Town Students Meet Tonight In Gerrard

The Town Boys association will meet tonight at 10 o'clock to consider ways of having its new constitution ratified by a majority of all town students, Ernest King, president, said yesterday.

Provisions was made in the student legislature election bill for the constitution to be voted on by town students in the regular election April 18, but the student council vetoed the bill because this provision, saying that it was not part of the responsibility of student government to conduct business of one group.

Instructors Needed

Lib Huntley, assistant adviser to women, announced yesterday that she had received a request for two Red Cross water-safety swimming instructors interested in camping for a month.

Legislature Kills Article Six, Passes Rest Of Election Bill

HARDY FAVORS TOWN BOYS, COED REPRESENTATION

Senior Presidential Candidate Gives Election Platform

Direct-representation for town students and full recognition of girls in senior class activities were the key planks in the platform announced yesterday by Herb Hardy, Student party candidate for president of the rising senior class.

In the other three sections of his five-point program, Hardy pledged himself to uphold the honor system by advocating definite functions for the class honor council and close relationship between the council and the class; to make impartial appointments to senior committees; and to institute improvements in the budget passing machinery.

He emphasized the importance of having class finances strictly supervised by the executive committee. He also advocates the selection of a senior gift of lasting importance, of the necessity for the class to take active part in inter-class events.

BIGGEST SENDOFF

Hardy, who was nominated by over 150 delegates to the Student party convention February 15, the largest number ever to attend a convention in the party's history and the largest number ever to nominate a candidate at the University, has been a leader in campus activities for three years.

His major field of extra-curricular work has been in the interdormitory council, student legislature and intramural athletics. This year he was elected president of Mangum dormitory, vice-president of the interdormitory council, junior class commencement marshal and interdormitory council representative to the student legislature. He is one of the few juniors who have ever held the interdorm vice-presidency.

FULL PLATFORM

Hardy's full platform, as released yesterday, follows:

"If I am elected president of next year's senior class, I pledge myself to do all in my power to bring about the following and to keep them as guiding principles in all my decisions:

"1. Direct representation of town students in senior class activities.

"2. Full recognition of coeds as an integral part of our class in line with established Student party policy. Neither of these two groups have en-

Accepts Changes Suggested In Veto Of Student Council

Needing a unanimous vote of the body at last night's meeting, the student legislature failed to override the student council's veto of the election bill by a vote of 14 to 16, though only one vote instead of the 14 against would have been sufficient to defeat the bill.

The final bill as passed by the body was exactly like the former—providing the date and places of nominations for general campus offices and the date of elections, with the exception of section six vetoed by the council and an addition providing that the polls remain open from 9 until 6.

NEW PROPOSAL

After the new election bill had been passed, a resolution was presented by Martin Harmon to the effect that the legislature request the council to include on the town students' ballot provisions for the ratification of the constitution presented for approval. This amounted to the same thing as section six and was defeated by a vote of 18 to 7.

The election bill, passed by the student legislature last Monday night, was vetoed by the student council only because of section six, according to a statement from the council accompanying the veto. The reason supplied was that it would be setting a precedent for which no immediate need was to be seen. In their statement the

STUDENT UNION OPEN FOR DANCES

Lounge Available Every Weekend

The Board of Directors of Graham Memorial yesterday announced that the main lounge of the student union would be available for any weekend dances, without restriction, in the future. The new arrangement calls for the charge of an adequate fee to be made by the director.

A request by the pharmacy school for $110 for a dance was granted in the form of a loan to be payable when the school collects its fees. Another motion was also passed providing for the display of prints in the small lounge, instead of the paintings which are now used.

A sum of $200 was voted out of the present surplus to purchase a new amplifying system. The board also voted to provide funds so that another student union training officers conference might be held this spring.

Student Entertainment Allots $350 To Sound And Fury Club

With a grant of $350 to the recently organized Sound and Fury, the Student Entertainment committee last week engaged the club's spring musical comedy, "One More Spring," as a regular entertainment feature to be produced in Memorial hall in early May, Carroll McGaughey, president of Sound and Fury, announced yesterday.

Tryouts for the show, which is now almost completely written, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Memorial hall, McGaughey said.

