

Tar Heels Again Fail To Function Smoothly

Duke Held Behind Vols' 20 In 13-0 Loss

UNC Muffs Two Chances To Score In First Quarter

Big Bob Foxx Leads Attack For Tennessee

KNOXVILLE, Oct. 5.—A fighting Tennessee team played Duke off its feet today and won the nation's number one game by a score of 13-0 before an overflow crowd of 42,000.

Major Bob Neyland's fighting Volunteers, probably the most powerful team he has ever produced, had Duke at its mercy throughout the game. In the second period Tennessee turned on full steam and scored its winning points.

It was the passing, running and kicking of Bob Foxx which helped to lower Wallace Wade's Blue Devils to their knees. The kicking of Buist Warren kept Duke in its own territory most of the time and the rest of the Vols resisted every Duke offensive drive.

Foxx, a senior who is "fast and fierce," accounted for the 13 points almost single-handedly. The first score five minutes after the second period opened climaxed a 63-yard drive during which Foxx passed to Jim Coleman, end, and Al Hust, another end, for almost the entire length of the field. Foxx also kicked the extra point.

Near the close of the same period Foxx again made good in his own home town and went over for a touchdown. Duke was on its own 26 and Frank Killian stepped back to kick. Mike Baltaris, an end, blocked the kick and Hodges West recovered for Tennessee on the 10-yard string. It took Foxx only three line plunges to score. Fred Timmons' kick was low.

Duke failed to live up to its reputation as being Wallace Wade's greatest team in a decade. The first period amounted to nothing but a punting duel. Duke was always in its own territory and never got past the 20. Only once did Duke show a spark, at the beginning of the second half when a fresh team took the field. Foxx kicked to the 30 and in two plays Wes McAfee went to the 44 for Duke's initial first down. The drive faded on the 35.

CHARLOTTE, Oct. 5.—A scrappy N. C. State Wolfpack bowed to a more powerful Clemson eleven, 26-7, today before 13,000 fans in Memorial stadium. The Clemson lads had things their own way throughout most of the game, scoring twice in the first period, and twice more in the last, the final score coming with but five seconds left.

The sports staff of the DAILY TAR HEEL will meet tomorrow at 2 o'clock at the editor's desk or, as in the past, else.

Phi Deltas Meet Dekes, To Open Fall Handball

The second chapter of an ambitious mural program will get under way tomorrow afternoon as the handball tourney commences, Phi Delta Theta, champion of the frat league last year meeting the Deke No. 3 outfit in the only match of the day.

A record number of entries, 34 teams in the frat league and 16 in the dorm, will engage in a double elimination basis, established this year for the first time. Thus, a team will have to be defeated twice before it is eliminated from the race.

Last year the tournament was very successful, and was run in both the fall and winter quarter, due to the large number of entries which necessitated the running over of the tourney into the second quarter. However, this year, with the cooperation of all the teams, it is planned to complete the tournament in the fall quarter, with the champion in both leagues to be crowned the last week in November or the first week in December.

Each team is composed of six men, comprising three doubles teams. The outfit which wins two of three of the contests will be the winner of the match. Some of the fraternities have entered as many as three teams to vie for the honors.

Courts C, D, and E will be used during the week, and a match has been scheduled for every afternoon commencing at 5 o'clock. All participants are requested to be at the courts at the scheduled times.

Fencers To Meet William And Mary, CCNY This Year

Concluding their first week of work, the fencing squad is confident that if strenuous calisthenics can produce good swordsmen, the Carolina team may safely look forward to a very successful season.

Work for the past week was intended to get some of the swordsmen in shape for harder work to come. Some however, insist that they will never get over their present sore legs and backs.

The team will meet some of the biggest competition in the country this year. William and Mary, reputed to have one of the best teams in the South, and CCNY, one of the best teams in the North, are both on the schedule for the coming season.

The prospects for coming years are brightened by a large group of freshmen and a few experienced transfer students who, although they will be ineligible for varsity work this year, will form a nucleus around which next year's team will be formed.

Experienced men will be coaching in all weapons. These men are Captain John Finch, epee; Bob Harrington, sabre; and Pickett, foil.

PINHOLES OF LIGHT for the Tar Heels were Frank O'Hare, left, and Johnny Pecora, tailbacks who led the Carolina offense.

