

I See By The Papers

By Ira Sarasohn

This Saturday two closely matched teams will clash on Riddick field in Raleigh in what should be one of the hardest-fought games witnessed in this section of the country. State and Duke will attempt to determine the Conference and Big Five winners. A win for the Blue Devils will unquestionably make them Conference and Big Five champions.

BERLINSKI, ROBINSON vs. PARKER, HACKNEY:

Since 1924 Duke has won six games and State has taken five. The rivalry here is almost as intense as the one that exists between Duke and Carolina. Last year a weak State team bowed to the Wade-coached combine by some 30-odd points. Tomorrow it will be a different story. State's backs will not be overshadowed by Duke's Hackney, Parker, Alexander and the rest of the flashy Blue Devil runners. Berlinski, Robinson, Entwistle and Company have proved to be equally as speedy as the Durham men.

Parker can hardly expect to surpass Entwistle and Gadd's punting if the State men continue to maintain the same average they have maintained in the past games. As for shiftiness of each team's backs, we'd take Berlinski in preference to any one of the Duke stars.

Centered about Steve Sabol, the State line may turn in a better performance than the equally strong Duke forward wall.

WE PICK STATE:

With backfield and lines as evenly matched as they are, the outcome of the game will depend greatly on the better coached team. Although Wade is considered by many to be a better coach than Anderson, we'll disregard the fact as we're looking for a rougher State team to take the Methodists into camp by a small number of points. This prediction should surely place us in the good graces of David Clark, even if he isn't as sure of a victory over Duke as he was of one over us a few weeks ago.

DUKE-CAROLINA GAME—FRESHMAN VERSION:

Right here in Chapel Hill there will be plenty of excitement today and tomorrow. Today an inspired freshman team will attempt to beat one of the strongest Duke freshman teams that the Methodists have offered in recent years. But the story of that game is probably better told by Graham Gammon as he has followed the practices and games of the Tar Babies more than anyone on this staff. His story on this page will be much more accurate than any we could offer here and so we'll leave the facts and predictions on the game to Gammon.

SOUTHERN CONFERENCE MEET:

Speaking of Gammon reminds us of the cross-country meet that will be staged here Saturday. The meet will see some of the best harriers in the south running some five miles for the Southern Conference cross-country championship. Three of the favorites of the meet are Gammon of Carolina, Morse of Duke, and Davis of State. There is an outside chance that Conte, captain of the Carolina team, may finish in one of the "money" places in his last cross-country race. Conte has improved steadily since the beginning of the season and may prove to be the "dark horse" of the race.

For some strange reason cross-country meets don't draw half the crowds that this same sport draws in other sections of the country. It is not an uncommon sight here to see even as little as 50 people watching the finish of a grueling five-mile run. One possible reason that this sport draws such a small number of people here is that the races are usually dual meets and have only a small number of contestants. In a cross-country race held early this week in New York, almost every school within a radius of 200 miles entered a team. Several thousand people watched the race and it commanded lead stories on the sport pages of the metropolitan papers.

FROSH HARRIERS TO RUN SATURDAY

Will Oppose High Point High School Team

The freshman cross-country squad concluded their workouts for the High Point high school meet with a light practice session.

The meet with the High Point high school team will see the entire Carolina freshman squad entered in the race although Dale Ranson has decided to divide them up into three teams. The race will start at 11:05 with both the start and finish taking place at Emerson field.

The freshmen who will run in this race are Burns, Cheek, Christy, Dalton, Elliot, Gunn, Hall, Hendrix, Holdren, C. Hubbard, D. Hubbard, Monk, Russell, Rhodes, Sacrinty, Simmons, Swift, Underwood, Willis, Williams, and Wilkins.

This meet will be the last meet in which the freshmen will participate this year. As the only defeat which the freshmen have

Cavaliers Add Meet

The University of Virginia has added the University of Richmond to the 1936 boxing schedule for a match in Richmond on Saturday, Feb. 15, according to announcement by James G. Driver, graduate manager.

