NEW UNITS

Political Snowball Grows And Grows

Early last fall a University senior was laboring in the medical school.

He was working very hard, for students in the medical school must pass every course. No course is regarded as easy.

But while he was working, this particular student felt a disturbance within him. He stopped to wonder, much as a man whose eyes begin to trouble him.

He went back to his work. But the disturbances continued, more frequent and with increasing pain.

The diagnosis of the medical student's case was ulcer of the stomach.

The student left school; his stomach healed; he returned.

But he was no longer in medical school, and having passed his required pre-medical work, was content to register for a number of electives which require less than "an extensive" amount of work.

The student wanted something else to do.

A plan was formulated. Bob McLemore decided to start another political party — to clean up and democratize campus politics.

Previously, an effort was made to get a campus primary, but the movement failed by a close vote.

But as McLemore announced the organization of his independent (the Carolina) party, Bill Stauber of the Buccaneer also announced a new party.

The result will now almost certainly be the sought-after campus primary — with the added difficulty of a run-off election.

This means a prolonging of the election process, harmful to candidates and their supporters alike. The political snowball, overnight, has rolled and rolled. It has grown bigger and bigger.

There can be little doubt how we stand on this issue.

Already this quarter we have editorialized favoring the two-party system. Already, too, we have admitted the weaknesses of this election system. Again, we fail to see how more candidates and more party organization will put better men in office, particularly with the competition between the two oldest parties as great as it has been during this quarter.

Two parties are enough. Oh evil ulcer!

(Editor's note: regardless of its opinion, the DAILY TAR HEEL offers each of the new parties equal space in its news columns for its NEWS).

21 Go Unscathed

Twenty-one fortunates were spared the pain of politics this weekend. They were the patients in the infirmary yesterday.

Miss Pittman Becomes Bride Of Dr. Latimer In Afternoon Ceremony

In an afternoon ceremony of simplicity and charm at the Chapel Hill Baptist church yesterday, Miss Sarah Lee Pittman of Elizabeth City and Chapel Hill became the bride of Dr. Philip Haxall Latimer, Jr., of Winston-Salem. The vows were spoken before Dr. O. T. Binkley of Wake Forest, former pastor of the church.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Rowland M. Pittman of Chapel Hill. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Nina Pittman of Chapel Hill.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was Dr. G. C. Kyker of Chapel Hill. Ushers were: Ashby Hammond of Greensboro, and Walter Crawford, Jr., John Frye and Richard Kenyon, all of Chapel Hill.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Minnie McCormick Pittman of Chapel Hill and the late Rev. A. E. C. Pittman of Marion, S. C. Educated at South Carolina Baptist hospital in Columbia, Mrs. Latimer has been connected with the staff of Watts hospital in Durham, and for the past year was at Albemarle hospital in Elizabeth City.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Haxall Latimer of Brunswick, Ga., received his B.S. degree at Clemson college and his Ph.D. degree at the University of North Carolina last spring. He is at present research chemist for the R. J. Reynolds' Tobacco company.

Grumman To Attend Meet In Washington

R. M. Grumman, director of the University extension division, left Chapel Hill Thursday night to attend a meeting in Washington, D. C., and Charles F. Milner, head of the bureau of visual education, will leave today to attend a meeting in St. Louis, Missouri.

The meeting in Washington is of the committee on federal aid of the National University Extension association, of which Grumman is chairman. The meeting is being held in the interest of adult education.

Milner will attend a meeting of the American Association of School Administration and the Department of Visual Education of the National Education Association.

Mrs. Wooten To Talk At Bull's Head Tea

Mrs. Bayard Wooten, widely-known photographer of Chapel Hill, will talk about the book, "Old Homes and Gardens in North Carolina," Wednesday afternoon at 4:15 at the Bull's Head tea. She will also show slides of pictures used in the book for which she did the illustrations.

Mrs. Lyman Cotten, who collaborated in writing "Old Homes and Gardens in North Carolina," will pour tea.

Weekly Radio Classes

have had radio plays performed by the campus radio studio. Another frequent visitor to the class is the well-known negro writer, Zora Neale Hurston ("Jonah's Gourd Vine," "Mules and Men"), whose fantastic version of the Cock Robin story as it might be interpreted by negroes will be performed next month.

The class meets as a unit, presided over by Earl Wynn, until all business concerning the whole group is finished. After that, the group breaks up into those interested in writing and those interested in production (primarily acting, but including some technical work such as sound effects). The writing is concerned almost wholly with dramatic work for radio, but specific questions on news writing and continuity are frequently raised and discussed. Green and Wynn are trying hard to have courses for credit in the various phases of radio work eventually included in the University curriculum.

Every meeting brings a reading of somebody's new play. It may or may not be good; it may be produced or it may not even come close. But in any case the author gets not only the benefit of an audience reaction but the criticism and constructive suggestions of experienced professionals. The class has recently heard such works as James Clark's untitled play about hoboes; an anti-war drama in verse by John Roeder, "Spears and Pruning-Hooks"; and "Behind the Curtain," a comedy of backstage theatrical life by Mrs. R. P. Wherry.
