Torchlight Parade To Precede Pep Rally At Emerson Tonight

Torches to Be Sold In Dormitory Stores

Procession to Commence from Cameron Fraternity Court
At 7:15 O'clock.

A gigantic pep rally will be held tonight in Emerson field at 8:00 o'clock in preparation for tomorrow's game with Tennessee, it was announced yesterday by Frank Willingham as a result of the University club meeting last night.

A torch light parade starting at 7:15 o'clock from Cameron Fraternity court will be staged before the rally in Emerson field.

Parade Route

The parade will proceed down Cameron avenue, past Swain hall and the Old Well to Emerson field where the torches will be laid on a bonfire. Music will be played by the University band, and Rameses III will lead the procession.

Torches will be on sale for ten cents at the Old Well, the dormitory stores, and fraternity court.

In case of rain the rally will be held in Memorial hall, Willingham stated.

At the University club meeting last night plans were also discussed for Homecoming Day and for obtaining colored cards for the use of the Cheerios at the game tomorrow.

Primitive Spirituals In "Green Pastures"

Marc Connelly Weaves Songs
Found in Bayou Section of Old South Into Drama.

Negro spirituals that seem to belong to the primitive religious rites of deepest Africa, may be heard in a few isolated bayou districts of the old south, but to the more civilized America they are unknown.

Marc Connelly, while visiting Roark Bradford, the author of "Ol' Man Adam and his Children," visited these remote bayou areas, and wove some of these unusual spirituals into the "Green Pastures."

Much of the dramatic effect of the "Green Pastures" is obtained from the Heavenly Choir's singing of Negro spirituals. Hall Johnson's famed choir has added something unique to the development of the American theatre.

Exalt the Blind

One drama critic asserts that the music in the play "is so lovely and so poignant in devout praise and sad yearning that even the blind can be exalted by a trip to the 'Green Pastures'."

There is one scene which, during the four year run of the play, received the greatest acclaim. It is the scene in which Moses, having led the children of Israel through the desert for forty years, is dying of old age as the very end of the journey is reached. The shouts of the Hebrews at Jericho can be heard as "de Lawd" leads the aged Moses up to Heaven, and the Heavenly Choir sings "Joshua Fit de Battle of Jericho."

Weaver Made Instructor

W. R. Weaver has been promoted from Spanish teaching fellow to instructor, taking Dr. A. K. Shields' place in this department of the University.

RADIO BROADCAST

Due to an error at the broadcasting station yesterday, the radio program sponsored by the University club will take place over station WDNC in Durham this afternoon from 5:45 until 6:15 o'clock instead.

BERNSTEIN GIVES TALK ON MONEY

State Professor Advocates Managed Money in Address at Year's First Seminar.

Dr. E. M. Bernstein, of State College, spoke on the subject, "The Role of Money in Economic Progress" at the opening meeting of the economics seminar Wednesday evening. This meeting is the first of a weekly series of seminars planned to last through December 12.

"Those economists and business men who oppose a managed currency and advocate reliance on an automatic gold standard in the interest of historical continuity have misread the monetary history" declared Dr. Bernstein.

Managed Money Practical

"Managed money antidotes the gold standard. Moreover, the gold standard as it has been employed in the past by leading European nations and the United States has not been purely automatic. The use of bank credit and government currency along with metallic money has introduced an element of management substantial in degree and reasonably successful in execution," he continued.

In the light of historical experimentation, therefore, Dr. Bernstein advanced the view that a managed currency was a practical measure.

Spruill Next Speaker

In answer to the query, "If money is subject to effective management, towards what objectives should the policies be directed?" the speaker outlined the proposal that "Monetary authorities should control the media of investment and exchange to the end that the factors of production could be comfortably employed through time and the area of price and business fluctuations be as narrowly restricted as a complex economic machine would permit."

