

Pardon Me, BUT ...

By William L. Beerman

Random thoughts while contemplating the futility of it all: Andy Bershak and his famous 59 jersey. It's been a couple of months now since the Monogram club announced that the sweater would go into the Graham Memorial trophy case. But Barclay's 99 is still the only jersey in sight.

While certain people around here sit up nights figuring out new ways to limit the football team's excursions, over at State college the enterprising athletic association has gone out of its way to schedule more inter-sectional games for the coming fall. With 10 games already contracted for, including Alabama, Detroit, and Manhattan, the Wolfpack is seriously considering the addition of Carnegie Tech to its 1938 program.

Mentioning State brings up several points of interest about our cousin college. The Technicians, Terrors, Wolves, or what have you, take their athletics seriously and really turn out capable squads that play the game well whether winning or not. Ten years ago State was doing all right for itself in Conference circles, taking baseball honors in '27, tying with Georgia Tech for the football crown in the same year, and winning the basketball title in '29.

One thing about State—it's really a North Carolina college. When the baseball team played at Clinton a few weeks back, every man on the nine was a N. C. product. That goes for all the other sports too; by far the largest majority of participants are good sturdy sons of Tar Heelia.

Coaches and other athletic luminaries don't get out the mourning clothes when they learn that one of their proteges is going to turn professional, either. Gladly do they announce that so-and-so has a chance to cash in on his ability in a certain sport.

Many's the ball player that the veteran Chick Doak has sent up to the majors and other leagues. Right now, State officials admit that Gastonia, of the semi-pro Carolina baseball circuit, is dickering for the services of pitcher Vic Holshouser and catcher Larry Smith. And Doak says with pride that he believes both boys will eventually wind up in the big leagues.

Handball Tourney

After coming from behind in the third set, Ted Freudenheim defeated Marty Kalkstein 21-19, 7-21, 21-10, to win the intramural class A handball tournament yesterday. In the third set, Kalkstein was leading 10-4, but Freudenheim rallied to take the next 17 points straight.

Finals in the class B tourney between Mager and Cohn were postponed.

One In—One Out

Here are the Rood twins of Brooklyn and the Carolina tennis team. Bill, left, goes into the finals to face Johnny Foreman. He beat Frank Farrell to move into the final round. Carl was put out by Foreman.

Conference Tennis Matches Enter Final Stage Today

B. Rood, Foreman Square Off For Singles Battle

The Southern conference tennis tournament moved to the finals in the singles and to the semi-finals in the doubles yesterday.

After the quarter finals, the singles became a Carolina family affair. Today Bill Rood and Johnny Foreman will play for the singles crown. Old Jupe Pluvius interfered for a little while during the afternoon matches, but the sun came out again and play was resumed.

Despite his beautiful overhead shots Richmond's Captain Bobby Leitch bowed to Frank Farrell, Tar Heel co-captain, 6-2, 6-2. Johnny Foreman of Carolina upset his teammate, Carl Rood, after he was pushed to three sets and extra games, 6-3, 8-10, 6-4.

Bill Rood eliminated the remaining non-Carolina man, Askin, 6-4, 6-4. Askin will be remembered as the Maryland fighter that lost to Joe Fisher in the Southern Conference boxing tourney.

Surprise

The biggest surprise of yesterday's matches was the beating Bill Rood handed Frank Farrell, only undefeated Carolina netmar this season.

In the doubles another upset cropped up when Zan Carver and Johnny Foreman teamed together to vanquish Farrell-W. Rood, who were seeded no. 1.

SIGMA NU WINS IN MURAL TENNIS

Outplays Favored Phi Delta Theta

Yesterday afternoon in the only intramural contest, an outstanding tennis team representing Sigma Nu won over last year's fraternity champions, Phi Delta Theta, 4-1. The Phi Delta Theta team was favored to cop its second straight tennis title, but the sparkling play of the entire Sigma Nu team was too much for them.

In the top ranking singles match, Julian Lane of the losers put on a great rally to defeat Roberts Jernigan 3-6; 6-3, and 6-4. Sigma Nu's double combination of Ernest Craig and Lynch Murphy easily disposed of Frank Rogers and Al Maynard 6-1, 6-1.

Championship Match

Sigma Nu will meet the dormitory champions, Med School, in the campus championship match today and tomorrow.

Summaries:

Singles — Lane (Phi Delta) defeated Jernigan (Sigma Nu), 3-6, 6-3, 6-4. Coughnour (Sigma Nu) won over Huffman (Phi Delta Theta), 6-4, 6-2. Eutsler (Sigma Nu) defeated Clark (Phi Delta Theta), 6-4, 6-4.

