

Hoey Refuses Hobson Parole; British Abandon Dakar Siege

London Bombing Is Slackened

RALEIGH, Sept. 25—(UP)—Gov. Clyde R. Hoey tonight refused to grant a parole to Mack Hobson, 20-year-old editor of the University of North Carolina Buccaneer, convicted of attempted murder of his sweetheart Alease Tart and now serving a four-month sentence. The request for parole was made on the plea that Hobson's health would be greatly impaired by serving out the sentence.

Paroles Commissioner Edwin Gill said that his office had made "a thorough investigation of the mental and physical condition of the prisoner and is positive the effect of imprisonment will not be harmful."

Governor Hoey, in denying the parole, said, "I am satisfied that Hobson is receiving humane treatment in the Lillington jail and that those in authority are doing what they can to prevent the period of imprisonment from seriously affecting the prisoner's health."

"Taking into consideration all the facts we are of the opinion that the ends of justice will be better met and the welfare of the prisoner best promoted by allowing Hobson to serve in full Judge Leo Carr's very reasonable sentence."

A miscalculated British blow, that may shatter London hopes of winning over the widely scattered parts of the French Empire to continue war against Hitler and Mussolini, was revealed last night.

The British announced that after three days of siege, British naval forces had abandoned the storming of Dakar on the southwest African coast.

The British, in their official announcement of the withdrawal made it clear that they blamed General Charles de Gaulle for the failure of the attack. It was he, they said, who concocted the whole idea and who misjudged the extent of the sympathy he would find among the Senegal people. There was talk in London that de Gaulle had been so discredited that he might not keep his position as leader of the free French forces.

Until the details of the three-day siege of Dakar are known, it will be difficult to understand why the British were unwilling or unable to seize the Senegal port once the battle had started.

The British explained this with the statement that "His Majesty's government never had the intention of entering in serious warlike operations against those French who felt it their duty to obey the commands of the Vichy government." To take

In an attempt to revitalize cheering at Carolina Charlie Nelson, co-head cheerleader, asks all boys and particularly freshmen who are interested to come to Memorial Hall tonight at 8 o'clock to discuss plans for the reorganization of the old Kay Kyser Cheerio club.

Stating that cheering at Carolina athletic events should be on a much higher plane, Nelson said that with a large Cheerio club to act as a nucleus for the whole student body concentrated and effective cheering could be achieved.

Model After Kyser

Modeled after the cheering sections organized by Kay Kyser when he was cheerleader here the new club will be a strictly honor group using special routines, yells, and possibly card displays.

Tonight plans will be drawn up for the election of officers and the writing of a constitution, and a short whisper rehearsal will be held.

Starting at 7 o'clock, the rally will "be short so we can finish in time for those who wish to attend the coed dance may do so," President Ferebee Taylor announced.

Taylor, in announcing the plans for the first rally of the year, said, "It is the purpose of the University club and the desire of all its members to maintain the fine school spirit which has existed on this campus for many years. We would like to see a large turnout for the rally."

Committee Named

No speakers had been selected last night for the rally but Taylor appointed a committee of George Hayes, chairman, and John Diffendal, Olivia Rhodes, Oscar Owens and G. I. Kimball.

The South building bell will be rung at 6:45 to remind all students of the rally and lights in all the buildings will be blinked at the same time, Taylor indicated.

It was announced that Jack Garland, keeper of Rameses, III, would keep the Carolina mascot until he recovered from a spell of "meanness." However, Al Rose and George Hayes were named to help Garland with the Mascot at the Wake Forest game, Taylor explained.

'Highland Call' To Play Again

Many Students To Take Roles

A number of University and Chapel Hill residents are moving this week to Fayetteville where they will assist for the next few weeks with the second annual production of "The Highland Call," epic drama of Flora MacDonald and other Scotch Highlanders in Eastern North Carolina, written by Paul Green, associate professor of dramatic art at the University, to feature the annual Cape Fear Valley Scotch festivals at Fayetteville.

John W. Parker, assistant director of the Carolina Playmakers, again collaborating with the production, left Monday for Fayetteville to direct the production again this year as he did last year when it was first presented. Aiding him is Josephina Niggi, of Monterrey, Mexico, a former Playmaker and now known as Mexico's national playwright. Dr. Frederick H. Koch, founder and director of the Playmakers, will again serve as advisory director.

