SAINT-GAUDENS SPEAKS TONIGHT AT 8:30 O'CLOCK

Arts Director of Carnegie Institute to Give Reminiscences Of Renowned Father.

FORMER NEWSPAPER MAN

Homer Saint-Gaudens, who will lecture tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the auditorium of Hill music hall on the works of his father, Augustus Saint-Gaudens, famous sculptor, is brought to the University through the generosity of Mrs. Katherine Pendleton Arrington and the American Federation of Art.

The younger Saint-Gaudens, after his graduation from Harvard, where he was captain of the fencing team, was a reporter on the New York Sun.

Later he entered the theatre and specialized in stage lighting. He was with Maude Adams in "Peter Pan," and directed several other plays, including "Beyond the Horizon" and "The Red Robe."

War Record

When the war came, Saint-Gaudens went to France as captain of the first camouflage organization. He was honorably discharged in 1919 and is now lieutenant-colonel in the Engineers Reserve corps.

He is an officer in the French Legion D'Honneur and a chevalier in the Belgian Order of Leopold.

At present, Saint-Gaudens is director of the department of fine arts of the Carnegie Institute. Under his directorship, the institute's international exhibition of contemporary paintings has grown in importance

PRESS RELEASES HISTORICAL WORK

"Unionism and Reconstruction In Tennessee" Tells of Civil War Struggles.

W. T. Couch, director of the University press, announced yesterday the release of "Unionism and Reconstruction in Tennessee" by James Welch Patton, professor of history at Converse College.

This book tells the story of how Tennessee seceded under the leadership of her politicians, of the struggle between the factions in the state during the war period, and the radical rule which followed.

It is the purpose of the study to trace the history of the commonwealth of Tennessee through the turbulent, bewildered, and unhappy period from 1860-1869, to show the forces and factors that kept the state from seceding until the pressure of events proved that neutrality would be impossible; the factors and events that contributed to its early restoration to the Union, the policy of the reconstruction governor, and the changes that occurred in it in response to the demands of the radical party at Washington, and to estimate the ultimate effect of this policy upon the state.

To these topics are added chapters dealing with the Freedman's bureau and the Ku Klux Klan, bridging a gap in the story that would otherwise be caused by the omission of an account of these picturesque and important institutions.

Welfare Board Votes To Permit Co-eds To Visit At Fraternities

University co-eds will be allowed to visit approved fraternity houses from 1:00 o'clock in the afternoon until the curfew hour as a result of proposals passed yesterday by the Administrative Board of the Division of Student Welfare at the regular weekly meeting of the group. The recommendation was drawn up last week by a special committee composed of Mrs. Marvin Stacy, Dean F. F. Bradshaw, Irvin Boyle, and Janie Jolly.

Fraternities, before receiving women guests, must first make application to Mrs. M. H. Stacy at South building for the privilege of entertaining co-eds.

Fraternities Responsible

Lodges in applying for the privilege of entertaining women students must agree to accept the responsibility for the administering of the following provisions drawn up by the board:

"Only the social rooms, halls, porches, and dining rooms, on the first floor will be open to women students; there will be no visiting in other parts of the house.

"During these hours there will be no drinking or serving of intoxicating drinks. The atmosphere of the place will be that of any well regulated home.

"We agree to accept our responsibility in seeing that the program, as a whole, is carried out satisfactorily and successfully. That is, we agree to report any breach of this trust that comes to our attention on the part of any fraternity to both the Interfraternity council and to the president of the Woman's association."

Failure of a fraternity which receives permission to entertain guests to comply with the rules outlined above will result in the withdrawal for a period of three months of that fraternity's right to entertain women.

Other recommendations brought up before the board include a proposal, presented by A. T. Dill, that there be a revival of the vocational and placement bureau at the University. Mrs. Stacy, speaking on the women rooming in Graham dormitory, said there had been no trouble about the new method and that "everything was getting along beautifully." It was also reported that the responsibility for not employing self-help students in CWA projects had been definitely placed upon state authorities.

OPERA MONUMENT TO ITS CREATORS

"Princess Ida," to Be Produced By Playmakers, Was First Staged in January, 1884.

"Princess Ida," or "Castle Adamant," which the Carolina Playmakers will produce February 1, 2, and 3, is an operatic monument to the talents of a humorist and a musician.

Gilbert and Sullivan met first in 1870. Each had already attained fame, Gilbert as a dramatist and Sullivan as a musician. They formed a creative partnership in 1871 which continued for nearly 20 years.

