

GRUMMAN SPEAKS AT FROSH CHAPEL

Extension Director Outlines Purposes of Extension Classes and Correspondence Courses.

R. M. Grumman, director of the extension division of the University, outlined the University correspondence course and extension classes to members of the freshman class at a chapel program yesterday.

Expressing his belief that the extension bureau is of interest to all students and the spirit of a modern state university, Grumman said, "For 22 years Carolina has recognized her responsibility to function in the interest of the people of the state by organizing in 1912 the extension service.

32,000 Enrolled

"Since that time, 32,000 persons have been enrolled either in the extension classes or in the correspondence school.

"At the outset, the division is committed to the ideal that education does not end at the school house door. Education is a process that continues through life. To be truly educated, one must educate himself. The extension division is one means of self-education."

Grumman continued by showing figures from past records claiming that 16 per cent of the freshman class drops out by the end of the first year. Figured on the present class of 765, this number would be 122. "By the sophomore year, 50 per cent will have fallen by the wayside," the extension director said.

"At graduation 73 per cent will have left school or, out of this class of 765, 558 will have gone." In reply to these figures, Grumman said, "Many students then find it impossible to go through school. Therefore, it is necessary for them to resort to some other means. According to that, some of you will be prospects for our study course."

The above attendance statistics are accurate only with respect to the beginning of the debate. The audience dwindled toward the end.

Crittenden Speaks To Raleigh Women

C. C. Crittenden of the history department addressed the Association of University Women last evening in Raleigh on "Bunk in North Carolina."

He pointed out the fallacies in the popular belief of the sanctified attitude toward the early Colonial women, the hardships they endured and the trials they were forced to undergo, and the absurdity of the anti-British attitude during the American Revolution.

The word "bunk" was first introduced in the vocabulary in 1820, when it was coined by members of Congress for the repeated speeches of Mr. Felix Walker, the congressman from Buncombe county, North Carolina, during the discussion of the Missouri Compromise.

overwhelmed Austin (Lewis) and received the decision by unanimous choice of the judges. After fighting to a draw for two rounds, Bass (Beta Theta Pi) threw caution to the winds and waded into Simmons (Independent) and gained the decision after a free-swinging battle.

Shores Gets K. O.

Shores (D.T.D.) and Kesselman (Aycock), both making their second appearance of the day, met each other in the semifinal of the 149-pound class. Kesselman, evidently tired from his previous encounter, was overwhelmed by Shores' two-fisted attack. Levinson awarded the fight to Shores after 35 seconds of the first round.

The next bout found boxer against slugger and, as in the preceding encounters, the slugger prevailed when Oliver (Ruffin) continued the hard-hitting he had displayed in the afternoon and forced the referee to stop the fight in one minute and 35 seconds of the third round. Schiffer (Aycock) was the victim.

In one of the fastest bouts of the night which was in doubt until the last round, Henderson (Mayflower) eked out a well-earned victory over De Veto (L.C.A.).

In the final fight of the evening Dunham (Swain Hall) and Hearn (Mangum) staged one of the hardest slugging matches so far in the tourney. Both boys were out on their feet the last 30 seconds of the fray, but Dunham kept plugging away mechanically to earn the decision.

The winners will meet for the finals tonight at 8 o'clock sharp in the Tin Can. Bleachers will be installed for the benefit of the spectators.
