

Tenth Annual Indoor Games Begin In Gym Tomorrow

LOCAL COMMITTEE PREPARES GYM FOR CONFERENCE MEET

By LEONARD LOBRED
The banked track is in place; the jumping pits are being filled with sawdust, the pole vault runway is being pieced together, and trackmen are pouring into Chapel Hill for competition in four divisions in the tenth annual Southern Conference Indoor games in Woolen gym tomorrow afternoon and evening. The meet begins in the Tin Can at 1:30 and moves into Woolen gym at 2:30, where the evening program is to start at 7 o'clock.

Having moved the meet from the Tin Can, where it has been the biggest indoor track meet in the South, to Woolen gym, the athletic department is working overtime now to make arrangements for the 440 contestants and 2200 spectators expected here tomorrow. Coach Bob Fetzler, director of athletics at the University and chairman of the games committee, was in Woolen gym yesterday directing the installation of the 10-lap track and the bleacher seats. Reserved seats will be provided for 850 and students seats will hold 1050.

TROPHY EXHIBITED
The Lionel Weil trophy for the winner of the Southern conference mile arrived yesterday and was immediately put on exhibit in the lobby of the gymnasium.

Sleeping arrangements for 260 visiting participants is one of the biggest problems. Marvin Allen is leading the search for empty beds for representatives of 23 high schools and some of the competitors in the conference, non-conference and freshman divisions.

COMPETITORS
Following is a list of competing high schools: Bel Air (Md), Central (Wash. D. C.), Chapel Hill, Columbia (S. C.), Curry (Greensboro), Dobyns-Bennett (Kingsport, Tenn), Durham, E. C. Glass (Lynchburg, Va.), Episcopal (Alexandria, Va.), Georgia Military academy, Greensboro, Hopkinsville (Ky), Jefferson (Richmond), Jefferson (Roanoke), John Marshall (Richmond), Johnson City (Tenn), McKinley (Wash. D. C.), Maury (Norfolk), Newport News (Va), Washington-Lee (Arlington, Va), Winston-Salem, Sanford, Woodberry Forest school.

Swordswomen Set For Terp Opener

Completing practice with a handful of bouts with the reserve men's team, the coed fencers yesterday afternoon ran through a final drilling exercise, ready to face the University of Maryland swordswomen in Memorial hall tomorrow morning at 10:30.

No official results were released for the bouts, but it was conceded that the coeds had topped the reserves during the meet. In the eight bouts held, five women fencers unofficially won their meets.

The Maryland women will bring a team of three sophomores, who will also take to the strips in their first meet of the year. Both teams will be out for their initial victory of the season, and will have women fencers on the strip who have never before fenced in inter-collegiate competition.

The University of Virginia is celebrating its fiftieth year of intercollegiate football.

Heels Take On Dukes In Decisive Game Tonight

SWINDELL, PRICE WORRY PHANTOMS

Probable Starting Line-ups:
Carolina Severin _____ Duke Swindell
McCachren _____ O'Mara
Glamack _____ Holley
Howard _____ Bergman
Branson _____ Ig _____ Price

Somebody will short-circuit the suddenly aroused Duke power house one of these days—perhaps in the Southern conference basketball tournament if the Devils get there—but there are a respectable number of basketball followers, inexperienced and otherwise, who say out loud it will be Carolina when the two teams meet at Duke gym tonight at 8:15.

The under-dog in the game in the Devil gym, Carolina will have to beat Duke or perhaps not go to the Southern conference tournament when it opens Thursday in Raleigh. And the winner of the battle will at least have a tie for the Big Five lead with Wake Forest, and, if the Deacs lose to Davidson tomorrow, undisputed possession of the top.

Beaten and buffeted around the earlier part of the season, Duke, with tournament elimination hanging by a thread, came to life Saturday to beat Wake Forest and end a seven game losing streak. The Devils followed the Deac win with a triumph over State. They will go into the tournament on a .500 average if they take Carolina. The Tar Heels by winning can not only insure their own invitation but keep Duke from getting one.

To beat Duke, Carolina will have to stop the cool long shooting of Ed Swindell and the never-a-dull moment guarding of Glenn Price, believed by many to be the best man on the Duke team. To beat Duke, Carolina will have to break through the ranks of the best team in the state man for man. To beat Duke, Carolina will have to cool down a team which gets hot only at the end of the season. Last year the Devils just got through the gate, so they promptly won the tourney.

The Tar Heels already hold a 37-32 win over the Devils this year, handing Duke one of the defeats on its seven game losing streak. The Tar Heels started the season off with more knocks than a Model T, then seven games ago picked up speed. They've won six out of seven and five straight.

Baseball Gloves Here

Varsity and freshmen baseball candidates who wish to get gloves, can get them from Manager J. B. Lamb in the Tin Can today between 2 and 4 o'clock. Varsity and freshman battery candidates will continue working in the Tin Can from 2 to 4.

TILLET TO CAPTAIN FROSH MATMEN IN LAST MEET OF SEASON WITH VMI

On the eve of the final and toughest meet of the season with VMI, which will decide whether or not the Tar Baby wrestlers will capture the Southern conference crown, Coach Chuck Quinlan's frosh grapplers elected Charley Tillett, consistently victorious 136 pounder, as their captain yesterday afternoon.