"Princess Ida" was the recast of a charming and witty fantasia, "The Princess," which Gilbert had written some years previously and had then described as a "respectful perversion of Mr. Tennyson's exquisite poem."

Produced in 1884

Produced first by the Savoy theatre January 5, 1884, "Princess Ida," is an example of the contribution of Gilbert and Sullivan to the English stage.

During the opening performance an enthusiastic Frenchman "mais-ouied" into the Green room where Gilbert was, gushing exclamations of its success. Gilbert said he thought the Frenchman wanted him to kiss all the carpenters.

As partners in composition Gilbert and Sullivan were more compatible than is usual with collaborators. Each appreciated criticism from the other, often asking for it and abiding by it.

About 1891, however, the partnership was dissolved because of disagreement over a financial matter. Each tried to collaborate with other authors without success. After a few years the two realized their complementary necessity and assumed the partnership again.

Sullivan, the musician, could play all the wind instruments in his father's band at the age

YOUNG DEMOCRATS TO CONVENE HERE

Executive Committee of State Clubs Will Make Plans for Jackson Day Dinner.

Executive committee of the Young Democratic clubs of North Carolina will meet at a dinner session in Graham Memorial Saturday night at 7:00 o'clock to plan for a Jackson Day dinner, which will be given in the Raleigh auditorium March 17, 1934.

The immediate business of this meeting will be to discuss speakers and a program for the March 17th event. In a meeting last Saturday at the Washington-Duke it was decided to make it not merely a Young Democratic meeting but a party rally, and the Committee of Arrangements in Raleigh is planning to accommodate from 1000 to 1500 Democrats.

Significant Sessions

Jackson Day dinners always have a definite political significance, Ehringhaus and Bailey's reception at former dinners predicted accurately their subsequent success at the polls. The State Congressional delegation and all the party leaders of the state will be invited.

The tentative program consists of a reception at the auditorium from 6:30 until 8:00 o'clock, a banquet from 8:00 until 10:00 o'clock, and a dance following. Delegations from every county of the state are expected to participate.

The chief speaker will be some person of national significance, and the names of Speaker Rainey, Senator Barkley, and Senator Harrison, and that of General Hugh Johnson have been prominently suggested.

The governor of the state will introduce the principal speaker. It is believed that some Young Democrat will present in a brief speech the standing of the Young Democratic clubs in relation to the present party ten-

er Dance to Regular Smoker

Freshman chapel period yesterday morning was devoted to a short business meeting of the class, at which President Nate Lipscomb told of the work of the executive committee and conducted the routine business of the meeting.

It was voted by the class to give a dance instead of the usual smoker, at a date to be announced later. Joe Greer, treasurer, submitted a budget for the year which was unanimously accepted by the members.

THREE BILLS ON SENATE PROGRAM

Discussion of Co-operative Cleaners to Feature Meeting.

The Di senate has three bills on the calendar for discussion at the meeting to be held tonight at 7:00 o'clock in the senate chamber on the top floor of New West.

The first bill to be discussed is: Resolved: That the student co-operative cleaners constitute a violation of the principles of fair competition and should be placed under the NRA code for cleaners.

The remaining two bills are: Resolved: That the student entertainment programs should have more emphasis placed upon pure entertainment than upon cultural advancement; Resolved: That the Publications Union board has the authority to create scholarship funds for use by members of the publications staffs only from money which has been contributed by the student body at large.

PHI WILL DISCUSS FOUR OLD BILLS

Bills Postponed Because of Initiation to Be Discussed Today.

Due to initiation ceremonies at the last meeting of the Phi assembly, the same bills will be discussed at the meeting tonight at 7:00 o'clock in New East:

Resolved: That the co-operative cleaners association be abolished as violators of the NRA code of fair competition; Resolved: That congress pass President Roosevelt's budget bill; Resolved: That co-eds should not be allowed to visit fraternity houses; and Resolved: That the University borrow money from the PWA to construct a gymnasium and swimming pool.

The publications committee, composed of Clarence Griffin and W. C. Durfee, will announce data concerning the publication of the Phi constitution.

SAUNDERS TO SPEAK AT SOPH ASSEMBLY

J. Maryon Saunders, editor of the Alumni Review and secretary of the University Alumni Loyalty Fund, will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the sophomore class tomorrow.

This will be the first meeting of the class this quarter and will take place in Gerrard hall. Sophomores are to take their assigned seats as attendance will be checked.