Doubles—Craig and Murphy (Sigma Nu) over Rogers and Maynard (Phi Delta Theta), 6-1, 6-1. Lynch and Glace (Sigma Nu) over Mosier and Winstead (Phi Delta Theta), 6-1, 8-6.

The semi-final match between Askin-Ritzenberg of Maryland, the only invaders left in the tournament, and Gragg-Strain was called on account of darkness. Gragg and Strain were leading, 3-6, 6-3, 4-3. The rest of the third set will be played this morning.

Summary:

Singles—Farrell (NC) over Leitch (U. of R.), 6-2, 6-2; W. Rood (NC) over Askin (Md.), 6-4, 6-4; (Continued on last page)

Track Finals At Duke Today; Nine Collides With Devils

HUDSON, WATSON IN NIGHT BATTLE

Greensboro Field Is Scene Of Tilt

The two pitchers of the year in the Big Five, Bud Hudson and Ed Watson will oppose each other tonight in the second Duke-Carolina game of the year, to be played in Greensboro's Memorial stadium. Game time is 8 o'clock.

Watson has not met defeat in the last two seasons. Twelve wins has been his contribution to the Blue Devil cause over that period of time. He was an All-Big Five hurler last year and seems sure to rate the honor again this spring.

Hudson

Hudson with eight wins and one defeat has been the Carolina find of the season. He came out for the team at the start of the campaign with a season of relief work behind and no college starting experience. But he has come through to turn in one shut-out and a two hitter, conquering among other clubs, Dartmouth, Wake Forest, Maryland, and Richmond.

Eric Tipton won the first tilt of the three game series for Duke with two home runs, 4-1. He will be back again tonight, but they have a long left field in Greensboro.

Hidden Ball

Carolina is rated a slight choice to come out on top tonight with Hudson in the box. Bud's wind-up is confusing enough in the day-light, but when he starts concealing the ball before he throws it side-arm under the lights it is expected to trouble Duke batters, including Tipton, no end.

The Tar Heels have to win tonight to stay in the Big Five race. Should Duke triumph the race will be all over. A Carolina triumph would mean the state title would not be decided until the final battle of the series Monday afternoon at Emerson field.

Captain Ruth Down

Earl Ruth, senior and letterman basketball star, is seriously ill in the infirmary with pneumonia. A phone call late last night divulged that Ruth was "doing as well as can be expected."

Attention Managers

All dormitory and fraternity intramural managers that have not turned in their entrance blanks for the intramural track meet, to be held next Thursday, may have until eleven o'clock this morning to do so. These blanks must be turned in at the intramural office in Emerson stadium.

Send the DAILY TAR HEEL home.

Lead Off Man

George Stirnweiss will be the first batter to face Ed Watson of Duke in Greensboro tonight. George is one of the leading hitters of the team. Duke will be the home team.

DEVILS, HEELS IN TITLE TILT

Corpening Takes Two First Places

By WILLIAM L. BEERMAN

DURHAM, May 20.—Led by Bill Corpening's two brilliant first places, the University of North Carolina qualified 15 men today in the preliminaries of the 16th annual Southern conference track meet, being second only to Duke's total of 18. Tomorrow at 3:30 the finals start, the tourney ending with the mile relay at 5:30.

A cloudburst cancelled trials for 30 minutes, and over an hour of rain put the track in an extremely soggy condition. However officials stated that if no more rain fell, the cinder circuit would be in perfect shape tomorrow. Times in nearly every track distance today were fairly slow, but two records, one of them in a field event, were closely approached.

Corpening Stars

Corpening, running in the high hurdles, clipped along at a fast pace to nose out Rogers of Washington and Lee in 15 seconds flat, only two-tenths of a second slower than the record set by Abernathy (Carolina) in 1935. Then, in the long-lasting broad jump preliminaries, Corpening headed the contestants with a leap of 22 feet 10 3/8 inches. Harry March also qualified with 21 feet 7 3/8 inches for third place. Duke's Elmore Hackney pulled a leg muscle in making a jump and will definitely be out. However, previous to the jump he had not qualified in any event.

Duke managed nine first places to Carolina's two, and "dark horse" Maryland copped one first out of nine men qualifying. Preliminaries were not held in the pole vault, two mile run, or mile relay. Eight other schools pushed one or more men into the finals, and only Clemson, W. & M., and The Citadel did not move a man up. Fifteen of the 16 member schools of the Southern conference were represented, and a total of 159 (Continued on last page)
