

Varsity Takes On VPI Today At Norfolk

Total Of 229 Men Pledge Campus Fraternities

RUSHING SEASON ENDS; PLEDGE LIST RELEASED

Kappa Alpha Leads With 20 Men; SAE, DKE Have 18 Each

Fraternity men and freshmen ended a two-week grind yesterday when the new men made their choices of Greek houses, signed a slip at Memorial hall, and went out to shake hands with their brothers-to-be as the fall rushing season came to a close.

A total of 229 pledges to 21 campus fraternities was announced last night by Studie Ficklen, president of the Interfraternity council.

Leading the field in number of pledges was Kappa Alpha, with 20 men, followed closely by SAE and DKE with 18 each, Phi Delta Theta with 17, and Chi Psi with 16.

Arriving at Memorial hall long before the scheduled opening time of 2 o'clock, the freshmen, mixed with a few upperclassmen and transfers who did not pledge until this year, formed in two queues before the registration desks. As they approached the desks they were each given a blank to be filled out, on which they indicated their top fraternity choice. The clerk then indicated the house to which the man had a bid, and he was required to go immediately to that house without further communication with anyone.

All during the four-hour pledge period, from 2 to 6 o'clock, an almost steady stream of men poured into and out of Memorial hall.

Six o'clock last night marked the end of the period of silence, in effect since Wednesday night, and many of the fraternities entertained their pledges at suppers or other informal gatherings. The tension which had been evident during the earlier part

Infirmary List Makes Headlines In World Crisis

Below is a news story that might be found in almost any newspaper today, except for the fact that most of the key words are names of students who are now in the infirmary. Just for the fun of it, you might read the story and underline the words or combination of words that look like names to you and then turn to the infirmary list on the fourth page to see how many you recognized.

Silver and steel today took a sharp upturn on the market as Holland again reiterated her neutrality in the current European war.

Hearing of the action, Chamberlin toasted the neutral from a gold stein as the winds from English vale and lea brought the sharp sounds of battle to within a short distance of London.

Carpenters and millers of the fourth ward in Cleveland, Ohio, following Hitler's speech yesterday formed a neutrality block. Walter Cole, leader of the movement, declared: "Hitler reminds me strongly of a fox. He is playing his hand with an ace in the hole. Or, perhaps, he might be compared to a wolf in swan's clothing, if that is not stretching the figure too far. However, we expect the whole thing to be at an end by Easter."

"Anyone Seen A Chess Player?" Asks Magill

"It seems that the campus has no confidence in its chess playing ability," said Director of Graham Memorial Bob Magill yesterday. "Here I issue the challenge of Harold Feldstein to play 15 men at once, and the response I've had has been deplorable. Do you want to admit that the winner of only a summer school tournament can beat the 15 best chess players at Carolina simultaneously?"

"Where are the chess players? If you know anyone who does play, has played, or wants to play, tell him to register at once to play Feldstein Tuesday evening in the Lounge. Two dollars to anyone who can beat him!"

Applications For Aviation Course Must Be In Today

Students enrolling in the Civil Aeronautics course are asked to secure application blanks from 208 South and turn them in there before 4 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The signed releases and letters of consent from parents are desired as soon as possible and must be delivered within a reasonable time. Students not having the written consent of their parents will not be prevented from beginning the course, however, but these releases must be turned in as soon as they are received. Enrollment in the course is on a provisional basis until students have taken the physical examination in Raleigh and secured approval of the Civil Aeronautics authority.

GROUND COURSE

The ground course in aviation will begin Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Bingham auditorium and all ground courses will be taught here, but all courses in actual flight training will be taught at the flying fields in Raleigh.

Dean Van Leer and Professor Parkinson of State college will be here Tuesday and offer instruction to those students who have enrolled. Qualifications for enrollment include a physical examination at the University infirmary and another physical examination from Dr. Powell G. Fox at the Masonic building in Raleigh. Written consent from the parents of all enrolling students is required and payment of a fee of $40 is also necessary. It is possible that there may be a laboratory fee of two or three dollars to cover the cost of instructors' transportation between here and Raleigh.

