Baptist Choir Gives Christmas Cantata

The choir of the Chapel Hill Baptist church, consisting of 60 voices and featuring several soloists, will present Maunders' "Bethlehem," a Christmas cantata, at the church this afternoon at 4:30.

The service, directed by Miss Lena Mae Williams, will take the form of medieval church performances with adult and antiphonal choirs.

Dashiell To Speak

Dr. J. F. Dashiell, dean of the University psychology department, will address a psychology class at Meredith college next Tuesday. His talk and slide display will describe many of the outstanding experimental studies on learning and show how their results have shaped and modified theories of how people learn.

Beard Reviews Coed Activities

(Continued from first page) course offered, attracting both men and coeds. Archery, offered three times a week at the Woman's athletic field, has had a large enrollment. Two badminton courts were reserved for coeds two days a week. Instruction in swimming was given from 2 o'clock to 3:30 two afternoons a week, with recreational swimming from 5 to 6 o'clock. Miss Carolyn Perritt, who is working for a championship berth in the Florida meet, was outstanding in this sport.

These activities will continue during the winter quarter, with basketball and tap dancing added to the schedule.

The tennis courts have been used extensively by coeds. Coach John Kenfield has announced that this sport will be discontinued during the winter, but will begin again in the spring.

It is hoped that a course in golf will be offered at a later date under Dr. Robert B. Lawson. A class in gymnastics is also being discussed.

Through the courtesy of Graham memorial the bowling alleys, ping pong and billiard tables in the game room have been opened to coeds on Tuesday nights free of charge.

A play day, in which Carolina coeds were to compete with representatives of woman's athletic associations of other colleges, was planned by the Woman's Athletic council but had to be postponed because of rain. It will be held sometime during the winter quarter.

Fencing has attracted numerous coeds. This year, for the first time, there will be intercollegiate fencing. A team, coached by Allan Bloom, captain of the varsity fencers, will make a trip north during spring vacation, meeting teams from several other colleges in regularly scheduled bouts. Misses Adele Austin and Ruth Parsons will represent Carolina at the Woman's Invitational Intercollegiate fencing tournament at Hofstra college, Hempstead, N. Y., on December 19.

Mrs. Beard urges the coeds to continue their participation in athletics during the winter quarter. "The authorities have been very generous in allowing us to use the University's equipment," she said. "We do not want to lose this opportunity by lack of attendance during the regularly scheduled periods for coed recreation. I hope to see an even greater number of women engaged in athletics next quarter."

Non-Professional Football Holds Favor

(Continued from first page) cago leads this time with a current magazine article proposing to take profits out of intercollegiate football. Coach Bernie Bierman of Minnesota believes subsidization is declining and has no apologies to make for the game.

For the first time the Student Opinion surveys of America have unified campus opinion on a national scale. Student interviewers from Maine to Florida and Oregon to California, in schools of all kinds and sizes, have asked, "Do you believe professional football will someday become more popular than college football?"

Yes, said 24.2 per cent. No, said 75.8 per cent. But although one in every four believes this is likely to come about, not even that many would like to see such a condition. Only 14.6 per cent of the men and women attending colleges to-

Tar Heel Cagers Open

The varsity warmed up for exams and a week of Christmas vacation yesterday by walloping the freshmen 73-32. Skidmore changed teams in bunches and stressed accurate passing as the good deed for the day. The first liners were Fish Worley, Ben Dilworth, Bill McCachren, Foy Roberson, and Jimmie Howard.

But it was two second stringers—George Glamack and Frank Cuneo—who stole the show. Sky-scraper George stood under the basket, pivoted, and tossed through six field goals. Cuneo was all up and down the floor, setting several baskets although making a few bad passes.

After the practice, Skidmore held a team meeting and announced 16 men were invited back for practice December 27. The sixteen were: Worley, McCachren, Dilworth, Howard, Mathes, Cuneo, Bowman, Pessar, W. Carr, Severin, Holland, Watson, A. Carr, Branson, Glamack, and Roberson.

day want intercollegiate football to lose the campus flavor, the survey points out. In Eastern and Middle Atlantic states, students, 28 per cent of them, think the possibility of professional teams gaining a greater following is acute. In other sections the percentages are much less.