Tillett, a high school champion before he came to Carolina, was a nearly unanimous choice and through his fine, steady work he has shown that he is the man to lead the undefeated Tar Baby matmen into their hardest and most important meet of the year. In the last regular workout of the season preparatory to the varsity and frosh meet with the Cadets in Lexington, Saturday, Coach Quinlan selected Jim Joyner and Bill Broadfoot as the varsity men who will represent the COLUMBIA, Feb. 23.—University of North Carolina boxers and attendants registered here tonight, took a brief workout, and then settled down for relaxation until tomorrow afternoon, when they weigh-in for the 13th annual Southern conference boxing tournament. Preliminary fighting begins tomorrow night.

Showing five capable boxers, Coach Mike Ronman made it clear that his men were entered with the definite intention of taking as many of the conference titles as fists, fate, and faith would allow them. Several of the Tar Heel five are among the list of favorites to compete in the finals Saturday night.

MANY SCHOOLS REPRESENTED
Represented in the tournament are over half the Southern conference schools, many with champs of their own who have established strong claims this season. Especially are the South Carolina teams well-stocked with able boxers—Citadel, Clemson, and the University of South Carolina boasting noteworthy individuals. Other entries are from VPI, Duke, N. C. State, Maryland, and Carolina.

CAROLINA CHAMPS
Of Ronman's crew, Billy Winstead, Andy Gennett and Ed Dickerson are conceded excellent chances. Red Sanders and Ed Hubbard are also among pretenders to the thrones, and Hubbard's stock went up when it was found that South Carolina's Baxter would not fight because of an injury. In Gennett's 127-pound class talent is varied. Experts McCrady (South Carolina), Ross (Clemson), Bengal (Citadel), and Jordan (Duke) are ready to dispute his position as favorite. Gennett is unbeaten for the year.

Tar Heels in the 165 and 145 pound divisions respectively.
The rest of the varsity line-up which will face VMI will be the same as usual with Georgie Zink handling the 121 pound class, Captain Johnson Harris in the 128, Walter Blackmer wrestling 136, Steve Forrest at 155, Don Torrey in the 175 pound class, and Erskine Clements fighting in the unlimited division. With the definite knowledge that frosh star 128 pounder, Jimmy Changaris, will not be able to fight at Lexington Coach Quinlan plans to fight Gene Devant in his regular spot in the 121 pound division. But Tillett will take over matters in the 128 while Burgess Urghart will fill Tillett's vacated position in the 136. Charley Reece, a newcomer, will fight the VMI 145 pounder. After a two week layoff due to a cold Clarence Idol, star 155 fighter, will wrestle, while Sam Gregory, steady 165 pound grappler, Roger Weil, 175 matman who is nursing a sore back, and Johnny Sasser, unlimited, will round off the Tar Baby line-up which will be defending its unmarred record.

Mermen Get Second Victory Of Season

By SHELLEY ROLFE
Coach Dick Jamerson was right. The Carolina swimming bossman had promised the Tar Heels would beat Washington and Lee at Bowman Gray pool last night, and they did, winning 42-33 for their second victory of the season against three losses. It was the last meet of the season, and the Carolina swimmers celebrated in traditional fashion by throwing two managers into the pool. Some sideline heckler suggested they pitch Jamerson in, but nobody did anything about it.

Behind the Generals in the first seven events, the Tar Heels went ahead when Tom McQuade won the 400-meter free style and Bill Thompson came in third in the next to last race. And with victory in the meet resting on the 400-meter relay, the Law school ended its most successful undefeated volley ball season yesterday afternoon as it captured the dormitory championship by defeating BVP in two consecutive games. Zeta Psi gained the privilege of playing Chi Phi in the fraternity finals

Preliminaries in individual intramural swimming events will be held this afternoon between 4:00 and 6:30, instead of tomorrow. Dormitories started their table tennis tournament yesterday afternoon, and the intramural department requests that all players be prompt for their matches.

Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock, by defeating Chi Phi in semi-finals match that was extended to three games.

In handing BVP its first defeat of the season, and in maintaining an eight game undefeated record for itself Law School exhibited the best form seen in the dormitory league this season. Both clubs handled the ball in a brilliant manner and their team work was exceptionally good. Paced by the brilliant work of Carr and Adams, Zeta Psi rallied in the final two contests of their volley ball match with Chi Phi to win the semi-final round by a 2-1 score.

Yes Willie, this is a picture of Mr. Ed Swindell of Duke, the long shootin' fella. He is a very good set shot. Duke has a very good basketball team. Swindell and the Devils play Carolina tonight.

Whiteshirts Take Intersquad Contest Ending Practice

Jim Lalanne, Sid Sadoff, Don Baker and Frank O'Hare brought winter football practice to a wild and woolly close in Kenan stadium yesterday afternoon by making frozen custard out of the Blueshirts, 53-0 in the third of the intersquad series while several hundred spectators shivered in sympathy.

The victory, which wound up seven weeks of muddy workouts, gave the Whiteshirts a 2-1 edge over their opponents.
