity game sponsored by the American Legion in New York December 24 came to an abrupt end last night.

In a wire to the DAILY TAR HEEL, C. P. Miles, president of the Southern Conference, announced that under the conference regulations Barclay would be ineligible for further competition if he took part in the charity game this year.

The text of the wire received from Miles was as follows: "If Barclay is a senior and does not expect to compete further at Carolina he can play in game mentioned by you so far as Southern Conference rules are concerned. If he expects to compete further at Carolina he would not be eligible if he takes part in charity game. Rule 8, page 21 in constitution and by-laws of the Southern Conference covers the case."

Hobbs Explains Rule

Dean A. W. Hobbs, chairman of the Carolina athletic council and the University's representative to all conference meetings, explained rule 8 to the DAILY TAR HEEL last night. The rule reads that "No student in a Southern Conference institution can play on any team other than that of his own college during the college year."

Elsewhere in the constitution the term "college year" is defined as being that period from "the beginning in September and running through to June."

Barclay had received permission from his dean, D. D. Carroll, and had already notified Stumpy Thomason, former Georgia Tech star, who is in charge of arrangements, that he could play.

It will be remembered that several years ago Jim Magner took part in a charity affair in New York, but Magner was a senior and had completed his three-year tenure in athletics here.
