 charge of soccer at Duke where it is chiefly a campus sport under the direction of the intramural department of which Mr. Gerard is the director.

Carolina Prospects

Among the outstanding prospects and regulars in soccer here at Carolina thus far are: Foss, Ramsay, Stockton, Kleeman, Truex, Allen, Dalton, R. Cooper, Tracey, Murchison, Snow, C. Cooper, Ferguson, and several others.

There is still room for many more participants in the sport. One of the determining factors in the arrangement of competition with Duke this year will be the interest shown by the Carolina students. All those interested in the game, regardless of previous experience, are urged to attend the practice workouts every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon from 2-4 o'clock on the girls' hockey field.

Guest Artists To Play At Concert

Mr. and Mrs. Alden To Appear At Recital Tonight

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Alden, violinists, from Meredith College will serve as guest artists at the concert presented by the combined Mens' and Womens' Glee Clubs Saturday night in Hill hall. Mr. and Mrs. Alden played a group of violin pieces at last winter's Glee Club concert and have been asked to return by Professor Toms, director of the Carolina Glee Clubs.

The Glee Club concert which begins at 8 o'clock this Saturday, will be followed immediately by a dance in the Carolina Inn Ballroom with music provided by Rudy Walters and his campus orchestra.

Professor Toms announced that a male quartet would assist the Glee Club in the concert Saturday. The quartet is composed of DeWitt Barnett, bass, John Roughton, baritone, John Anderson and Paul Simcoe, tenors.

 A faculty member to act as master of ceremonies was also undecided, but Ivey revealed a past performer who had done unusually well might be selected. He even stated that one of the "Great Moguls," highest possible title given by the union, might be selected.

 That the Phi Assembly approve of the open subsidization of athletes at the University of North Carolina, was discussed and passed by a vote of 38-9.

Prospects

The following prospective members were introduced: Rudolph Howell, Clarence Howell, Barbara Smith, Ruth Garrett, and Watts Booth.

Coach John Moore called for a practice of the Phi football team this afternoon at 3 o'clock in preparation for their game with the Di Senate on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Representative Jack Farley was appointed chairman of the constitution committee to draw up a new constitution for the Phi Assembly.

Speaker Martin announced that all prospective members will be initiated next Tuesday. The meeting was then adjourned.

 Mullis, and McCachren form a strong core to build around. All three were stars of the tournament last year when the Skidmore team went to the finals before losing to Washington and Lee. Ruth made the all-conference five. Skidmore will also be able to call upon members of last year's strong freshman team and last season's varsity reserves.

 mural field. Scorers for the winners were as follows: Niven 12; Taylor 7; Nisbet 6; Glamack 6. In the B-V-P-Manly tilt, the New Dorm contingent had little trouble running over Manly but still couldn't do much scoring. Matty Topkins played the only really brilliant game of anyone on the field with his smooth broken field running and clean-cut backfield work. Kornegay tallied the winning touchdown for B-V-P on a pass from Topkins.

Senate Loses Amendments

vote by the senate. Senator Hobbs reported that through some mishap the amendments had been misplaced, and the loss discovered only when too late to re-frame the amendments. Senate President John Ramsay fined Hobbs for neglect of duty. When Hobbs appealed, the discussion became too noisy and Ramsay imposed another fine on Hobbs for being out of order. Hobbs appealed both fines and a discussion was held from the floor as to whether or not the fines were justified. When a vote was taken on the first of the fines, the chair was defeated by five votes. Ramsay then withdrew the second fine without taking another vote.

A motion was made from the floor and passed granting the use of the Senate hall on Sunday morning to the Christian Science organization of Chapel Hill.

Free Ball Games

Senator Busbee made a motion that the clerk of the Senate write a letter to each of four influential organizations on the campuses of Duke university and the University of North Carolina. The letter was to ask support of the Di Senate's plan of allowing the Carolina students to attend Duke games free of charge when the Carolina team was playing away from Chapel Hill, and to allow Duke students to attend Carolina games under the same conditions. The motion was passed by a majority of the Senate.

Eight new names were proposed for membership in the Senate. President Ramsay asked the candidates to withdraw and after a short discussion the members were passed upon and initiated to the organization.

As the business on hand had taken too much time, the scheduled subject for discussion, "Resolved: that student council actions should be made public by publishing such actions in the DAILY TAR HEEL," will not be discussed, but held over until next week.

