"Quare Medicine" is a comic tale of a quack cure-all vendor with some very powerful and queer-acting potions for sale. Brad McCuen will handle the technical duties and McCurdy Burnet is in charge of sound effects. The play was adapted for radio by Betty Smith.

Folklore Expert Goes Wild Over Student-Faculty Skit

Chief Technical Advisor in 'Gone With the Wind' Filming Gives Interview

By SANFORD STEIN

"The 'Gone With the Wind' sketch in the Student-Faculty stunt night revue is simply too, too enchanting for words. It is undoubtedly the most superb piece of Americana I have ever run across in all my many years of experience."

These words were no idle compliment from a humble member of the laity but issued forth from the lips of Miss Susan Myrick, the country's foremost authority on southern folklore, history, manners and morals and who recently lectured in Chapel Hill. Having just returned from Hollywood where she was chief technical advisor in the filming of "Gone With the Wind" (that little short starring Clark Gable and Vivian Leigh), Miss Myrick was well qualified to compare the production methods of the cinema's David B. Selznick and the theater's Carroll (Continued on page 2, column 4)

Banks McFadden Finds Basket For 12 Points

CLEMSON, S. C., Feb. 3 — Big George Glamack was the man of the evening again tonight as he flipped basketballs over his head in the manner of Red Pat's most efficient juggler and saw most of them drop through the hoop as Coach Bill Lange's White Phantoms turned back Clemson's potent Tigers, 39 to 31.

Carolina's basketball team plays Virginia at Danville tomorrow night. The game was postponed from early January due to snow, ice and other unfavorable weather and atmospheric conditions. It will be the last non-conference game of the year for the Phantoms.

The Glamack-Banks McFadden duel captured the fancy of the spectators from the start and a roaring crowd made the individual battle even more intense. McFadden shot away to a flying start, faked Glamack out of position several times to drop in criss. Big George turned on the second half heat and his wizardly left hand flipped in field baskets repeatedly. The Phantom ace scored 17 points to lead the scoring. McFadden marked up 12.

It was the deadly second semester accuracy of Mathes', Howard's and Robertson's long shots, however, that (Continued on page 2, column 5)

TEP Tea To Honor Hillel Foundation

Since the beginning of the fall quarter, Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity has instituted a new series of "Guest Professor" programs, every Wednesday evening, at which some University faculty member speaks to the group.

Among the professors who have appeared at the Greek House have been Dr. James Godfrey, Dr. William Olsen, Cecil Johnson, Dean C. P. Spruill, H. M. MacPhee, Proff Koch, and Dr. Alan Bonnell. The series is designed to promote better relations between the fraternity and faculty members, and to stimulate good bull-session subjects.

TEA TODAY

This afternoon from 2:30 to 5:30, the fraternity will hold a tea for members of the Hillel Cabinet and residents of the village connected with the foundation.

Although several of the professors have spoken on their own fields, others, such as Dr. Bonnell, who addressed the TEP members on the definition of a college education, have attempted to deal with subjects pertinent to student life. After the talks have been concluded, an open forum session is held.

Stork Brings Son To Pat Pattersons

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Patterson, both alumni of the University, yesterday became the parents of a son, as yet unnamed, at a Long Island, N. Y., hospital.

Mrs. Patterson is the former Miss Madeline Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Thompson of Chapel Hill.

Legislature To Act On New Constitution Tomorrow Night

Change Will Shift Legislative Power Of Student Council

The Student legislature will take action tomorrow night on a new constitution that might result in the biggest swing of student power made at one time in the history of the University. This change will mean a shift of legislative power from the Student council to the Student legislature, and will also mean that the president of the student body will share honors with the speaker of the legislature.

The major change in the constitution proposed by a specially appointed committee is the general campus election of the speaker and three representatives from each class, none of whom are to hold any other campus-wide office. The speaker is to come from either the senior class or the graduate school.

The general representation in the legislature, according to the new document, will remain similar to the old set-up in many ways but a few of the campus organizations will undergo a complete shake-up. The editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL, for instance, will not be a representative, but instead, a member of the PU board will look out for the interests of all publications.

ELECTED IN SPRING

Election of representatives who will represent the general campus will be held at the general campus elections in the spring of each year. This will include five town students elected by students who live out in Chapel Hill in addition to the speaker and the three representatives from each class.

Other members of the legislature will represent the following organizations: 14 from the inter-dormitory council, one from the medical school, five from the interfraternity council, one from the pharmacy school, one from the law school, one from the Woman's association (not an officer of the association), one from the Pan-Hellenic council, one from each of the four women's dormitories, one (Continued on page 4, column 5)

Back Copies Needed

The DAILY TAR HEEL business office will pay five cents for each paper for the following dates: Sept. 15, Oct. 1, Oct. 24, Nov. 4.

Glen Gray, Casa Loma Band To Give Concert Friday Week

Sponsors, Escorts For Two Evening German Figures Will Be Selected Wednesday

Glen Gray and the Casa Loma orchestra will present a concert open to students and townspeople Friday afternoon, February 16, thereby beginning the Mid-winter German dances, the executive committee of the German club announced yesterday. Admission to the event will be 35 cents.

Tonight at 7:30, campus radio and dance fans will be given a preview audition of the Glen Gray corporation when it guest stars over the Fitch Shampoo program.

TWO TEA DANCES

Sponsors and escorts, who will participate in figures at the two evening formal dances, will be selected at meetings Wednesday night. Besides the two evening performances, the orchestra will play for two afternoon tea dances.

Only those members who paid dues last quarter will be entitled to attend the dance set. Students must pay the $7 quarterly assessment to retain (Continued on page 2, column 5)

CAMPUS LEADERS EXPRESS SUPPORT OF ASU MOVEMENT

350 NYA Students To Meet Tomorrow In Gerrard Hall

Several campus leaders yesterday expressed their whole-hearted support of the drive of the American Student union to fight the proposed cut of NYA appropriations in Congress. An ASU movement has been organized along with NYA students to petition the House of Representatives against passage of the President's reductions in federal allotments for aid to youth throughout the nation.

Tomorrow morning at 10:30 in Gerrard hall, a meeting of all of the 350 NYA students on the campus has been called to distribute petitions among the student body. Details of the drive will be explained to the students aided by the federal project at that time.

When approached by the DAILY TAR HEEL on the new drive, the following leaders replied as follows:

LEADERS REPLY

Jack Fairley: "I am one of those students who would not have been able to come to college without NYA. Naturally I am in sympathy with the drive against cuts in NYA, and I hope all students will support it."

Allen Green: "I am strongly opposed to cutting the already meager appropriations for NYA. Naturally, therefore, I strongly support the national campaign of the American Student union to restore last year's level of NYA."

Ruth Crowell (graduate student and former NYA): "The administration is trying to give us guns instead of education. The only organization on this campus that has had the interest of students at heart enough in this matter to take it up is the ASU. I am heartily in favor of their drive and hope all students will support it."

Ed Megson (PU board member): "I oppose the transfer of funds from aid to education through the NYA to arms and navies. I am in sympathy with the drive underway to put pressure on Congress to keep from cutting NYA."