Meyer Believes TCU Strongest In Years, Predicts Fine Season

Coach Counts On Soph Dean Bagley For Quarterbacking

FORT WORTH, Oct. 4.—Football experts throughout the Southwest are daily becoming more encouraged about the chances of Texas Christian in the gridiron dogfight now under way, and Coach Dutch Meyer, head man at the Horned Frog camp, who ought to know, is daily becoming more encouraged than any other.

"We are definitely going to be much stronger than last season," Coach Meyer reports. "We have never thought we would have a top flight team, and we don't think so now. But unless all signs fail, we are due to upset the dopesters in a spot or two before the season is ended."

"We are showing more power on the ground than any Frog team has displayed in years. Our passing is up to par. Punting will be good, though not sensational. Defense needs strengthening, but it is improving from day to day."

Kyle Gillespie, the only man who could make the '39 team click, has been given up for most of the season. His bad knee, reinjured in practice scrimmage, is not coming around very fast. He has not even been in uniform for a week.

But Coach Meyer has a deep-seated liking for the little man who can go, and is more than satisfied with the manner in which Dean Bagley, sophomore mite from San Saba, has taken over the No. 1 quarterbacking job.

"Wait until the fans see him go," Coach Meyer comments. "I won't have to talk then; they'll do the raving about Bagley."

Injuries, switches in positions and promotions from the second and third elevens have led to numerous changes in the personnel of the "A" and "B" teams since practice started Sept. 5.

As rated right now by Coach Meyer the first two elevens, with weights, are made up as follows:

"A" team—le, Connie Sparks, 195; lt, Derrell Palmer, 220; lg, Bill Crawford, 200; c, Capt. Clarence Alexander, 195; rg, Bobby Sherrod, 198; rt, Ennis Kerlee, 213; re, Phil Roach, 190; q, Dean Bagley, 155; lh, Nolan Sparks, 200; rh, Logan Ware, 179; f, Frank Kring, 195.

"B" team—le, Ronnie Brumbaugh, 170; lt, Leonard "Stinky" Pugh, 205; lg, Bill Lowden, 195; c, Billy Blackstone, 189; rg, Mike Harter, 195; rt, Woodrow Adams, 229; re, Bruce Alford, 170; q, Beecher Montgomery, 160; lh, Gus Bierman, 178; rh, Bill Ramsey, 182; f, Paul Smith, 175.

Fans, Surprised at Half Score, See Carolina Finally Pull Through, Led by Pecora and O'Hare

By H. DeWitt Hollingsworth

BOWMAN GRAY MEMORIAL STADIUM, Winston-Salem, Oct. 5 — It's half-time and the Carolina and Davidson bands are on the field while Ray Wolf is telling the Tar Heels what they've been doing wrong in the first half.

No one, even the staunchest Davidson rooster, would have believed the score of the game would be 7-7 at half-time and not a Carolina supporter would have thought Davidson would score in this game. But it has and now, to win, the Tar Heels must improve.

Bands Swing Out

Carolina has played the Davidson song and the Davidson band is finishing up on "Hark the Sound" with a unique figure. The sponsors have been presented to the crowd, which numbers possibly 10,000. The stadium, which is situated some distance from town, is constructed something on the order of Kenan except for a quarter-mile track running around the playing field, and the stadium can be converted into a horseshoe much more easily than Kenan. It has been built in a natural bowl, something like the Carolina field, but cannot seat as many spectators.

Here comes the Tar Heels back on the field to start the third quarter and we hope to see a much different team than we have seen in the past two games, or in the first half of this game.

Tar Heels Win

And there's the gun for the end of the game. The Tar Heels have won their second game of the year. But in winning, Coach Wolf's boys looked far from impressive. Little Tailback Johnny Pecora sparked Carolina to its tie-breaking score three plays after the second half opened when he stepped off right tackle for 21 yards and his second touchdown of the year.

Pecora and Frank O'Hare were the only offensive threats of the Tar Heels today, for between them they rolled most of Carolina's yardage from scrimmage. Pecora was just about unstoppable every time he tucked the ball in his arm. O'Hare spent most of the afternoon in the Wildcats' backfield and tossed several aeriels for good gains.

Johnny Frederick and Dave Spencer paced the Cats. Spencer's touchdown trip on his punt return will no doubt go down in the books as one of the best punt returns in the state this season.

