

ALUMNI TO MEET HERE TOMORROW IN FALL SESSION

Assembly of General Alumni Association Will Hear Proposed Curricula Changes.

WILL NOMINATE OFFICERS

The annual assembly of the General Alumni association will meet here tomorrow, it was announced yesterday.

The association will take up matters of business and will hear reports from the faculty on the proposals before the University for changes in curricula.

The business session will include reports of alumni officers, nominations of officers for 1934, and the election of two directors for the alumni association.

Reports to Be Heard

Reports will be heard from President John Parker, the executive secretary, the treasurer, the alumni representatives on the University Athletic council, and other alumni officers.

A committee composed of Reverend Theodore Patrick of Raleigh, Dr. Otho B. Ross of Charlotte, and Luther T. Hartsell of Concord, will make two nominations each for president, first and second vice-president, alumni representative to the University Athletic council, and two directors at large. The two directors will be elected at the conference December 15, and the other candidates will be presented later to the alumni by mail for election.

Parker to Preside

President Parker will preside at the meeting. Dean A. W. Hobbs will lead the discussion on curricula changes and sev-

NEW LEGAL FIRM WILL OPEN HERE

Anderson, Marshall, and Dameron, Senior Law Students, to Begin Practice Soon.

The law firm of Anderson, Marshall and Dameron announced yesterday that they would open an office in Chapel Hill in the near future. The office will be located in the basement of the Sutton building.

All three members of the firm are third-year law students and successfully passed the North Carolina bar examination last August. The three were also among those presented before the Federal District court in Greensboro and are now entitled to practice in all of the several state and federal courts.

All of these men are outstanding members of the senior law class. Dameron is president of the Law association, while Marshall is secretary-treasurer. Anderson is president of the Vance Inn of Phi Delta Phi, international legal fraternity.

Dameron is, at present, coach of the freshman basketball team in addition to aiding with the instruction of track candidates. Marshall and Anderson have been participating in the Phi Delta Phi "mock trial" between Clark and the DAILY TAR HEEL which will be conducted after the Christmas holidays.

Though still continuing their law studies, these men feel that by opening a law office they will become more familiar with the practical side of law practice before graduation in June.

FROSH COMMITTEE MEETS FOR FIRST TIME LAST NIGHT

Group Discusses Many Affairs; Committees Appointed.

Several important proposals were discussed by the freshman executive committee at its meeting last night. Chief among these were class entertainment, Duke-Carolina relations, freshman chapels, and the budget for the remainder of the year. The group went on record as favoring only two scheduled chapels per week for the winter and spring quarters.

The discussions resulted in the appointment of the following committees: entertainment, Warren, chairman, McFarland, McKendry, Daniels; chapel, Russ, chairman, Smith, Kendrick, Gilliam; budget, Grier, chairman, Ireland, Kissner, Kind.

It was announced that all members who are absent from as many as two meetings without presenting a valid excuse will be automatically dropped from the roll.

TEACHERS MEET IN PHILADELPHIA

Four Local Sociologists to Attend Conference in Quaker City December 27 to 30.

During the Christmas holidays members of the social science departments and the institute for research in social science at the University will attend meetings to be held in Philadelphia December 27-30. Drs. W. C. Jackson, Katharine Jocher, Guy B. Johnson, and Lee M. Brooks will be prominent among those who attend.

Dr. Jackson, dean of the school of public administration, will be one of the discussion leaders on "Political Aspects of the New South" at a session of the American Political Science association.

Dr. Johnson and Dr. Jocher, both of the institute for research in social science, and Dr. Brooks of the sociology department will appear on the program of the American Sociological society.

To Deliver Papers

At one session Johnson, an authority on the Negro and his problems, will read a paper on "Some Factors in the Development of Negro Social Institutions in the United States" and at another will lead the discussion on "Negro Character as Revealed in Folklore."

Dr. Jocher will read a paper on "What Pre-Social Work Students Can Get from a Study of Groups." Dr. Jocher has carried on extensive research in this kind of work; she is managing editor of "Social Forces," sociological periodical.

Dr. Brooks will lead the discussion on "Traditions and Patterns of Negro Family Life in the United States." He has been particularly interested in American family life for some time and recently aided Dr. Ernest Groves in revising his book "The American Family."

The groups meetings in Philadelphia will include the American Economic association, the American Political Science association, the American Sociological society, The American Statistical association, and a number of others.

YANDELL CHOSEN SOPH SECRETARY

Phillips Russell Defeated by Vote Of 61 to 56 in Election Yesterday; Voting Light.

Billy Yandell was elected secretary of the sophomore class, at a special meeting yesterday, over Phillips Russell. The count was 61 votes to 56.

This special election was held because of the failure of any of the four candidates originally nominated to gain a majority. Russell and Yandell finished above the other two candidates in the election December 6.

The voting yesterday was extremely light in comparison with the voting last week. The total vote cast for the nominees last Wednesday was 248 as compared with 117 in yesterday's ballot.

The election this year was held to fill the vacancy left by Vance Young who was chosen in the regular elections last spring. Young was unable to return to school this year.

The contest was scheduled by Morty Ellisberg, president of the class, by the power vested in him by the Student council upon his appointment earlier in the quarter. The position Ellisberg now holds was left vacant by Russell Mickle who also failed to return to school this year.

The class also voted to raise the dues of the class 25 cents. This was necessary to meet the budget, passed formerly by the class, which calls for expenditures greater than the amount which would be collected without the increase. The dues next quarter will be 75 cents because of this.

