

MAGICIAN TALKS, EXHIBITS PHASES OF ART TONIGHT

John Mulholland, Comparing Skill in Magic to Dramatic Performance, Will Present Illustrated Lecture on His Profession at 8:30 O'clock.

IS ONE OF STUDENT SERIES

John Mulholland, famous magician who appears on a student entertainment program tonight at 8:30 o'clock in Memorial hall, differs from the other members of his trade in that he denies mysticism in any part in magic and refutes the popular belief that the hand is quicker than the eye.

In addition to his insistence that magic is mental, not visual, Mulholland declares that special apparatus and concealed pockets are not nearly so important as the lay public believes. "Magic," he says, "is a highly specialized form of acting and not a combination of rapid juggling and an exhibition of mechanics."

Like Drama

Continuing his comparison between the principles of drama and of magic, Mulholland believes that the audience in both cases derive their joy from being deceived, and that, when the illusion is broken by a premature divulging of the plot or by poor acting on the part of the performer, the spectators are bitterly disappointed.

Mulholland is considered an authority on the history of magicians and the lore of the art. His program will take the form of a lecture on all phases of the art accompanied by various feats of magic.

FOLK-DRAMATIST GETS FELLOWSHIP

Loretto Carroll Bailey Receives Nine-Month Fellowship from Rockefeller Fund for Playwriting and Aiding Negro Drama.

Announcement was made at the closing session of the Carolina Dramatic Festival Saturday night that the Rockefeller Foundation, which recently aided the Playmakers by a gift of $7,500, has again assisted in encouraging native drama by awarding a fellowship in playwriting to Loretto Carroll Bailey. The amount of the fellowship is $1,080 to be used over a period of nine months, beginning September 1, 1934.

Her work will be in playwriting and also among the Negro dramatic groups of the state. A letter from the Foundation states:

"We understand that you intend to devote the nine months covered by this appointment to the study of playwriting and production under the supervision of Professor Koch, and to an investigation of dramatic work in the Negro schools and colleges of North Carolina. It is understood that you expect during the period to continue directing the work of the Negro dramatic group at Shaw University."

Folk Plays

Mrs. Bailey has studied the folk drama of this region for a long while, and is the author of a number of folk plays produced by the Carolina Playmakers. Among these are "Job's Kinfolks," published in the third series of "Carolina Folk Plays" and "Cloy," published in Carolina Folk Comedies. With her husband, J. O. Bailey, she wrote "Strike Song," a successful full-length play of industrial troubles in Marion and Gastonia, North Carolina.

During the time in which she holds the fellowship, Mrs. Bailey expects to write and produce a full-length play which will be presented as a feature of next year's Playmaker season, and also to write a number of one-act dramas.

Man On Flying Trapeze Entangles Y.M.C.A. Acee In Net With John Law

Six University Students Contribute Total of $11.60 to Township Of Carrboro for Privilege of Singing Praises of Daring Young Man While Returning from Swimming Party.

There is no poetry in the soul of the minute, neighboring town of Carrboro. Not even that extraordinary gentleman, the man on the flying trapeze who has recently captivated the entire singing body on the campus, has any appeal for officialdom one mile outside of Chapel Hill.

Six University students, among them John Acee, the mild, reserved president of the Y. M. C. A., were obliged yesterday to pay the township of Carrboro $11.60 for the privilege of singing the praises of the daring young man.

The six villains, having completed a pleasant swimming junket, returned through Carrboro, vocalizing the exploits of the trapeze artist. Except for incidental touches their singing was in a low tone. But as they stretched one of the "Ohhs" they were halted by a dour-looking citizen who asked naively what they were doing.

Have to See Mayor

"Singing," was the uncertain reply.

"Well you'll have to see the mayor about that."

Yesterday afternoon the half-dozen blackguards marched into the courtroom where the mayor read out the warrant against them. The admirers of the trapeze artist, it seems, were disturbing the peace.

They were not a little astonished when the man who had stopped them the day before

COBB ADVOCATES PEACE FOR WORLD

"Nothing can save the world but a heightened spiritual consciousness of world brotherhood," stated Dr. Stanwood Cobb, former professor at Roberts College, Constantinople, last night in Gerrard hall.

"Selfishness is the reason for the wrongs today between nations. Self-centered emotions must be ruled, and instead of ruling emotions by intelligence, we allow our emotions to use our intelligence as a tool.

Dr. Cobb stated that there must be universal education and an international language to bring more cooperation between lands.

Efforts Underway To Create Student Foreign Policy League

A group of University students interested in public affairs are at present making an effort to establish an organization through which student opinion may express itself upon current matters relating to the foreign policy of our government.

The college student is frequently aware of problems of international politics upon which the government must declare its attitude but there are few opportunities afforded him to express his opinion to those charged with the responsibility of conducting the relations of the United States with foreign governments.

