OHIO STATESMAN IS PRESIDENTIAL HOPEFUL FOR 1940

'Future Of South' Will Be Subject Of Address Tonight

By LOUIS HARRIS

Ohio's presidential hopeful, Senator Robert A. Taft will speak on "The Industrial Future of the South" this evening at 8:30 in Memorial hall, in the third of the winter quarter series of Carolina Political union programs.

The Buckeye state's junior Senator will arrive here shortly before 6 o'clock and will be honored at a dinner preceding his address in the Carolina Inn by the campus Young Republican club. In his Memorial hall speech, he will outline a plan for the industrialization of the South in order to raise the average income and standard of living of the part of the nation which President Roosevelt called the "number one economic problem."

TOUR

Since his official announcement that he would run for the GOP nomination, Taft has undertaken an extensive tour which has carried him throughout the East, South and Midwest. Most publicized of his campaign speeches was his address in Chicago to the Cook County Bar association, in which he put forth a plan to balance the budget. His proposals were in answer to a challenge by President Roosevelt that he solve the problem of the national debt.

Several of the nation's leading weekly magazines have given Taft much space during the past month. Time magazine reviewed his life and pointed out his qualifications for the presidency. (Continued on page 2, column 5)

Eddie Cameron's Duke powerhouse, the Joe Louis of Southern conference basketball circles, gets its final test of the regular season against Carolina at 8:30 tonight in the new Duke gym.

After that the record of the slightly amazing Little Boys in Blue will be strictly one of the books and will mean nothing when the firing begins a week from today at Raleigh for the conference cage crown. No matter what occurs this evening, the Dukes will go into the tourney seeded number one. They've won 13, lost one while the second place Phantoms have a 10 and two league record. Carolina'll have to win tonight to be seeded second, otherwise W&L will get the nomination.

There is no particular intention of losing to Duke on the local cage front. Carolina has already given one game away to the Blue Devils this winter, and Coach Bill Lange is a man who believes one such act is enough. He is positive it will not happen. (Continued on page 4, column 5)

Lobred, Hamrick Pugh Make Up PU Board Slate

By CHARLES BARRETT

The Student party in a rousing acclamation vote last night broke all political precedents in the history of the University by nominating Jane Rumsey and Charlie Nelson as co-head cheerleaders, marking the first time co-leaders have been nominated and the first time a coed has ever received official mention for the position.

The party's third convention of the year continued its blitzkrieg by nominating Ike Grainger, prominent member of the Student legislature and Interdormitory council, for secretary-treasurer of the student body, and Leonard Lobred, Rush Hamrick and St. Clair Pugh for the Publications Union board.

NOMINATOR

Phil Ellis, speaker of the Phi assembly and member of the Debate council, made a short talk advocating the naming of co-cheerleaders and later made the nominations. He pointed out an urgent need for rejuvenation of cheering and asserted the election of Nelson and Miss Rumsey would give "a new spark of enthusiasm and originality."

The selection of Grainger for secretary-treasurer completes the party's slate for the three most important campus-wide offices. Dave Morrison has been nominated previously for president of the student body and Gates Kimball for vice-president.

Grainger, a rising senior, has been prominent in his class for three (Continued on page 2, column 4)

NINETEEN LOCAL STUDENTS CHOSEN FOR 'WHO'S WHO'

Morris Rosenberg Receives Honor For Second Time

Nineteen Carolina students have been selected to appear in the 1939-40 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges," it was announced yesterday.

Those who will be honored by having a biographical sketch of their collegiate careers published in the new volume are: H. DeWitt Barnett, George Watts Carr, Jr., Miss Melville Fort Corbett, James Evans Davis, William Archie Dees, Jr., Jack Phifer Fairley, Louis Stuart Ficklen, Thomas Harry Gattton, Miss Louise Huske Jordan, Clyde Gates Kimball, Charles Robert Kline, Edward Heywood Megson, David James Morrison, George Francis Ralston, Morris William Rosenberg, Paul Hewitt Thompson, John Flentcher Vincent, Charles Edward Wood, III, and Richard Campbell Worley.

Morris Rosenberg is the only one of the group who was also selected for "Who's Who" last year.

The publication which will be off the presses this month is published through the cooperation of over 500 American universities and colleges. It is the only means of national recognition for graduates which is devoid of politics, fees, and dues. Several students from accredited colleges are selected each year by an unprejudiced committee for their biographies to appear in "Who's Who."

Students are selected on the basis of their character, scholarship, and achievements in their college careers.