Attendance was not required at the meeting yesterday.

Startled Scribes Scurry At Blasts

The Civil Works program turned temporarily into a fire works program at Graham Memorial yesterday afternoon when dynamite was called in to help in ditch-digging.

The explosive was planted on the path directly in front of one of the windows of the DAILY TAR HEEL office, and when the foremen called a warning to the news-hawks, the latter scurried to the other side of the building for shelter.

Two shots were set off, and when the noise had ceased, the writers who had fled unstopped their ears, essayed grins, and several muttered: "Aw, I wish I'd gotten here in time to see it."

MONEY GIVEN FOR VALLEY PROJECT

Dr. T. J. Woolfer, Head of Social Research in Tennessee Valley Work, Begins Task.

Dr. T. J. Woolfer of the sociology department, appointed by President Roosevelt last spring to head social research in connection with the Tennessee valley project, announced yesterday that the Tennessee valley authority has received an allotment from the Civil Works administration in Washington to be used in social research concerning the project.

This work will be carried on in all of the seven states included in the valley, namely: Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia. The research will cover rural sanitation, soil rotation control, educational studies, studies of local government, and family income and welfare.

The study will be a federal project, and the personnel will not come out of the regular quotas allotted the states in which the work will be done. It will be administered directly from the Tennessee valley headquarters in Knoxville. The work will begin December 15 and will extend over a two month period ending February 15.

This summer Woolfer spent four months in Knoxville organizing research in the colleges in the valley area. This work was a part of the Southern Regional study, of which Dr. Howard W. Odum, of the sociology department is the head, which has been conducted at the University for the past two years.

TAR HEEL SUSPENDS PUBLICATION TODAY

With today's issue, the DAILY TAR HEEL suspends publication until January 4, when the first number of the winter quarter will be distributed.

Classes for the winter term will begin at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, January 3.

BAILEY WILL DISCUSS PLANS OF STATE BAR

"The Plans of the New State Bar" will be the subject of a talk by I. M. Bailey of Raleigh, president of the incorporated state bar, in the first-year classroom of Manning hall this morning at 12:00 o'clock.

Bailey's talk is one of a series to be delivered before the law school by prominent men and state officials.

RELATIONS CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS FOR NEXT TERM

Organization Prepares for Greater Activity During Winter.

To rejuvenate the International Relations club by reorganization, about 25 students met in Graham Memorial Tuesday night.

The club conducted the election of an executive committee of five members, a secretary, and additional secretaries of correspondence and publicity.

Beginning with the winter quarter, meetings will take place every other Sunday evening. Subjects of popular interest will be discussed at club meetings in open forum and by recognized authorities.

The five members serving on the newly-created executive committee are S. Barefoot, C. K. Carmichael, Ralph Gardner, Billy Pitt, and H. E. Riggs. John Barrow was elected general secretary; W. C. Benson, corresponding secretary; and Donald Becker, secretary of publicity.

MURCHISON HAS PAPER PUBLISHED

Commerce Professor's Article in Virginia Quarterly Is Called Very Important.

The south must oppose the growing economic nationalism of the country in view of its own welfare, Professor Claudius Murchison of the commerce school writes in an article in the January 1934 Virginia Quarterly Review.

To stimulate foreign buying of southern products, the south should support war debt cancellation and devaluation of the dollar, Murchison declares. Among other points made in the article are the following:

The south should oppose the raising of tariff rates to the point of reducing imports, thus causing the decrease of exports, since the section is dependent on the export trade to foreign countries and to other sections.

Culturally and economically the south is built upon cotton culture, yet southerners persist in upholding the policies of Buy American, collecting war debts, high tariffs, though each of these movements will seriously damage the south's export trade.

Professor Murchison also predicts that a continuation of economic nationalism will force the south into medievalism, and that even the benefits of the NRA will not save the south from acute agricultural maladjustments.

Professor Murchison's article is described by the University of Virginia news service as "one of the most important articles that has ever been published by the Virginia Quarterly Review."

CAMPUS LEADERS MEET

Heads of student activities and faculty members connected with student activities met at Graham Memorial last night for the first of a series of banquets planned for them by the student union. Proposed changes in the set-up of the Publications Union board and recent developments in the enforcement of the honor code were discussed. Graham Memorial will sponsor one of these banquets each quarter.

PROPOSED MERGER VETOED BY BOARD

P. U. Board Votes Against Plan To Consolidate Finances with Student Audit System.

The Publications Union board by a three to two majority voted yesterday against complete consolidation of the board finances with the Student Audit system. A separate account as is now operated will be continued.

Yesterday's session was the third held by the organization for the express purpose of discussing the expediency of the proposal that the board merge its fund with those held by the Student Audit board. Opinions of several prominent members of the commerce faculty recommended that no change be made.

The board will meet again this morning at 10:30 o'clock in Bingham hall to discuss several small matters that must be attended to before the holidays.

PLAN ENTERTAINMENTS DURING HOLIDAYS HERE

All students except Chapel Hill residents who plan to stay here during the Christmas vacation should turn their names and local addresses in at the Y. M. C. A. before the end of examinations, said Harry F. Comer yesterday.

The community of Chapel Hill is anxious to get their names, regardless of class, in order that they may include them in Christmas activities. There will also be given definitely one or more student parties at Graham Memorial during the holidays.