Ec, Commerce Seniors

All seniors majoring in commerce and economics who expect to take their comprehensive examinations this quarter will meet with Professor J. G. Evans this morning at 10:30 o'clock in 113 Bingham hall.

Snavely To Be Honored At Banquet-Reception

New Grid Coach

Pictured above is Carl Snavely who will be honored tonight at a banquet and reception as a token of welcome to his new post at the University.

Bucknell Star Lauds Snavely

Clark Hinkle, All-American Fullback, Says New Coach Will Be Admired by All.

(Special to the DAILY TAR HEEL)

Toronto, Ohio, Jan. 23—In response to a wire sent him yesterday by the DAILY TAR HEEL, Clark Hinkle, all-American fullback under Coach Snavely at Bucknell a few years back, voiced assurance that the new coach will soon win the admiration and support of the entire University.

In his telegram Hinkle said, "Coach Snavely has one of the most pleasing personalities of any coach that I have played under. He is a clean liver, morally upright, and a good builder and organizer. He is a thorough student of the game, well known for his sound system of football, combining the Warner, Zuppke, and Rockne systems. This system is noted for its power to win against greater odds.

"You will find him a very shrewd observer. He has a habit of staring off into space apparently thinking of nothing, but in reality he is either studying his men or looking up a new play. His mind is continually on football, morning, noon, and night.

"My four years at Bucknell were made more pleasant due to the fact that I was able to play under such a high type of individual. He refrains from using obscene language on the field or off and demanded a great respect from the Bucknell faculty due to his manner of approach in showing an athlete the proper way things should be done. I feel that North Carolina has been very fortunate in getting Carl Snavely. My kindest regards to him, and the best of success to the North Carolina Tar Heels in sport."

Bedtime Story

The following students were confined to the University infirmary yesterday: Lane Barksdale, Kenneth Froneberger, P. D. Gelliam, D. J. Grantham, R. B. Hardison, J. R. Lothian, J. A. Mann, John McInnis, M. J. McGill, R. C. Page, Jr., Harold Rutter, Joe Sirianni, Sarah Vann, J. M. Voegtlen, and Mary Webb.

Varsity Lettermen, Non-Lettermen and Freshman Numeral Winners to Be Present.

RECEPTION TO BE AT 8:30

All Students Urged to Come to Open Reception for Coach At Graham Memorial.

At its meeting last night the Order of the Grail voted unanimously to bear the expense of feeding all lettermen and non-lettermen of last year's football squad who have another year of eligibility, and also all freshman numeral winners of last year, at the banquet in honor of Coach Snavely. The Order also voted to have its second dance of the winter quarter in honor of Coach Snavely Friday night in Bynum gym from 9:30 to 1:00 o'clock.

The DAILY TAR HEEL, assisted by the University club, Graham Memorial, the Athletic council, the Monogram club, the Grail, and other campus organizations completed plans last night for the banquet and reception for Coach Snavely which is set for tonight in Graham Memorial.

The banquet will begin at 6:45 o'clock and will be attended by members of the Athletic council, members of the faculty, captains of the various athletic teams, delegates from the Grail and the University club, members of the coaching staff, sports writers in the state, lettermen and non-lettermen on varsity squad and winners of freshman numerals in football this fall.

At the banquet, Coach Snavely will be introduced to those

COACH TO SPEAK AT SOPH SMOKER

Snavely to Be Guest at Sophomore Event Thursday; Reed Expected to Be Present.

Carolina's new coach of football, Carl Snavely, will be the guest and principal speaker at the regular sophomore smoker which will take place in Swain hall Thursday. Maxwell Reed, assistant coach is also expected to be present at the smoker.

The committee for the smoker has made arrangements for music, food and cigarettes for the second-year men attending. After the smoker there will be a free show for the members of the class. E. Carrington Smith, manager of the local movie house makes a practice of giving free shows to the various classes when they have smokers.

Besides Snavely and Reed other speakers are expected to be present at the smoker. Coach "Bob" Fetzer, athletic director at the University has agreed to be present, and an effort will be made to have a member of the University administration at the smoker also.

Members of the sophomore executive committee who are making arrangements for the smoker are: Billy Yandell, Jim Jackson, Francis Fairley, Walter Graham, and Jack Lowe.

The smoker will begin at 8:30 o'clock, and the show will take place at 11:00 o'clock. "By Candlelight" will be the feature shown to the second-year men.