Student Forums Create Interest

 to adopt the same plan. He will have a picture made of the local assembly at its next meeting Thursday night and will send it over the nation as an example of a "model" forum.

After Denny's publicity given the University plan, Mr. Comer said he received several letters from national "Y" officials in New York and Chicago.

Third Forum

The third local forum is being planned Thursday night in Graham Memorial on the subject: "Whose Constitution?" Speakers over the network will be Stanley Reed, Solicitor-general of the United States, who will present the Roosevelt view on the constitution; Senator Edward R. Burke, of Nebraska, will oppose the Roosevelt view; and Norman Thomas, Socialist leader who will present the extreme liberal view on the constitution.

The program begins at 9:30 and continues until 10:30. Following it students will hold an open forum discussion. Secretary Comer urged an unusually large attendance Thursday as the picture would be made.

This Is Definitely A Posed Picture

LOVER BY CHOICE, actor by profession is Brian Aherne as "The Great Garrick." Lovely Olivia de Havilland is the object of his affections (and what effective affections!) in "The Great Garrick," which comes to the Carolina Theatre today.

 stipulation. "Hilda will have to go too. Chico can't stand to be separated from Hilda. Hilda's my Persian cat," she explained. "They sleep together, live together, and if anyone or anything gets near Hilda there is a fight."

Hilda And Chico

So it was arranged that Hilda and Chico would aid the girls this morning at chapel period to sell tickets for the "Great Garrick," playing at the Carolina theater, from which the Y. W. will get 10 per cent of the proceeds.

But Mrs. McGirt is afraid Chico will not show up so well in the crowded "Y" lobby. He was once accustomed to town life when he belonged to a student here. Now he has become countrified. He seldom leaves his home which is about two miles out on the Hillsboro road.

There he rides about on Hilda's back, taunts the dogs from the top of the fence posts around their pens, drops down from the tree limbs upon the backs of the pigs, pulling their tails to their squealing protests, and robs the hens' nests.

He considers himself of superrior intelligence to the other members of the household. He has taken it upon himself to keep the puppies and kittens out of the highway, and his teeth prevent over affectionate persons from petting them.

Chico Vs. Erlanger

Mike Erlanger, former student here, is his pet antipathy. Mike doesn't like Chico and Chico doesn't like Mike. Mike has suffered many bites and doesn't like the relationship. Chico enjoys it.

And then there is the little matter of hats. Guests have learned that a hat out of hand, may mean a hat parked in the top of a tree or under the house.

But there is one thing that does phase Chico—a broom. When he lived in town he frequently visited neighboring houses. The housewives did not like to find a monkey drinking out of their milk bottles in the morning or distributing their possessions to other people. Battle at close quarters was impossible. Chico was all too likely to land upon their heads, feet entangled in their hair, and shrieking abuse at the top of his voice.

So the good ladies reached for their brooms when they saw Chico, and today when Chico sees a broom he runs to Mrs. McGirt for protection.

tive movement as one of the few bright spots on a dark economic horizon.

Merchants

Of course, a cooperative failure is gratifying to most merchants. They are in general hostile to cooperatives, often bitter, and they hope to stamp them out. That is a natural enough attitude, though unquestionably a mistaken one, for the coops are lawful and valuable in their sphere, and they are gaining ground despite misguided opposition. In England they exist side by side with private enterprises which supply those customers who desire charge credit and other services incompatible with cooperative policies. On many campuses in this country, notably Harvard, Princeton, Cornell, Chicago, to mention a few, they are well-established, well-patronized and needed money-savers to those students who have to save. They are hardly less needed at North Carolina where the average student purchasing power is not high by comparison.

Quick, High Prices, No

I am not one who thinks cleaning prices will spring instantly upward if the coop quits. But that, after a period, they will begin the long climb toward the old levels (75c to $1.00) seems hardly to be questioned. It wouldn't take many cleanings at even 50c or 60c a suit to cost the students more than the dollar or two each which would be needed to take over this going business and make it run at a standard of excellence unknown in Chapel Hill.

Three courses are then open: To let the Coop pass into non-coop hands and take the resultant losses; to renew and increase support for the present Coop to the point where the receiver can deliver service of the very best and terminate the receivership; to organize a new student concern to take over the present one at a bargain price. The last will require leadership and some student confidence. Whether either of these can be had remains to be seen, but it won't remain long.
