Meekins Praises Present Constitution

(Continued from page one) who had said in effect, "without George Washington, the Virginian, and his influence, the constitution would never have been approved and the United States of America would never have been formed."

Judge Meekins said, "no representative of North Carolina sided with George Washington at the time, or supported the constitution." It took them several years to become in favor of it, which proves," he said, "that if you give a North Carolinian time he'll make the right decision, but if you rush him, he'll most likely make a poor one."

"The constitution belongs to the people of the United States, and only the people can change it," Judge Meekins continued. He read several of the articles and commented on them.

In speaking of the instances preceding the Revolution when British soldiers forced the colonists to provide them with lodgings and board, and the article in the constitution that prohibits any such action now, Judge Meekins said, "Without this clause in our constitution, the governor of this state, or the President of these United States, could order a troop of soldiers to move into the home of President Frank Graham, and he would be forced to try to keep them warm in winter, and cool in summer, and to dine and wine them. If they insulted his family and tore up his furniture, he would be powerless to do anything about it."

Comparison

In comparing our government and our constitution with those of other present day powers he made mention of "the British subject—and the American citizen."

Judge Meekins, who was introduced by former Superior Court Judge Robert Winston, was brought here by the Carolina Political union and the University law school.

Comer States NYA Fund Cut

In addition, congressional efforts to reduce the national debt and budget brought additional restrictions concerning distribution of the money. This year no graduate student over 25 years old may receive aid from the N. Y. A., and this ruling was said to affect practically all the graduates who were on the N. Y. A. list.

In 1936-37

In the 1936-37 year, 324 undergraduates received employment that paid $4,860 monthly, Mr. Comer said. Of this number 41 were from drought-stricken counties and received additional benefits totaling $705. Twenty graduate students were paid $500 monthly.

The next group of figures made public by Mr. Comer depicts the circumstances under which the self-help committee is laboring. This year there are no appropriations for drought sufferers and graduates. To add to all this, the allocation for undergraduates was reduced to $3,165, making necessary a corresponding decrease in the number of students who could be assisted by the government funds.

"C" Averages

To assure distribution of the available jobs to the most-deserving and neediest students, the committee ruled that the "C" rule will be strictly adhered to, meaning that any present holder of a self-help job, whether N. Y. A. or otherwise, who does not average "C" for the present year will not be given work next year.

A special clause of the committee's ruling was emphasized as being important by Mr. Comer, that of the arrangement for those students who held jobs last year and averaged just slightly under "C." They are on probation for the fall quarter and should they fail to better their mark they will be dropped from self-help roles.

Views uture

Mr. Comer could venture no prediction on what the next congressional session will do with the N. Y. A. problem. As in past years, President Roosevelt has insisted that the budget will be balanced, by reducing relief appropriations. N. Y. A. funds remained the same three years, and this year received their first setback. What the future will bring in the way of N. Y. A. money is a question that Mr. Comer and none of the others connected with the self-help committee like to face.

Life Savers

Because of complete changes in the examiner requirements for Red Cross life savers, the local chapter of the organization would like to have the names of all those students who now hold or have held life-saving cards.

In order for the chapter to get in touch with them, it is suggested that the students leave their names at the information bureau in the Y. M. C. A., call telephone number 6301, R. R. Williams at 8741.

Homecoming To Be Gala Event

(Continued from first page) rally Friday night from 9 until 9:30 o'clock. The decorations contests will include men's dormitories, fraternity houses, women students' residences, and downtown stores. Prizes in each of the four divisions will be announced between halves at the football game by judging committees.

Pep Rally

Friday night's pep rally will begin with a torch-light parade, forming at the post office at 8:15, and Head Cheer Leader Glenn Davis will lead the procession through the downtown section and the campus to Emerson field for a bon fire and a program of talks. Those who will talk include President Frank P. Graham, Director of Athletics Robert A. Fetzer, Student Body President Bob Magill, Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page who recently won the national woman's golf championship, and Grady Pritchard, captain of the 1922 football team which defeated Tulane 19-12.

