does not allow him to breathe without filling out an application to do so, admitting that he is not being paid for his respiratory antics. What I would like to know is how you lads manage to get such marvelous material for your teams and still conform to the Conference."

The Coach and the Athletic Director guffawed heartily. "Friend, we wink at the Conference when the going gets difficult. No use taking a thing to seriously. Now, what we do to promote good feeling and intercollegiate football is simple. Many of our millionaires have contributed liberally to the Fund For Poor But Willing Football Players. Consequently, we have a scholarship system and a social security bureau which satisfactorily handles all matters pertaining to the athlete's reward. It works splendidly, as you probably have observed."

"Yes," agreed the O. P., filled with envy. "It certainly does. Well, good day gentlemen. I must be off."

Navy Defeats UNC Harriers

the finish line, ran 21:16. Midshipman Jack Harby ran 21:45 for third and Crockett's fourth place time was 21:49. All of these finishes were close except the first two.

Perhaps the biggest blow to the Tar Heels was Fred Hardy's inability to finish. Having developed an ankle weak from an operation performed last summer, Hardy was considered ready for competition. Navy's taking the lower placings hurt Carolina most. Ted Walker seventh, Pat Clancy eighth and Dudley Adams ninth dropped the other Tar Heel finishers far back in the finish order. Jim Hall tenth, Clarence Fink twelfth and Clifton James thirteenth were the other Carolina entries. Wimpy Lewis ran ahead of Hall, and Bob Doty followed James; both were running unofficially.

Local Doctors Refute Reports of Public Health who said, "There is no more danger of contracting diphtheria in Chapel Hill than in any other part of the State."

University officials asked that the false reports be cleared up in view of the fact that more than 12,000 high school seniors are coming here today for the Carolina-VPI game and other events in connection with High School Day.

MEREDITH SAYS NO

"Hearing that there is diphtheria in Chapel Hill, Meredith college authorities have required all Meredith girls with "Stunt Night" dates with Carolina boys to break them.

"All Meredith girls known to have attended the post-game dances in Chapel Hill last weekend are under observation of Dr. Bessie Lane, college physician.

Degrading Pamphlets Are Distributed

ing was done to prevent distribution, many of those in the audience took it for granted that the union was sponsoring the information.

Late yesterday, at the same time Gilmore released his letter of protest, the anti-Derry student group made known to the DAILY TAR HEEL, for publication, a signed statement of their stand on the matter. They denied that the CPU had anything to do with issuing the leaflet and apologized for somewhat abusive tactics used in distribution.

The mimeographed three pages in question began with an excerpt from Who's Who in America concerning the life and career of Dr. Derry and contained quotes from recent writings about Catholicism and Communism. Part of it is as follows: "The great danger in America today is not that of Communism, but of Fascism, already visible in its beginnings in such organizations as the Knights of Columbus," (Note: Dr. Derry is a prominent member and officer of the organization mentioned.), "Ku Klux Klan, and Mayor Hague's Jersey City set-up. We are not advocating Communism; we attack vague Red-baiters who obscure the main issues in a cloud of emotional attack, and we say that unless such bogus prophets are squelched by public opinion this country is in danger of losing its birthright—freedom, equality, and democracy."

The leaflet, concocted by a group of University students who frequent a downtown bookshop, ended with a burlesque of Orson Welles' dramatic broadcast of Sunday night pertaining to Derry's speech, and an unmetric but rhythmical "poem" about the Detroit speaker himself.

Send the DAILY TAR HEEL home.

Loop Games Are Numerous

del faces the University of Richmond with little hope to overcome the Spider strength; the game is at Charleston. Over at Greenville, Clemson is set for the visit of George Washington U. and expects to figure in another victory. South Carolina has a real task on its hands as the Duquesne lightning bolt hits the city of Columbia shortly after noon.

VMI and Wake Forest inaugurate the football day in Virginia, and a battle royal is predicted with the best man winning. Both claim to be the best man, and the dispute will be aired at Lexington. William and Mary, the conference doormat, will see what can be done with the hombres from Hampden-Sydney.

Shore Answers Editorial Charges

influence me in my choice of committeemen. This is one of the most natural things on earth. It comes under the heading of gratitude. Show me an election where this is not so, and I will show you a Utopia. Show me someone who is immune to this, and I will show you someone who is not worthy of the position they hold.

In answer to Mr. J. B. Spillman's statement, who, incidentally, is a sophomore, I also have a few things to say which may enlighten my classmates considerably.

It has only been very rarely that I have had the pleasure of reading such an illogical piece of nonsense as the statement which he made in yesterday's TAR HEEL.

Mr. Spillman stated that I have not put one man on my committees who has even been known to vote for my opponent. If he would have read the list of committee members, instead of criticizing what he expected to occur, he would have seen the names of some men who were on the opposite side of the fence during the last campaign. Heading these, was Bill Ward himself.

Mr. Spillman is intent upon "breaking into politics" here at Carolina. The only pity is, that he does not care how he breaks in, even if it's through the back door. Spillman was one of Ward's most ardent supporters. After the election, sad to say, Mr. Spillman was still not in politics. There was only one way he could possibly get into the limelight, and that was to take up a mythical cause, which is not worthy of the slightest consideration. You have seen the result of his "faux pas" in yesterday's DAILY TAR HEEL.

All I can say is that I have selected the committees honestly, sincerely, and to the best of my ability. The proof of the pudding will lie in the kind of administration we have."

Woodhouse Dares Committee

Woodhouse repeatedly emphasized that he was in no way opposed to Carl Durham and that Barker's election was not his primary object. "I'm making this fight solely for democracy," was the keynote of all his remarks.

In regard to a statement of Earl H. Hartsell, instructor in the University English department, that the committee's selection was "practical democracy," Dr. Woodhouse said, "Yes, he'll go down the line. He'll rationalize any decision his party makes."

Meetings to organize voters to carry forward a campaign to write Barker's name on the ballot in Tuesday's election, include a speech at Edgemont school in East Durham this morning at 10:30, a larger meeting probably at Durham courthouse tonight, and a protest rally at Graham courthouse tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

"OSCAR THE KINGMAKER"

Fighting what he termed "Oscar the Kingmaker and his cohorts" Dr. Woodhouse repeatedly emphasized the importance of preserving democracy and democratic ideals. "I have faith in the plain people but this sort of thing will discourage thousands of them from asserting their right of voting.

"To arouse the average voter to fight his fight, and to hand down a heritage of democracy to my descendants, that's my sole purpose in making this fight. Barker's got nothing in his power to bestow that I would accept and I emphatically am planning to make no race myself," declared the professor.

McIntosh Celebrates Birthday In Bed

Wednesday A. C. McIntosh, of the University Law department, celebrated his 79th birthday—in the hospital. But even though he underwent an operation only a few days before, he was in a happy frame of mind.