Students who successfully complete the course will receive a private license, but no students will be under obligation to the government in any way. They will not be listed in the Reserves, Army or Navy unless they wish to continue their instruction and go into one of these units.

Aviation training has been available to students at State college for some time but this is the first opportunity that University students have had to receive this instruction.

DRAMA TEACHERS, DIRECTORS OPEN ANNUAL MEETING

Group Will Gather At 10:30 Today In Playmaker Theater

Teachers of drama and theater directors from all parts of the state are gathering at 10:30 this morning in the Playmakers theater for the annual fall meeting of the Carolina Dramatic association.

Dr. Frederick H. Koch, founder and director of the Playmakers, will open the meeting with a talk on plans for the Southern Drama Festival, which will be held April 1-6 to celebrate the twenty-first anniversary of the Playmakers.

FEATURE

A special feature of the program will be a talk at 11 o'clock by Zora Neale Hurston, noted Negro author and director of dramatics at the North Carolina College for Negroes, in Durham. Miss Hurston will be assisted in her address, "Making a Negro Folk Theater," by a group of children, who will give a demonstration. The appearance of Miss Hurston on the Dramatic association program is noteworthy. She is not only a talented writer of Negro stories and an authority on Negro folklore, but she is vitally concerned with fostering native drama among her own people.

Samuel Selden, associate director of the Playmakers, will speak at 12 o'clock on "The Contemporary Theater in Europe." Mr. Selden recently returned to the University after a year's study on a Guggenheim fellowship. He spent six months in Europe

Fanfare Please, For Mr. Radman.....

Above is George Radman, Carolina's ace-in-the-backfield, who is expected to see action and plenty of it this afternoon when the Tar Heels meet VPI in Norfolk. Radman will probably alternate with Lalanne at quarterback to save Stirnweiss's injured leg as much as possible.

Daily Tar Heel Distributes 'Background For War' Today

Supplement Made Possible Through Courtesy Of Time Magazine Editors

Commended by more than one quarter of America's leading universities, a "Background for War" is being presented to the readers of the DAILY TAR HEEL through the courtesy of the editors of Time magazine.

Here, told in Time's own style, readers will find: a review of the diplomatic history of Europe from Versailles to Locarno, from Locarno to Munich; an account of the successive economic crises in Germany which culminated in the Nazi revolution; a comparison of the military power of the warring nations; a forecast of the strategy of the war, to explain a two-page military map of Europe; a study of the Commander-in-Chief of the Allied armies; an explanation of the war in China and its significance in the world crisis; and a study of what war means to nations of the sidelines—the neutrals, like America.

RECOMMENDED

Several university presidents have recommended the "Background for War" for studying the present European situation.

Law Library Gets Braille Volumes

Twenty fundamental legal texts printed in Braille have been placed in the University law library for the benefit of the blind students by the Library of Congress.

The library is now one of 10 libraries in the United States—one in each of the ten Federal Judicial Circuits—to receive these volumes, and is the depository for blind students in the Fourth Circuit.

There will be approximately 250 volumes when the project is completed. As many as 22 volumes in Braille are sometimes required to cover one medium-sized book in type and the volumes require a shelf 12 inches high.

The full set at the University will occupy about 57 feet of shelf space.

Conrow Drawings To Be Featured In Art Exhibit

An exhibition of portraits by Wilford S. Conrow of New York city and a collection of architectural drawings for the Wheaton College Art Center will open tomorrow in the Person Hall Art gallery.

Professor Russell T. Smith, head of the art department, will give a gallery talk on the exhibition at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. Conrow will be present for the opening of the show and will remain in Chapel Hill for several days. He is regarded as one of the outstanding portrait painters of today, being noted for his paintings of famous men and women. The keynote of his compositions is realism. He is said to be interested in portraying character with a relentless determination to put down an exact representation of the sitter.

