ASSEMBLY FAVORS CAMPUS STUDIOS

Pros And Cons Of New Proposal Discussed

The Phi assembly passed a bill favoring the establishment of a student radio station 30-3, and tabled the two remaining bills last night, in what was probably the shortest Phi meeting of the year.

Milton Hogan, one of the leading backers of the student radio studio movement, gave a short talk, preceding discussion on the bill, in which he explained the purpose and the advantages of such a project.

Representative Townsend Moore, in speaking against the station, mentioned that when students could "sit at home and listen to a pep meeting or some other campus event, they would not take the time or trouble to personally attend it." Seavy Highsmith favored the bill, and used as his main point the great amount of publicity that the University will naturally receive through such a venture.

Jack Fairley contended that "it would be better to spend the

'KEY PRIVILEGES' GIVEN ALL COEDS WITH 'C' AVERAGE

Only Seniors Have Had Special Rights This Fall

"Key privileges" (not with reference to Phi Beta Kappa, but the much more significant key which secures admittance to Spencer hall) have now gone into effect for all coeds with an average of "C" or better.

During the fall quarter only seniors who had held a "C" average last year were entitled to "key privileges."

Girls entitled to key privileges are allowed to come into their dormitories at 11:15 instead of the usual 10:30 on week nights and 12 o'clock on Friday and Saturday nights instead of the usual 11 o'clock.

Juniors with "key privileges" are entitled to these hours one week night and one week-end night, and seniors two week nights and one week-end night.

Monday is the only night on which no one may have "key privileges" without special permission.

House Replies To Query Of Student Union Directors

Administrative Dean Says The Matter Will Be Thoroughly Investigated By Faculty

Administrative Dean R. B. House yesterday replied to a letter from Graham Memorial directors asking the University administration's attitude towards student operation of a motion picture theater.

Dean House revealed that the administration would make an extensive investigation concerning building facilities, student and faculty benefits, and any political or economic agreement, written or unwritten, which would prevent such a student enterprise.

"I am very glad, indeed," the latter said, "to have the administration asked some direct questions concerning the possibility of having a student-operated motion picture theater on the campus."

Dean House said he and Assistant Controller L. B. Rogerson would answer to the building question after it was found

Neither Administration Nor Individuals Accused

Finances Revealed

By CHARLES BARRETT
New angles on Willis Harrison's request of the student council that it investigate the sale of senior commencement invitations and set up precautions against possible graft were revealed yesterday to clarify the situation.

The facts brought to light were:

(1) Harrison yesterday emphasized that he was not attacking individuals or charging anybody with graft, especially the present administration; but he pointed out that the possibility for graft in the future should be eliminated.

(3) President Joe Patterson of the senior class said that this year's contract had already been signed. Under terms of the contract, the Charles Elliott company of Philadelphia will furnish Dutch fold invitations at seven cents each, cardboard back invitations at 17 cents each, leather back invitations at 33 cents each, wholesale price. The retail price to students will be decided by a committee of Patterson, John Umstead and Paul Wolfe. Cost of shipping, distribution, and compiling the booklet, has yet to be determined by the committee before a retail price is settled upon.

SENATE OPPOSES LUDLOW PROPOSAL

Initiations Postponed Last Night

After a heated and lengthy discussion that delayed two other bills on the calendar, the Dialectic senate last night, by a vote of 16 to 11, expressed its disapproval of the proposed Ludlow amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

The Ludlow proposal, if adopted, would require a national referendum before declaration of war by congress. The bill discussed by the Di last night read: Resolved, That the Dialectic senate go on record as approving the Ludlow amendment.

Bill Defended

Senator Cochrane took the floor first to defend the bill. He and his colleagues pointed out that such an amendment would take from the administration some of the power that might be used against the wishes of the people, and, at the same time, transfer the power into the hands of the people.

Assailants of the bill reminded the senate of the delay which such an amendment would cause when speed is an essential factor. The bill was defeated by a majority when the vote was called.

Initiations Postponed
Although an initiation of several applicants for admission to the senate was scheduled, the

FAR EAST EMBARGO MAY BE INVOKED

Washington, Jan. 11.—State department officials said today that it would be difficult for President Roosevelt to refrain from invoking the American neutrality act should Japan formally declare war on China.

This measure prevents shipments of war supplies to both countries whenever the President decides a state of war exists. According to some observers, who report that Japan has greater facilities than China for making munitions, invocation of the act would aid the invaders.

Officials studying the far eastern conditions said that they were encouraged by the house refusal to consider the Ludlow war referendum proposal, which President Roosevelt declared "would cripple any President in his conduct of our foreign relations."

Leaders in the house said the administration's foreign policy had been strengthened by the 209 to 188 vote and at the same time appeared well for any new naval construction which might be recommended by the President.

Observers stated that the possibility that Japan might seek to impose against all foreign shipping in the war zone would be the most crucial point involved if a formal declaration of war against China comes up.

During December, the state department licensed the export of $250,282 worth of munitions to Japan and $290,632 to China. If the neutrality act were invoked, no such purchases would be permitted in the future.

AIRLINE DISASTER KILLS TEN PEOPLE

Bozeman, Mon., Jan. 11.—The disfigured and charred bodies of ten persons rested under the blanket of an icy blizzard which followed the crash and burning of a giant Northwest Airliner in the Bridger mountains yesterday.

Piloted by Nick Mamer, who had flown more than 1,000,000 miles without injuring a passenger, the plane went into a tailspin and plunged nose-first into a small clearing. The impact with the frozen ground snapped the nose from the rest of the craft.

Although the searchers found all aboard dead, the storm forced them to give up the task of removing the bodies today. A guard was left at the scene of the crash.

Gallatin county officials said snowplows would open the roads as soon as the bodies are brought down by bobsled.

C. A. Larson and Glenn White, woodcutters, were working only about 200 feet from the wreck, but were unable to approach because of the flames. They were on the way to seek-