Josephine Sharkey, of Chapel Hill, who made such a hit last year in the role of Jennie Bahn MacNeill, Scotch matriarch, will again play the role. Donald Mason, Elizabeth Blair, Robert Carroll, George P. Wilson, Jr., Helen Dortch, Mary Wood and other former Playmakers have been assigned roles.

Katherine Moran, who was Queen Elizabeth in Mr. Green's symphonic drama, "The Lost Colony," first of the planned historical drama series for North Carolina, will take the role of Flora MacDonald in "The Highland Call." Helen Bailey, who also had a character part in the Manteo production, will be Peggy MacNeill. Allan Frank, Tom Fearing and other actors in "The Lost Colony" will also play parts in the Fayetteville production.

Harry E. Davis, assistant professor of dramatic art here, is designing new scenery for "The Highland Call," and will act as technical director for the production. Mrs. Davis, director of costuming for the Playmakers and "The Lost Colony," is supervising the making of new costumes, with the aid of 20 NYA workers. ## Tally Yesterday Shows 3,809 Students Enrolled

Griffin Expects 4,000 Final Total

Total registration through 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon showed 3809 students had enrolled in the University for the fall quarter. This is 124 more than had been tallied last year at the end of the third day of registration and indicates to I. C. Griffin, director of the Central Records office, that the total enrollment will be about 4000 as compared to last fall's final figure of 3844.

Griffin cited 1939-40's individual enrollment of 4112 as further evidence that registration would approximate the 4,000 mark. For the past several years the preceding year's individual enrollment has closely determined the following fall's total registration.

"These two indications have always held good in past years," said Griffin, "and as far as we know, there's no reason why they shouldn't now."

Monday will be the last day for registration and schedule changes. All freshmen who preregistered last spring and who have not called for their schedules may secure them today at the offices of their general college advisers.

Town Boys To Hear House, Schnell

Dean of Administration R. B. House and Intramural Director Herman Schnell are scheduled to speak at the initial meeting of the Town Boys Association to be held in Memorial Hall Tuesday night at 7:30.

Compilation of a list of names and addresses of town residents by the organization has just been completed and President Pat Winston, speaking of membership, stated, "We will begin the year with the boys already on the rolls but we have hopes of swelling the list before the year is through."

Intramural activity will be the first business on the agenda at Tuesday's meeting. Plans will also be discussed for a social sponsored by Graham Memorial, four legislative posts left vacant from last year are to be filled, and donations made during registration have yet to be collected.

Coed Rushing Rules Changed

Sorority Parties Limited to Two

The Woman's Pan-Hellenic association is this year instituting a new and different set of rules to be followed during rush week by the three sororities on the University campus, Chi Omega, Alpha Delta Pi, and Pi Beta Phi. The number of parties given by each sorority has been limited to two, and the opening functions have been considerably changed.

After the initial tea on Friday, October 4, the girls will participate in a "round robin," held on October 5. The entire group of girls, which is to consist of anyone interested in a sorority, will meet first at Gerrard Hall, there be divided into three groups, and then taken on an inspection tour of the sorority houses. Refreshments will be provided at the last stop.

Reception Given

The week of October 6-13 will include receptions given by all three sororities on Sunday and Tuesday, and open to all girls who wish to attend. Monday and Wednesday, from the hours of three to six o'clock in the afternoon, will be devoted to a period of visitation, at which time sorority girls will be permitted to visit rushees in their rooms. On Wednesday night bids will be issued by each sorority inviting selected rushees to a party on either Thursday or Friday night. Thus the rushee must select the two bids which she prefers at that time, as she is able only to attend two parties.

Bids to the indication parties will be given out Friday night, and preferences must be turned in by Saturday noon, October 12.

Under the leadership of the Young Democrats club of the University a special district of collegiate YDC clubs was organized at the meeting of the North Carolina Young Democrats held in Raleigh September 12-14, it was announced yesterday by Winford "Wink" Norman, president of the campus organization.

Stating that college clubs had been without representation on the state executive committee Norman said that a resolution was passed at the state meeting setting forth "that a special district comprised exclusively of college clubs be organized and such a district have the same organization, to have the same representation on the state executive committee, to receive the same privileges and to assume the same responsibilities as other district organizations within the state."

Edney Heads Officers

Officers for the new organization were chosen from members of various college clubs over the state. The chairman of the special district is Fred Edney, student at the University. Edney announced that plans for the coming year include a district sponsored intercollegiate rally, dance and barbecue.