In British universities there is a definite organization which serves this purpose. It is hoped that there may be built up here in the University a similar organization which will permit its members to express definite at-rose to speak in their defense. Arguing that their singing had caused no real damage, he urged leniency for them.

His honor pondered the question, spoke at length on how easy he would be, and then uttered his judgment. Stating that they had been willfully driving down the main street, singing and shouting and disturbing the public peace, he charged them $11.60 court costs and bade them be gone.

Flour for the Mayor

Later on, one of the party recalled that as the car had been stopped, an anonymous individual sitting close by had murmured, "There's six bags of flour for the mayor."

The students who were so interested in the exploits of the flying trapeze were, in addition to Acee, John Dapp, Hershey, William St. Julien Jervay, Walter Patton, W. C. Scott, and John Rainey.

Acee's only comment on the affair was, "I think it was a lousy deal." Hershey, however, insisted, "I was just one of the Goon girls."

Since the payment of the fine there has been no slackening of interest in the man on the flying trapeze. All of the dastardly individuals have gone right on singing lustily of the marvelous gentleman. Their only desire is to hear the strains of the air come blowing over from the righteous town of Carrboro.

DI WILL INITIATE DR. W. M'NIDER

President Frank Graham Will Attend Initiation Ceremony Tonight as First Faculty Member Enters Organization.

Dr. William deB. MacNider of the medical school will be initiated into membership in the Dialectic senate at its meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock. President Frank Porter Graham will attend the meeting.

Dr. MacNider will be the first member of the faculty to become an active member in either of the campus literary organizations. President Oettinger of the senate hopes that other faculty members will follow this example.

In honor of the occasion an invitation to attend has been extended to all alumni of the senate in the faculty and among the residents of Chapel Hill and Orange county. A large attendance is expected.

President Oettinger has also invited any member of the student body who is at all interested in the activities of the senate to attend the meeting with the privilege of being brought up for membership in the group, should the student so desire. It is the aim of the present administration of the senate to stimulate interest in the work of the literary societies which has been allowed to lapse for the past few years.

Several bills which were left over from the calendar for last quarter will be brought up. In addition the bill, Resolved: That the University adopt a marking system of pass and fail with the professor keeping secret grades for the benefit of those interested in Phi Beta Kappa, will be discussed.

Editorial Board Meeting

There will be a meeting of the DAILY TAR HEEL editorial board in Graham Memorial tonight at 10:00 o'clock. The meeting is called for the purpose of organizing the board and present members not attending will be dropped from the staff.

JUNIORS, SENIORS SELECT LEADERS FOR DANCE GROUP

Upset Occurs in Pre-Arranged Elections When Will Sadler Withdraws and George Moore Is Elected; Commencement Marshals Also Picked.

OTHERS SWEEP INTO OFFICE

With clock-work precision characterizing their nominations, junior-senior dance leaders and commencement marshals were swept into office last night at the joint meeting of the classes in Gerrard hall. Little opposition to the pre-arranged nomination was evident.

One upset occurred, however, in the election of George Moore as sixth assistant junior dance leader. A vote to decide between nominees Paul Kaveny, Will Sadler, John Brabson, Leo Manley, Harold Bennett, and George Moore resulted in no majority, and the run-off between high men Kaveny and Moore gave the latter the election.

One of the fore-going nominees, Will Sadler, withdrew his name before a vote was taken.

Wilson Nominated

With C. T. Woollen, Jr., chairman of the senior dance committee, presiding, the fourth-year men began their elections by nominating Hilliard Wilson as senior leader. Wilson's nomination was over-shadowed by the near-unanimous election of Virgil Weathers, president of the senior class, to the office. This followed mention from the floor that it was customary for the senior chief executive also to act as leader of the dance.

HOUSE CENSURES STUDENT CONDUCT

Executive Secretary Says Present Generation of Students Shows Less Regard for Property Than Preceding Groups.

Robert B. House, executive secretary of the University, addressed the freshman class in their regular assembly yesterday morning in Memorial hall on the subject, "Being a Gentleman at Carolina."

In his address, various phases of conduct of the students at the University were criticized by House, among them being the extensive walking on the grass; conduct while in the offices of members of the faculty and administration; actions in the movies; bumming rides; and profanity and obscenity around dormitories and fraternity houses.

Individual Duty

"The idea of being a gentleman is not a thing to be taken lightly, but is an individual responsibility," said the speaker. "The idea of being a gentleman can not be defined or enforced, but it is up to the individual in his own conscience," he continued.

House stated that the present generation of students has shown less regard for property belonging to the University, and has defaced the campus as has no other. He also said that a great deal of the ungentlemanliness that goes on around the campus and elsewhere is done in the spirit of fun, but the real harm is done in the course of that fun.