Following the presentation of the proposal advanced by Dr. Bernstein a protracted and vigorous discussion materialized. The seminar next Wednesday will be conducted by Dr. Spruill of the economics department.

FORMER EDITOR SURE HEELS WILL WIN NEXT

"Bet my last shirt on Heels against Tennessee," wired Claiborn ("Benny") Carr, last year's editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL, to the present editor yesterday.

Carr, who was also one of the founders of the University club, is now attending Harvard business school.

"What is wrong with you and King Lear," he upbraids the editor. "Get Chief Putrescence (Jimmy) Morris to put my name on subscription list and send my child to me. Lonesome for the baby. Regards to entire staff and poor printers."

HEAD OF COUNCIL TELLS YEARLINGS ABOUT PLEDGING

No Student Holding Scholarship, Loan, or Self-Help Job Will Be Allowed to Pledge.

DISTRIBUTE BIDS MONDAY

Harold Bennett, president of the Interfraternity council, explained the process of fraternity pledging yesterday in freshman chapel.

He said that each boy who receives an invitation to join a fraternity will receive a letter from the dean of students Sunday saying to come to Memorial hall Monday at 2:00 o'clock. This letter will not say how many or which fraternities have sent the addressee invitations.

One Dollar Pledge Fee

After paying the one dollar pledge fee, the boy will take a seat in the auditorium on the right or left of the center aisle, facing the stage, according to his last name. All whose names begin with a letter between A and M will sit on the right; all between N and Z, on the left.

Having written his first three choices of fraternities on a blank supplied him for the purpose and having handed it in at the desk when called upon, each boy will be pledged to the fraternity of highest choice from which he has received an invitation. The pledger then will go silently to this fraternity.

Anyone having a 2:00 o'clock class should attend it, for the pledging committee will operate until 6:00 o'clock.

In order not to interfere with football practice, the committee will allow members of the football squad to pledge first.

Every one holding a scholarship, loan, or self-help job connected with the University is prohibited from joining a fraternity.

Dean Bradshaw explained that since rushing rules are in force only until 6:00 o'clock Monday, communication between fraternity and non-fraternity men and even pledging will be permissible after that time.

FOLEY QUESTIONS PREP SCHOOL BOY AS NEW WITNESS

October 11 Set as Date for Hauptmann Trial on Extortion by Action of Judge.

LITTLE NEW INFORMATION

New York, Oct. 4.—(UP)—District Attorney Samuel J. Foley of the Bronx today questioned Ben Lupica, a student of a prep school near Hopewell at the time of the Lindbergh kidnapping.

Lupica was reported to have seen Hauptmann near Hopewell about the time of the kidnapping.

Meanwhile Assistant District Attorney Breslin questioned a number of persons including J. A. Burgin, florist; Henry Uhlig, Hauptmann's pal; and Hans Mueller, Hauptmann's nephew. Little new information has been obtained.

The grand jury will be assembled sometime before Thursday, according to Prosecutor A. M. Hauck.

Suspect Had Maps

Importance is attached to the fact that Hauptmann possessed road maps of the Sourland Mountain region, Hunterdon county, N. J., near the Lindbergh home and had an intimate knowledge of the roads.

Five psychiatrists who examined Hauptmann yesterday will continue their examination tomorrow.

The psychiatric tests have been conducted behind closed doors in the office of District Attorney Foley. Two of the experts represent the state of New Jersey, two represent District Attorney Foley, and the fifth is the representative of the defense counsel.

New Jersey has sent representatives to the examinations in preparation for trial for actual kidnapping and murder charges with which Hauptmann will be confronted there.

The date of the trial in the Bronx on extortion has been definitely set for October 11, by the action of Judge James M. Barrett.

THREE STUDENTS TO LEAD FORUM

Phillips Russell Announces Methodist Student Meeting.

Three University students will talk at the Methodist church student forum Sunday night at 7:00 o'clock on "Christianity Looks at Progress," it was announced yesterday by R. Phillips Russell, president of the organization.

