Mr. John Frank Kenfield was discovered at the tennis courts yesterday afternoon.

Was he perhaps planning new and interesting ways of gaining the same results; Carolina winning all its matches by the 9-0 route? Or was the erudite gentleman merely enjoying the glories of spring-time, and perhaps giving a thought or two to his line-up for the day against Williams?

Kenfield has been coaching the tennis team hereabouts for 17 years. The matches his teams have lost in that time can be counted on your fingers if Kenfield hardly ever needs tennis players. So it was like bringing some Kelly Green into Dublin, when the word came through that Harris Everett would be eligible for tennis.

Mr. Everett is a bright young man about the court. His presence on the team means that instead of having merely an incredible outfit, Kenfield this spring will have a very incredible one and a club that will baffle the natives as well as the opposition through its sheer brilliance.

The report was that Everett was the best player in school. Had Mr. Ken-

BENTON TO START AT HURLING POST FOR TAR HEELS

The Carolina baseball team, which hasn't won a game since it opened the season with an 11 inning victory over Maryland and has lost three in a row since then, plays Michigan at Emerson field at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Red Benton, sophomore right-hander with an amazing variety of curves and deliveries, will start on the mound for the Tar Reel. Benton relieved George Radman in the ninth inning of the Terp game and went on to earn the decision when Bo Reynolds singled home the winning run in the eleventh. Red started last Monday against Harvard and went eight full innings. Radman was the losing pitcher, Harvard scoring twice in the ninth.

By BILL BEERMAN Carolina and Williams college met in a second tennis match yesterday and you guess the score.

That's right, 9-0 in favor of Mr. Kenfield's amazing gentlemen - consecutive win No. 24.

It was way back in 1938 when Princeton beat the Tar Heels 5-4 in New Jersey. Before that, years were extremely lean for Carolina opponents, and even leaner since then. Yesterday's final tussle with Williams was more interesting than the first one. Clarence Chaffee, Purple coach, agreed with John Kenfield to shuffle the line-ups about, so each man would have a different fellow to play than on Wednesday. The arrangement had merit, for Messrs. Rider and Rawlings were called upon to exhibit the best tennis they knew before winning.

BOUQUET FOR RAWLINGS

To Red Rawlings went the handclaps of the day. Playing Pete Shonk in the first singles match, Red lost his first set and seemed about to loose the second. Behind six games to five, Rawlings was equal to the pressure and took the next three games with smashes Shonk couldn't reach. In the final and clinching set, Bill extended himself and won 6-2, his southpaw stroking functioning perfectly. Match to Mr. Rawlings, 4-6, 8-6, 6-2. Charlie Rider also went three sets, field anything to say concerning the allegation ?

"Well, Harris may have the best possibilities. But he's only a sophomore. I wouldn't say he's the best yet. But he should go a long way in the future. The other boys on the team, the bright fellows like Charlie Rider and Red Rawlings, are seniors. Harris is a sophomore. He has three seasons of varsity play here. A fellow can come a long way in that time."

Would the presence of Everett make the path to another national championship easier?