OPEN TO EVERYONE

"The production is open to everyone on the campus," he said. "We have a number of good parts, a lot of places for specialty numbers, and plenty of room for a big chorus. If you're interested, you don't have to be experienced. We've got plenty of time and we can teach you to do the numbers we want, and rehearsals will be worked out on the most convenient schedule possible."

The entertainment committee based its action upon the success of the recent Student-Faculty day jamboree, which was directed by McGaughey and prouced largely by those who now make up the club, organized immediately after the jamboree.

ECONOMICAL

"The amount we are awarding to the group is less than that we usually have to pay for one of our smaller features," DeWitt Barnett, chairman of the committee, said yesterday. "We believe that the club offers a wonderful opportunity for the development of talent on the campus that would otherwise never be recognized. Besides that, we also believe that the club can give the campus the type of light entertainment it wants, and that is one of the purposes of the committee."

GRAINGER NAMES WALL TO LEAD SPRING CAMPAIGN

New Manager Has Extensive Record In Four Years

Ike Grainger, Student party candidate for secretary-treasurer of the student body, yesterday said Brick Wall, chairman of the senior class executive committee, would be his campaign manager in spring elections.

"Brick has been a prominent student for four years and I greatly appreciate his support," said Grainger.

Wall has served as chairman of the executive committee of the accounting association, on the freshman orientation committee, student audit board, freshman orientation committee, and was campaign chairman of the Student party last year when it won 20 of 30 campus offices.

STATEMENT

"Through four years of observing candidates and elections, I have rarely found a nominee as qualified as Ike Grainger is for secretary-treasurer of the student body," Wall commented last night.

"He has familiarized himself with every phase of student activity and has been a leader in many. He has been selected on the recently appointed committee to investigate student government, has served as sergeant-at-arms of the student legislature, been a leader in the interdormitory council, junior class executive committee, dormitory dance committee, and has been active in intra-mural athletics.

"This record speaks for itself as to Ike's ability. I feel confident he would make a splendid student body secretary-treasurer."

Grainger was nominated by the Student party at its third convention of the year, completing a slate of student body officers including Dave Morrison for president and Gates Kimball for vice-president.

GOP ASPIRANT BELIEVED AIMING AT APPOINTMENT

Has Key Position In Inner Strategy For Nomination

By LOUIS HARRIS

Frank Gannett, Rochester's "from newsboy to publisher" Republican presidential hopeful, will speak for the Carolina Political union this evening at 8:30 in Memorial hall over a state-wide Tar Heel network.

Flying into the state in his own private silver monoplane, Gannett will arrive in Raleigh sometime this afternoon, and will head a motor cavalcade to Chapel Hill. The Rochester publisher and his entourage, which will include many of the state's newspaper publishers and prominent Republicans, will be given a public dinner at 6:30 in the small cafeteria of the new University Dining hall. After the address, a reception will be held in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

According to Harry Gatton, chairman of the CPU, a series of political fire-crackers are scheduled to go off tonight when Gannett flays the New Deal in almost every phase of its activity. Recently in a western speech, the Rochester newspaper man predicted that with the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt to a third term, dictatorship would descend on the nation. Strongly emphasizing that "regulations and control on everything and everybody" should be immediately discontinued, the Republican hopeful from the Empire state believes that the government should be given back into the hands of business.

SMITH COMMENDS SOUND AND FURY

ASCAP Counselor Explains Contest

Professor S. Stevenson Smith, educational counselor for the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers, spoke Sunday afternoon to members of Sound and Fury, commending the club for the type of work it is doing.

In his address, Mr. Smith's chief purpose was to explain the ASCAP Fellowship competition for composers and authors of college musical plays. He explained the rules of the competition thoroughly and gave the members a number of helpful tips for producing their spring show. He also announced that he will be on the campus today and part of tomorrow and may be reached through Glen Haydon's office in Hill Music hall for conferences with students interested in the competition, or to answer questions concerning the society.

FELLOWSHIP QUALIFICATIONS

Students intending to compete in the ASCAP contest are required to file advance notices with their faculty, giving details of the proposed work. It may be an original music play, musical comedy, opera, light opera, operetta or musical revue. To qualify for consideration, the work must reach a legitimate production before an audience of at least 200.

Except for this year, the first of the competition, all entries must be in the hands of the judges by March 15. This year the deadline will be May 1, and the decisions will be reached by May 15. The prize in the contest is a $720 fellowship to be given to the author and composer of the production. If the authors collaborate