Down Goes Duke

When the Duke-Tennessee score, which was 13-0 at the half, was announced over the public address system, the Carolina and Davidson student bodies let out with a wild cheer. But little could be told from that, for when the first quarter 0-0 score was announced the same thing happened.

Bill Sigler offered some fine kicking during the game. He punted once for 71 yards and then followed it up with a kickoff into the end zone. When he kicked the extra point after the last touchdown, the ball settled up on a bank 20 yards behind the uprights. The referee had to call upon a spectator to toss the ball back into the playing field.

bench throughout most of the game, and in his short time at the tailback spot didn't figure once in a running play. Sweet James passed several times, but Bill Sigler, sophomore fullback, did all of the ball-carrying when Lalanne was calling running plays.

Changing Positions

Lalanne, Sid Sadoff and Don Baker—all three considered first team backfield material—rested most of the afternoon while Coach Wolf tried out his versatile sophomores. Harry Dunkle stayed at blocking back most of the game, except for a brief time when Dave Barksdale took his place. Joe Austin started at wingback and was followed by Tony Remy and Baker. Mike Cooke opened at fullback, to be succeeded first by Bill Sigler and then by Austin, who was shifted about the entire afternoon. Pecora and O'Hare called signals.

The continuous shifting in the line may have shown that Wolf is seeking more than just reserve material. Almost everyone who at the beginning of the season was conceded a chance of doing the club any good was played even for a few minutes, and it seemed that Wolf is now looking for a combination that he can depend on to click alertly, smoothly and consistently.

Something Missing

Something is still missing from the Tar Heel line-up, whether it be talent or even that well-known "will-to-win." A 1940 performance such as those turned in against Appalachian, Wake Forest or Davidson would not put the Tar Heels far in a contest with Texas Christian, their opponent of next Saturday.

Davidson's touchdown can be considered as a great mistake, or one of those things that isn't supposed to happen. When 140-pound Dave Spencer returned a punt 42 yards through the whole Carolina team early in the

Derringer Wins For Cincinnati, Tying Score 2-2

DETROIT, Oct. 5.—It was all big Paul Derringer yesterday, as the veteran Cincinnati pitcher handcuffed Detroit's big guns with five hits to even the World Series at two games apiece.

Derringer had tried unsuccessfully five times to win a Series game prior to today's game, and his teammates were behind him all the way in his quest for victory. Banging out 11 hits at the expense of three Detroit pitchers, the Reds left the final outcome in little doubt.

Werber pried off the lid in the first inning by drawing a walk from Dizzy Trout and was quickly moved around by Ival Goodman's long double. Then it was up to Jimmy Ripple to score Goodman with a hot grounder that went through Pinky Higgins for an error.

From there on, the Reds were never headed and although the Tigers threatened in the second and scored in the third and the sixth, Derringer was master of the situation throughout.

second period, it looked as though the Tar Heels were taking an unofficial time-out. Spencer was covered when he took Lalanne's punt, but he jerked free, raced for the right side, and scored standing up, almost untouched. Bob Johnson, guard, was sent into action immediately with a special toe-apparatus to kick the extra-point.

Bungle Two

Carolina missed two scoring opportunities in the first quarter, one of these being Pecora's long run that was called back. With O'Hare working in Pecora's place later in the period, the Tar Heels worked down to the Davidson 7, where the Wildcats recovered a fumble and took possession on their own 5. Davidson punted out of that hole, and after several exchanges, Spencer made his lone touchdown dash.

By the time Carolina got in the ball game, the second period was halfway gone, and Wolf had substituted a first team of Severin, Sieck, Nowell, Suntheimer, Marshall, Kimball, Richardson, O'Hare, Dunkle, Austin and Sadoff. Then the Tar Heels made three first downs in a row. O'Hare made seven yards off right tackle and passed to Austin for 12 to the Davidson 21. O'Hare made six yards in two tries, and Severin made four and a second first down on an end-around. O'Hare made 10 yards, just short of the goal-line, and made a score on the next try at the line. Dunkle tied the score with his extra-point from placement.

Davidson was playing at midfield when Pecora intercepted a pass from Johnny Frederick on his own 49-yard line and ran it back until being bumped out of bounds. The field judge called a 15-yard unnecessary roughness penalty on the Davidson tacklers. (Continued on page 4, column 3)