Norman also outlined plans of the campus YDC club for the fall quarter.

Pan American Study Planned

Further Cultural Relationships

The University has been named as the place of study for a group of distinguished Latin American educators, students and interested laymen from January 18th to March 1st 1940, it was revealed yesterday by Prof. J. C. Lyons of the Romance Languages Department. The course of study, composed of lectures, seminars, tours, etc. will be a furtherment of the national desire to bring the cultural relations of Spanish and Anglo-Saxon America more closely together.

A similar study was made at the University of San Marcos in Lima, Peru this past summer by a group from the United States. There, the Americans not only received a wealth of information about geography, history, economics of the southern continent but a working knowledge of its customs, and attitudes through a close day by day observation. The course here at the University will be carried on in the same way.

Study Arranged

Prof. S. E. Leavitt, professor of Spanish and Dean W. W. Peirson, Latin American history scholar, are to act on a committee to draw up the circular for the study. A booklet in Spanish is to be published within the next few weeks, explaining the set-up.

Reports have already come in to the effect that Colombia is sending an official delegation of ten persons, five of whom are University presidents. There are expected to be at least fifty delegates from the west coast countries.

The Latin American students will be in residence at the Carolina Inn while in Chapel Hill, but will take their meals in the University cafeteria. This is being arranged so that they might intermingle with the University students.

Tentative plans are going forward for tours through the tobacco plants of Winston-Salem and Durham, to the historical places of interest in Virginia such as Williamsburg, Richmond and Charlottesville, to several cotton textile mills, and to Pinehurst, N. C.

Frosh Counsellors

Freshman counsellors have been asked by Director Richard Worley of Graham Memorial to turn in as soon as possible the interests charts filled out by freshmen during Orientation week.

Program to Open Club's Activities For This Year

Adolph A. Berle, assistant secretary of state, will open the year's activities of the International Relations club when he speaks to the campus on October 7. Berle's speech, the first to come from the state department in several months, will be a significant indication of the policy of the department concerning the international crisis, and will be of interest all over the nation.

A non-partisan organization interested chiefly in world-wide affairs, the International Relations club is a moving force in campus activities. The program this year will have three parts: guest speakers, foreign ambassadors and other men prominent in the international scene, will be presented; quiz programs will be broadcast; and informal discussions will be held by club members and their guests. An open meeting and reception is planned soon for the new students, to acquaint them with the club and its purposes.

Forty Members

Membership is limited to 40 members. There will be an opening for three or four freshmen and a similar number of new coeds to be taken in next February. Meetings are held every Monday night at 7:45 o'clock.

Officers of the organization are Manfred Rogers, president; Wimpy Lewis, vice-president; Lyman Collins, secretary; and John Appledore, treasurer. W. B. Olsen is the faculty adviser.

Last year, one of the principal activities of the club, under the leadership of Walter Kleeman, was conducting broadcasts over various North Carolina stations on international news. One of the programs, "Straws in the Wind," attempted to give a background for the news of the day.

Wolf To Conduct Football Clinic

Graham Memorial's first annual football clinic will be held tonight at 7:45 in Gerrard Hall, Richard Worley, Graham Memorial director, announced last night.

As usual the clinic will be in charge of head football coach Ray W. Pictures of the game between Carolina and Appalachian will be shown, and Coach Wolf will lead a discussion dealing with the game. The head mentor will also discuss various plays used by Carolina, and describe them in a blackboard talk.

Free to Everyone

These clinics were attended by a large number of students last year, anyone is invited to attend. There will be no charge for admission.

For the first time in its history Graham Memorial is conducting a football contest this year. The twenty top games in the country including the weekly Carolina game will make up the list of teams that will be listed each week.

All members of the Carolina student body are eligible to enter, and the winner will be awarded a meal ticket good for $5.00 in the Memorial grill.

Cheering Squad Has Coed Job Open

There is still a spot open for a girl on the cheerleading squad, Charlie Nelson, co-head cheerleader, announced yesterday. Any girl who desires to try out for the position should appear at Emerson field at 4:30 this afternoon.

Anybody else who wants to try for a place on the squad, especially experienced persons, are welcome, Nelson said. He reported that progress was being made on the squad and a good showing is expected for Saturday's game.

Y-Y Fashions

All boys having their pictures taken for the Yackety-Yack are to wear a white shirt, dark coat and black tie, it was announced yesterday.