The bout between the Virginians and the Spiders will be their first ring meeting, and will probably take place in the Mosque where the Cavaliers defeated Yale's ringmen two seasons ago before a near capacity audience, numbering nearly 5,000.

This addition to the schedule will give Virginia seven dual meets in addition to two home tournaments, the 10th Southern Conference championship tournament on February 28 and 29 and the N. C. A. A. tryouts for the Olympic Games on March 27

(Continued on last page) encountered this year has been at the hands of the High Point team, the Tar Babies are hoping to prove that they are the better runners.

VARSIITY RUNNERS IN CONFERENCE MEET TOMORROW

Southern Conference Championship will be Determined On Local Course

CLOSES CURRENT SEASON

Four crack cross-country squads will race for the coveted Southern Conference plaque over the five mile course tomorrow at 11:30. The institutions who have entered teams in the meet are North Carolina State, Duke, Washington and Lee, and the University of North Carolina.

The Conference run will be preceded by a meet with Guilford College. Two Carolina varsity reserve teams will participate in this meet and they will be out to avenge the previous defeat at the hands of Guilford's strong harriers.

The Guilford meet will be over the 3.4 miles course, and will start and finish at Emerson field. The race is scheduled to start at 11:15.

Limit of Entries

The championship event is open to Southern Conference institutions only. Each team may enter 10 men, eight of whom may start the race although only the first five finishing for their respective teams will count in the team score.

The team which will represent Carolina in the Conference run will consist of the following men: Conte, Daniel, Gammon, Gardiner, Garland, Goldman, Kind, and Mark. There are some members of the varsity squad whose names do not appear on this list who may be chosen to run at the last minute.

The varsity reserves will be divided into two teams in their race against Guilford College. The reserves who will participate in this race are: Aberly, Anderson, D'Ascensio, Drake,

LAW SCHOOL TEAM BEATS RUFFIN, 9-0 TO GARNER CROWN

Win Gives Lawyers Dormitory Crown; Will Play for Campus Title Soon

KAVENY STARS ONCE MORE

Paced by the play of Kaveny and Bryan, Law School's eleven defeated Ruffin 9-0 yesterday to clinch top honors in the intramural loop for the second successive season.

Although they came within scoring distance several times, it was late in the last half before Law School could get anything past the alert Ruffin defense. Then, after the running and passing attack had bogged down, Kaveny booted a field goal from the 25-yard stripe for first blood. In their anxiety to overcome this lead, Ruffin opened up and began firing passes right and left. But this proved to be their undoing. Bryan, alert Law School end, intercepted one of these misguided aerials on the Ruffin 25-yard line and shook off all would-be tacklers to cross the goal for a six-pointer. The attempted placement for the extra point was wide.

Ruffin Tries Hard

In a desperate effort to prolong the game, Ruffin called time out after every play. Forward pass, lateral, line play, end run—Ruffin tried them all. But the Ruffinites just couldn't get going as the alert Law School veterans intercepted their forwards, smothered their running plays, and kept them from making a first down.

In spite of this, it was by all odds no walkaway for the Lawyers, but closely-contested from beginning to end.

Yesterday's win gives Law School a berth in the finals and an opportunity to defend their campus championship against the winner of the Sigma Nu-S.

Don Jackson Will See Action As Yale, Harvard Teams Clash

Harvard Star Has Same Name as Our Player; Dartmouth-Princeton Game will See Two Unbeaten Teams Clash in Another Feature of Saturday's Games

By Fletcher W. Ferguson

The North Carolina Tar Heels take a much needed rest this weekend from gridiron activities, but for Don Jackson there will be plenty of work. However, this Don is another Jackson, who hails from Providence, R. I., and will head the Harvard attack against Yale's Bulldogs in the 47th meeting of the two at Cambridge.

Despite the fact that the Crimson have won but thrice and lost on four occasions, there will be plenty of cash to say that they will upset Yale's apple-wagon which has gone through to five wins and two defeats. This battle is always a colorful affair regardless of how each has previously fared. In the series, Yale has won 25, Harvard 16, and there were five ties. Our pick—Yale to make it 26.