Grail Dance

A Grail dance in the Tin Can will follow the pep meeting.

Alumni headquarters for the week-end will be the Carolina Inn, in which are located the alumni offices. Registration and information tables will be located there. Many informal reunions are expected to center there in addition to the 15-year reunion of the '22 football eleven, which will meet Friday evening and again for luncheon on Saturday at the Carolina Inn. Members of the team will sit together at the game.

Beal To Talk On Circus Life

"To me," Beal has said, "the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined circus is one of the greatest miracles of the modern world. Although I have traveled thousands of miles with the 'big show' and have seen it put up and torn down many hundreds of times, I still find it the most fascinating and impressive sight in the world."

In gathering the material for his circus stories and in the taking of his circus films, Beal has traveled many miles on the show train and has lived with the show people.

When he has finished lecturing on the circus, he intends to give his ever-growing collection of circus books and programs, photographs and newspaper clippings, together with the exclusive motion picture films which make up his lecture, "Through the Back Door of the Circus," to the world famous theater collection of Harvard university.

Blondell, O'Brien Wind Up Fued In Retort Contest

Today Is Last Chance For Snappy Comeback Fans To Fill In Blank Spaces

Today, for the last time, you readers have a chance to scratch your domes of mental mechanism, sharpen your tongues, and write a snappy comeback for Joan Blondell, who in the above picture, is just getting ready to voice her thoughts in regard to Pat O'Brien's verbal onslaught.

Maybe she is going soft on him, but judging by the expression on her face, the retort that is meant to be printed in that blank space should express her sentiments in the matter.

Here's a great opportunity for a "grand finale" in this matter of snappy comebacks. Fill in what you think Miss Blondell might have said, and when you bring or send it, with answers to the three other cartoons that have appeared in the DAILY TAR HEEL to the "Snappy Comeback" editor, you will be eligible for one of those passes.

All entries must be in this afternoon by 5 o'clock. The judges' decisions will be final, and the winners selected by them will be announced, together with their winning "comebacks", in tomorrow's paper.

Again, it is suggested that answers be kept as short and concise as possible.

Assembly Favors Present Fees

Condemn Monogram Club

A stand almost as definite was taken upon the activities of the Monogram club. Representative Spanier sanctioned the club for "taking the wrong attitude" and exceeding and abusing its powers. Representative Dixon declared that not only was a wrong attitude being assumed, but that the club was in the position to usurp the traditional duties of the official cheerleading squad. The assembly scored its disapproval of the Monogram club by a 28 to 9 vote.

Pete Mullis, president of the Monogram club, when questioned about the vote, declared that "we are not trying to take anything away from the cheerleaders, but are trying to get back some of that old Carolina spirit." Glenn Davis, head cheerleader, stated that "I am pleased by the stand of the assembly and I think they have done the right thing. Although I am willing to cooperate with Pete and the boys I think that they are going too far."

Initiations

Part of the ceremonies included the initiation of new assembly representatives. Those inducted were: Fred Cazell, George Simpson, John Singletary, Miss Virginia Bower, Miss Catherine Fleming, William Dees, Robert Farsis, Miss Connie Thigpen, Jack O'Conner, J. O. Bowerman, Joe Hough, J. F. Robertson, O. B. Wright, W. W. Bruner, H. T. Terry, Jr., Gene Williams, Logan Howell, Juniles Lee, Pete Dalton, and Wheelless Cole.

With Leave To Print

(Continued from page three) tenschlaeger run back a Carolina kickoff 95 yards for a touchdown, watched Carolina's George Sparrow twice drop-kick field goals in the third quarter, once from the Tulane 23 and once from the Tulane 19, watched HalfBack Red Johnston, one of Carolina's All-Time players, lead an attack that scored two touchdowns for the Tar Heels.

"Coach Bob" Fetzer, present director of athletics at the University, was coach of the football team at that time and Grady Pritchard captain. The '22 team won nine and lost to Yale 18-0. In its opener, that team defeated Wake Forest 62-3.
