William and Mary, Judson College, Queens-Chicora, and Randolph-Macon Report.

DANIELS SENDS THANKS

Favorable reports from several southern colleges were read before the meeting of the Foreign Policy League last night with regard to co-operation with pose to give practical instruction the league in the petition which it has prepared to send to President Roosevelt.

Among those colleges to reply and offer their support were: William and Mary, Queens-Chicora, Judson College, and Randolph-Macon. The students at Randolph-Macon acted immediately and sent their petition to the president with some 300 signatures attached.

The petition reads as follows We, the undersigned, do hereby memorialize the President of the United States, the Secretary of State, and the State department (1) to actively support the objectives of, and the participants in, the conference on the limitation and reduction of arma ments to be reassembled at Geneva on May 29th, and (2) to insist that some disarmament agreement, however, small, but POOL ANNOUNCES for further reductions, be reached at this time.

Gains Recognition

The league is already gaining recognition off the campus. A letter was read at the meeting from John Lang, who is connected with the National Student Government association, asking for information concerning the work, the organization, and plans for the future of the group. Lang also complimented the members of the league for the work already accomplished with which he is familiar.

President Gardner read a letter which he had received from Josephus Daniels, United States ambassador to Mexico, who spoke to the student body on affairs in Mexico at a recent student convocation. Mr. Daniels stated that he was extremely grateful for the courtesy shown to him while he was in Chapel

BULLETIN PRINTS TALK BY GROVES

University of Iowa Journal Publishes Address on Marriage.

The July 7th issue of the bulletin of the University of Iowa is devoted entirely to a speech which was given there by Dr. Ernest R. Groves of the University department of sociology on November 1933, on the subject, "Marriage and Modern Life."

"People no longer marry for any purpose other than that they expect to find satisfaction The system will be the same in marriage itself," states Dr. Groves. He then shows what are some of the factors with which marriage has to contend. and will be about twice the size The outstanding ones of these factors are: intolerance of poor circumstances, the necessity for a mutual satisfaction, the existence of competitive influences, and the weakening of tradition.

It is Dr. Groves' contention that in the face of these changes which are taking place in the world's viewpoint toward marriage, education for marriage is not only desirable but also a The gift was picked by a com- practical necessity for the successful continuance of the marriage institution.

"It is futile to talk about the means education for marriage and family life along all linesin grade schools, in high schools, in colleges, adult education, and church education."

> The University Press announed yesterday the publication of a new book by Professor Thomas F. Hickerson, head of the civil department of the school of engineering, entitled "Structural Frameworks: A New Method of Analysis, With Tables."

> This book contains a new method for analyzing the bending stresses in buildings, bridges, bents, viaducts, and other framed structures. Professor Hickerson has been working for several years on an original calculation of stresses.

The value of this new method of analysis lies in its simplicity and the shorter time that is required to reach the solution of the problem.
