BROUGHTON REPLIES

This column announced a plan last Thursday to quiz North Carolina gubernatorial candidates on their position regarding the University: tuition, appropriation, aid for needy, worthy students, etc. First to be queried and first to answer was J. Melville Broughton, Raleigh lawyer and Wake Forest alumnus. Following is the substance of his answer:

"I believe that the people of the state as a whole have great pride in the progress of the University of North Carolina. The Chapel Hill unit is the oldest state-supported university in America and ranks among the leaders of educational institutions in the United States. Its prestige should not be impaired and its normal growth should in no wise be retarded. I believe that the state of North Carolina should continue to make adequate appropriations for the expansion and improvement of this great institution.

"Likewise, I believe that the other units of the Greater University of North Carolina, the Women's College at Greensboro and North Carolina State College at Raleigh, are serving a tremendously useful place in the life of our state, and that every reasonable appropriation necessary for the progress of these great institutions should be made.

"I am particularly interested in plans which will make available special aid for needy, worthy North Carolina students. I am not sufficiently familiar with the situation to know whether or not adequate funds are available for this purpose. If not, additional provisions should be made. It should be possible for any worthy young North Carolina boy or girl, even though without adequate funds, to obtain an education at the University in one of its coordinate branches.

"I do not have any opinion on the question of tuition for in-state and out-state students, except, of course, that the out-of-state students should pay a substantially higher tuition. In this connection I think due consideration should be given to the policy of similar institutions in other states.

"I may say further that I have the greatest admiration for Dr. Frank Graham, President of the Greater University, who is in my opinion without a superior among the University Presidents in America.

students should feel obligated to aid in this fight against infantile paralysis. When a member of the Freshman 'Y' cabinet calls for a dime; give it to him gladly, and you will be repaid many times."

Louise Jordan, president of the YWCA: "The money collected will be used for a purpose which is vital to us all. Help make infantile paralysis a bugaboo of the past and safeguard future times through the March of Dimes."

Jack Vincent, president of the Interdormitory Council: "Speaking for the council, I heartily endorse the drive and urge all dormitory students to contribute."

as yet familiar enough with the finances to vote on the measure, and because the board wants more time to study the question.

Business Manager Bill Ogburn of the DAILY TAR HEEL made a report on his attendance at the North Carolina Press Association, which was held in Raleigh last quarter.

On Other Campuses From Coast To Coast

By BEN ROEBUCK

Professor, Lost Or Strayed . . .

"Speaking of the well-known absent-minded professor, Colgate can easily boast of one acceptable representative, following an incident Wednesday night. The story goes that a certain professor on the hill was called on an errand in the village early that evening, and leaving his car parked outside with the lights on, went in to take care of his business. On coming out, he walked home and went to bed, having forgotten that he had come in his car.

"Next morning the professor arose with five minutes to get to class. Hurrying out to get his car, he naturally found it missing. His first impulse was that it had been stolen, but then thinking back he remembered what had happened. So rushing back to the village he found his car still there, the lights on, the battery so low it didn't turn the motor, and a ticket attached for overnight parking." — Colgate Maroon, Jan. 19.

Breaking The Monotony

In case you haven't heard enough bands during your college stay, here's the February crop.

February 2 and 3 will bring Bob Chester's orchestra to Davidson for Mid-Winters.

Washington and Lee university is gonna feature UNC's own Kay Kysler Feb. 2 and 3. Following "The Roaring Eighties" motive, the Fancy Dress ball will be held Feb. 3. Kay will do his Wednesday commercial from the campus featuring girls from Hollins, Sweet Briar and Randolph-Macon.

Wake Forest will preview Al Donahue's "Lowdown Rhythm In a Top-hat" Friday before coming on over to Chapel Hill Saturday (Feb. 17) for the combined dormitory and grill prom. Orchids to the revived German club for booking Glen Gray, February 16 and 17.

Clemson college cadets have signed Will Osborne for an engagement Feb. 9 and 10.

Gray Gordon will "Tic Toc" at VMI Feb. 23 and 24.

Tommy Tucker and Will Osborne are combining to play for Mid-Winters at VPI.

Tommy Dorsey will be on hand at Virginia Feb. 16 and 17.

Girls Are Like Newspapers

Because— They are healthier and stronger than they used to be.

They are worth looking over. Back numbers aren't in demand. They try hard to be up-to-date. They aren't afraid to speak their minds.

They have much influence. They can make or break a man. A little color helps their looks. They carry news wherever they go. If they know anything they tell it. Every guy should have one and leave his buddy's alone.—Ward-Belmont Hyphen.

day, which will be celebrated February 6, included only fraternity, sorority and women's dorm houses, because of lack of facilities in dormitories, but it was announced that the dorms will probably hold their receptions as usual.

Bob Baldwin, chairman of the committee in charge of the Interdormitory council banquet for the weekend of the Interdorm dances February 9 and 10, announced that the small cafeteria of the University dining hall had been obtained for that Friday. The council voted to hold the banquet at 5:30 in order not to

This Collegiate World

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Engineering students are famous for their mathematical approach to all phases of life—and University of Minnesota engineers are no exception. They've started a move to publish a list of all jokes used by their professors, a list that will classify and number all wise-cracks and favorite stories of the pedagogues. Chief reason for the project is that it will be a time-saver for all concerned, for in the future professors will merely give the number of their joke when they feel the moment has arrived to spice their lectures with a touch of levity.

Professor Seba Eldridge, University of Kansas sociologist, gets the plush gonfalon in the race to determine the most absent-minded professor.

A few nights ago he left his home, "just to mail a letter." When he failed to return, his fearful wife asked the police to search for him, for she feared something dire had happened.

At 9 p. m., however, Professor Eldridge calmly walked into his home, entirely unaware of the search. He had merely neglected to mention he was going out also to attend a dinner meeting of one of his classes!

Illinois Wesleyan university's football manager believes in taking no chances—so he recently wired President Roosevelt: "I and hundreds of other football managers over the country would like to know the exact date for Thanksgiving in 1940." A presidential secretary wired back: "The date will be November 21, 1940."

Now that that problem is definitely settled, Midland College girls have a real reason for smiling in their contest to select the college's Smile Girl. In the novel competition, students will vote for the girls who have smiles which bring greatest happiness to others while indicating maximum happiness in the owners. We'll bet Germany would have a hard time conducting such a contest!