Maurice Winstead, Guy Phillips, and Melvin Gillie will speak briefly, and following their remarks a discussion will be held among the members. Margaret Howard will preside.

Music for the occasion will be rendered by the "Sunset Four," a quartet which has been broadcasting regularly over the radio.

Last Sunday Harold D. Meyer addressed the organization, and plans were made for a party which will be held at the University lake next Friday.

Student Council Retracts Former Plans For "Buc"

Pacifist

Mrs. Sherman Barnes, representative of the International Women's League for Peace and Freedom, who speaks here this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in Gerrard hall.

Worker For Peace To Give Talk Today

Mrs. Sherman Barnes, Former Student, to Speak in Gerrard Hall at 4:30 O'clock.

Mrs. Sherman Barnes, representative of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, will speak here this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in Gerrard hall under the auspices of the Foreign policy league.

A former student of the University, Mrs. Barnes is speaking here in connection with a tour of the south that she is making in the interests of peace legislation in the United States, and eventually world peace.

Issues Statement

Upon her arrival in Chapel Hill yesterday, Mrs. Barnes issued a statement of the reasons for interesting the south in peace legislation. "The south should lead the country in peace legislation," she said, "because it is not controlled by the corrupt munitions rings found in the north."

"Of the $129,000,000 of public works funds spent on the navy during the last fiscal year, not one cent went to southern workers. It is foolish for southern senators to support measures which benefit no one in the states which they represent," she continued.

Mrs. Barnes went on to give facts on armaments and the control of war propaganda through the press and the movies.

The meeting is being endorsed by various professors, their wives, townspeople, and the ministers of the different churches in Chapel Hill.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend this lecture.

LAW SCHOOL RECEPTION TO TAKE PLACE TONIGHT

Students who wish to play bridge instead of dancing are requested to let Miss Evens know as soon as possible.

NAME AND POLICY WILL BE CHANGED

Council Advises P. U. Board to Allocate Any Part of Publication Fees to Magazine.

Wiping its slate clean of all former action about the Buccaneer, the student council decided last night to rescind its provision for a new comic magazine.

Instead, the name and policy of the Carolina Buccaneer will be changed, said the minutes of the judicial body. "The student council recommends to the P. U. Board," as a further provision in the minutes, "that it allocate any part of the regular $2 publication fee that it sees fit to the revised humor magazine."

Reason

Provision for a "revised" Buccaneer instead of a "new" comic came about as a result of the collection of the publication fee for the Buccaneer this quarter. Since, as the council remarked, "fees cannot be changed or abolished without being put to a vote of the student body," no new magazine could be set up. It would have been without publication fees support, since those that were collected were collected for the express purpose of maintaining the Buccaneer.

Since the P. U. Board refused

INDUSTRY MOVES FOR VOICE IN NRA

Industrialists Answer Questionnaire Covering Every Phase Of Activity of Program.

Washington, Oct. 4.—(UP)—Industry made a definite move tonight to make its voice heard in plans for the future NRA setup.

The National Association of Manufacturers asked thousands of industrialists to answer 12 questions outlining their opinions concerning the future relations of the government to industry.

Every Phase Touched

These questions touch every phase of NRA activity and range from whether the act should be allowed to die peacefully next June or whether the states shouldn't be encouraged to enact legislation to permit general or sympathetic strikes.

From the replies received, industry will determine the stand which it will take when the new NRA legislation now in the state of preparation is sent to congress.

Meanwhile Donald J. Richberg, director of the new National Recovery board, in addressing a National Press club luncheon, demanded the return of "old time" business competition.

He blamed extremists in industry and labor for the disputes which have raged about the section of the recovery act which gives labor the right of collective bargaining.

Extension Assistant

Roy Armstrong, of the class of '26, field representative of the student survey office, is assisting the extension division in organizing extension and correspondence classes over the state, according to R. M. Grumman, extension director.
