

Young Actor Today Must Go To College

That's What William Dorme Of "Tobacco Road" Cast Coming Here Advocates

The coal chute worker in the touring cast of "Tobacco Road" which will come to Chapel Hill Wednesday, insists that a college education is necessary for the young actor of today. William Dorme, who will be seen on the Memorial Hall stage as Lov Bensey, has attended Los Angeles Junior college.

The modern stage technique requires a knowledge of modern languages, especially French, contends the actor. He also includes familiarity with history, psychology economics, English, and the history of the drama, as requisites for acting. "Of course he also should have sound athletic training and should exercise at least two hours daily." Mr. Dorme carries out his own principles of success. His own favorite diversion is swimming.

A native of Hollywood, William Dorme has turned down numerous picture offers preferring to spend several seasons on the stage before seeking a career in the films. Before he joined "Tobacco Road", he had been seen in the MGM picture "The Great Ziegfeld" and in Pacific coast productions of "Mary of Scotland" with Helen Gahagan, and "The First Legion." He was a member of the Pasadena Community players and last summer played numerous leading roles with the famous Lakewood Players at Skowhegan, Maine.

University Has Own Tour Company

Laundry Begins Night Shift

The University laundry's business has increased so much during the last few months that it has been necessary to employ a night shift.

In 1926 the laundry building was completed, and during the last 12 years the service has more than doubled. No additions have been made to the plant; so it has been necessary to utilize two shifts.

Approximately 625 bundles of laundry are handled each day by the 77 persons on the day shift, the 31 persons on the night shift, and the 20 part-time student employees. The pay roll for a five-day week is around $1,250, and last year the gross revenue was $90,000.

Playmakers Begin Annual Tour Here

Thirty-sixth Annual Company Will Visit North Carolina, Virginia And New York

The thirty-sixth annual tour company of The Carolina Playmakers which will visit North Carolina, Virginia, and New York this year, will begin their program at Chapel Hill on November 11 and 12 at the new high school auditorium on Pittsboro road as a season ticket attraction.

The repertoire will include "Three Foolish Virgins," a comedy of North Carolina by Bernice Kelly Harris; "Soldadera," a tragedy of Mexican revolution by Josephine Niggli; and "Magnolia's Man" by Gertrude Wilson Coffin.

The members of the tour company who do all the technical work in lighting, properties, scenery moving, etc., as well as acting include: Mary Lewis, Mary Wood, Janet Pendleton, Anne Nowell, Gwen Pharis, Rietta Bailey, Elizabeth Malone, Don Muller, Wieder Sievers, and Fred Koch, Jr. These fifteen Playmakers represent eleven states and Canada.

In charge of the company, for the thirty-sixth time, is "Proff" Koch, the founder and director. The rest of the staff includes Harry Davis, associate director, Elmer Hall, technical director, Ora Mae Davis, in charge of costumes and the dance, John W. Parker, business manager, and Earl Wynn, assistant director.

Red Cross Begins Roll Call

The annual Red Cross roll call will start on the campus and in Chapel Hill next Tuesday and run through November 15, Dr. George McKie, chairman of the local unit, announced recently.

Canvassers will visit homes and offices during the week as well as serve at the voting poles Tuesday. J. T. Gobbell at the Bank of Chapel Hill will accept memberships, also.

The minimum membership fee is $1, fifty cents of which is used for the national Red Cross work and the remainder is used locally.

During the past year the local organization has spent $159 for the hospitalization of needy, $77 for life saving equipment, $50 for Red Cross supplies and books, $80 to provide lunches for needy school children, $37 to purchase first aid supplies, $30 to aid ex-service men in distress, and $30 for loans.