Princeton vs. Dartmouth

Up at Palmer stadium on the Princeton campus every one of the 50,600 seats should be filled as the Tigers attempt to stave off the most determined bid for national fame that Dartmouth's Indians have made in the past decade. Both teams are undefeated and untied and the result no doubt will give the winner the mythical eastern crown.

In eight games Dartmouth has amassed 289 points against the opposition's 25, while the Nassau eleven has tallied 192 against 19, in winning eight and seven games respectively. Only two common foes have been met—Harvard and Cornell. The Indians won by scores of 14-6 and 41-6, while Princeton's triumphs over the respective pair were 35-0 and 54-0 scores.

B. C. vs. B. U.

Despite the fact that Yale and Harvard clash just across the line, Boston home-loving fans will probably work themselves up into a frenzy over the struggle between Boston College and Boston University. For the past few seasons, the Terrors of B. U. have been no match for the Eagles, but today—or maybe but a few tomorrows away—they stand as a logical opponent to challenge for the Hub supremacy.

Both teams have come through with fair seasons and will be primed for the game. B. C.'s outstanding triumph was an 18-0 win over Michigan State, while B. U.'s best claim was a 13-7 reversal of Tufts. Tonight over 10,000 spectators are expected at a mammoth B. U. rally in the Boston Arena, where their

Snavelymen Practice For Cavalier Game

Team Instilled with New Spirit After Suffering Slump

Coach Snavely's Tar Heels have finally cast off the ill affects of last Saturday's defeat and are rapidly regaining their previous form in preparation for the Turkey Day classic against a strong defensive Virginia aggregation.

Awakening from their lethargy, the Tar Heels went through their snappiest practice session of the week. They seemed to have forgotten the past, as they passed, punted and went through their formations with the old time pep and precision.

Gus Tebell's Cavaliers are regarded by most everyone as a breather, but a glance at the records shows that Tar Heel rooters might be in for a bit of a surprise. Statistics alone can show the power of the Virginia defense. Since the season got under way the Cavaliers have played to four scoreless ties.

A team with such a defensive record must be reckoned with and Coach Snavely is determined to have his charges in their top form by next Thursday. The squad opened hard practice Tuesday and will continue through next Wednesday. It will be the longest practice session the team has had since the season opened.

Captain Johnnie Leys, Virginia's able leader, is ranked on the all-time Cavalier eleven as picked by the noted football authority, George Trevor of the New York Sun. Leys, who plays at the flank position, is a senior on the squad, and will be playing his last game for Virginia on Thanksgiving Day.

According to reports, there has been a large advance sale of reserved seats for this Turkey Day classic. About 20,000 spectators are expected for the game which is to be the 39th meeting of these ancient rivals.

COMER SPEAKS TO KIWANIS

Harry F. Comer, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., addressed the Kiwanis club of Burlington last night on "Thrift Program for Youth."

Tennis Meeting

There will be an important meeting of the varsity tennis team this afternoon at 4:30 at Emerson stadium.

Frosh Players

All freshman football players who made the trip to Charlottesville are excused at 12 o'clock from classes to eat at the Mayflower.

By Graham Gammon

The freshman football classic of the south will be fought this afternoon in Kenan stadium when the best freshman team in Duke's history meets a rejuvenated Carolina team. More than 3,000 fans are expected to be in the stands at 2:30 for the kick-off.

The Tar Babies are underdogs but are highly geared for this game. For the past two years the games between Baby Blue Devils and Baby Tar Heels have been spectacular. Last year Duke won 21-18 and also won the year before by a 13-7 count. Both contests were hard-fought from start to finish and many of the players in those two games are now varsity stars.

Duke Team Strong

The Duke team has made doormats of all the opposing teams that they have faced this year. Their most notable victory was over the N. C. State Wolfcubs, 14-0. Vicious blocking and tackling has made the Duke team what is it. Excellent players have been combined into a smooth working unit that rolled 80 yards to score two touchdowns on the State team in the third quarter. Eric Tipton, Ken "Gentleman" Lovell and Bill Bailey are outstanding ball toters. Bob Spangler and Dan Hill lead the "perfect blocking line."

Carolina, with a great array