GALLERY HOURS

This exhibit will be on view through October 24. Gallery hours are from 10 to 1 o'clock and 2 to 5 o'clock on weekdays and 2 to 5 o'clock on Sundays.

The New York Times says of his work: "In the presence of a theory-ridden modern art... there is solid satisfaction in finding work that rests, as Mr. Conrow's does, upon a basis of scientific theory growing into a form that pulses with life."

Among the portraits to be shown at Person hall are those of the most Reverend James De Wolf Perry, former presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church of America, Professor Nelson Glenn McCrea of Columbia university, and Dr. Gustavus A. Eisen, noted archaeologist. This exhibit will be shown through October 31.

ARCHITECTURAL EXHIBIT

The architectural exhibit includes drawings submitted in a nation-wide contest to select architects for the $500,000 Wheaton College Art Center. Of 253 designs submitted in the competition, 15 were selected as prize winners. These make up the current exhibition. First prize was awarded to Caleb Hornbostel and Richard M. Bennett, young New York architects. Second prize went to Walter Gropius and Marcel Breuer, professors of architecture at Harvard university. Others who submitted prize winning plans were William Lescaze, Lyndon and Smith, and Richard J. Neutra.

Professor Smith says of the designs: "I hope that all architects in the state and all persons interested in new construction of fine art buildings will avail themselves of the opportunity of seeing this excellent exhibition of international importance."

TAR HEELS GIVEN HEAVY ADVANTAGE OVER GOBBLERS

Stirny Benched; Lalanne, Radman Will Alternate

By SHELLEY ROLFE

NORFOLK, Oct. 6.—The University of North Carolina football team, from all signs and indications moving on its way to its greatest season in history, battles Virginia Tech at Norfolk's Foreman field at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Getting off to a slightly less than terrific start in its opening two games against The Citadel and Wake Forest, the Tar Heels are expected to clean up the Gobblers without expending any more effort than working up a sweat, and to move into their first major game of the season next week-end against NYU without having seriously been tested by any of the first three foes.

VIRGINIA RECORD

Virginia Tech lost to Marshall after beating Randolph-Macon in its opening game. There is high hope in Blacksburg of dumping Carolina, but as was shown in the Wake Forest game when the Deacons arrived with high hopes and a ragged team, it will take more than wishful thinking to send Ray Wolf's "chillun" back to Chapel Hill convinced they have been hit by a couple of squadrons of bombers.

Even without George Von Stirnweiss, who still limps around these days as a memento of banging up against Red Mayberry and Johnny Polanski in the Wake Forest game, Carolina should not have too much trouble keeping its present ranking as number one surprise team of the state, conference and nation in general. Stirnweiss has taken light work

Last year a record of 3,512 was set. Increased facilities, however, have made possible the accommodation of the additional 332 students now here.

BY SCHOOLS

Enrollment in the various schools is as follows: General college, 1,678; college of arts and sciences, 900; school of commerce, 389; law school, 119; graduate school 467; school of medicine, 82; school of library science, 34; pharmacy school, 140; division of public health, 35; and division of public welfare, 73.

Of the total registration, 2,495 are residents of North Carolina. The remaining 1,350 represent almost every state in the Union and several foreign countries.

Students are registered from all but six states and 14 are from other countries.

Phillips Speaks At Statesville

Urging local participation in the program of the North Carolina School Board association, Professor Guy B. Phillips of the University Education department and secretary of the association, said in an address in Statesville Thursday night that education is "in direct competition with other agencies of service and its directors must be on the alert to insure a fair share of public support."

Professor Phillips spoke before a county-wide meeting of school board members and school committeemen in the American Legion hut. He was introduced by T. Ward Guy, County Superintendent of Schools, who presided.
