Captain W. F. Santelmann, Marine Band Leader, Is Authority on Music by American Composers

An "All-American" concert by the United States Marine Band will open the fall entertainment series in Memorial hall on October 21. Captain W. F. Santelmann, world-renowned director, will lead the band.

Captain Santelmann, a member of the 142-year-old band for the past 17 years and recently named conductor, is one of the most ardent promoters of American music. In band concerts, in orchestra concerts, and in radio broadcasts, he encourages American composers by using their works whenever he can.

Homecoming Plans Made

Carolina-Tulane Game Is Feature

Sweeping plans for a great homecoming celebration featuring the Carolina-Tulane football game are highlighted by a concert, a pep rally, parades, contests, and the Fall Germans are being completed by a special committee of students, faculty members, and merchants.

The committee, headed by Dave Morrison, president of the student body, thrashed out problems and appointed sub-committees to take care of final details.

The Chapel Hill Merchant's association will decorate their stores and display windows in a contest to find the "best-dressed homecoming window." The winners of the decoration contest of the merchants will be awarded tickets to the football game.

Decoration contests will also be held for the men's dormitories, the fraternities, and the women's residences.

The University club will choose judges to pick the winners in each division and those winning will be announced at half-time. The judges will make their inspection on Saturday morning.

Those groups which intend to enter the contest are urged to submit their applications with an idea of design to Dick Worley in Graham Memorial before 6 o'clock next Thursday afternoon.

Friday morning, with the streets decorated for the occasion, thousands of alumni are expected to pour in. Friday afternoon a free concert by Bob Chester and his orchestra will be given in Memorial hall. The day's festivities will be climaxed with a torchlight parade ending in a pep rally which may be broadcast.

Saturday morning monogram men and all alumni will register at the (Continued on page 4, column 5)

Far East Conflict Remains Greatest U. S. War Danger

Draftees To Get Debt Moratorium

By Everett Holles
(United Press Cable Editor)

Despite sensational headlines from London, where German planes last night and today continued their bombing of London and other centers in Great Britain, the British claim to have broken up plans for a German invasion of the isles, the Far East appeared today still to offer the greatest indications of early war danger for the people of the United States.

Japan was increasingly restive because of what was described as President Roosevelt's interventionist policy in the Chinese-Japanese war and Nipponese war flyers were sent on what was described as a "devastating bombing attack" on the Burma munitions route which was re-opened Friday by the British.

Busses Hired For Motorcade

Tickets Available For Fordham Trip

Students will be able to purchase round trip tickets to the Carolina-Fordham game in New York on November 2 for $10.85, it was announced yesterday by Jimmy Howard and Al Hughes, who are sponsoring the motorcade.

"This will include round trip fares from Chapel Hill to New York and back on brand new Carolina Trailway busses," Howard said.

According to present plans busses will leave here on both Thursday and Friday night and will return Sunday. Tickets will be issued each student going, and if he cares to stop over and spend the night in Washington or Philadelphia it will be possible to do so.

Either Howard or Hughes will be in the YMCA every day next week at chapel period and in the afternoon to sell tickets and answer questions concerning the trip. Students have until Tuesday, October 29, to buy tickets. Kyser Leads Cheers

Editor Merrill Boldly Accepts Tar-Mag Challenge In Inkpot Classic---Yackety-Yack! Ray! Ray!

"We will accept your challenge," Byrd Merrill stated boldly yesterday on behalf of the Yackety-Yack in accepting the challenge of the Tar-Mags for a renewal of the Inkpot classic.

"We are not in hiding. We will accept your challenge. Without the Buccaneer, I demand the freedom to play the Buc committee or the PU Board. Nevertheless, undaunted and unafraid, we face you." That was his complete statement. It gave evidence that the Yackety-Yack intends to make up some kind of a team to play the Tar-Mags in the Inkpot classic, the date of which has not yet been decided.

Parade, Game Highlight Greater University Day

State Plays Host To University, WCUNC Students

Students from Carolina and WCUNC will gather in Raleigh today where State college will play host at the third Greater University Day held annually in connection with the Carolina-State football game.

Five hundred girls from the Women's college will arrive from Greensboro this morning by train. Spirit shown by University students last night at the pep meeting points to a large attendance by Carolina students.

State, who is also holding Alumni Homecoming this weekend, began the festivities last night with a stunt program in Pullen hall and a mammoth pep meeting and bonfire.

A procession composed of six bands and other walking, mounted, motorized and aerial units will parade through downtown Raleigh this morning at 10:30. Included in the parade will be Governor Clyde Hoey and the deans of administration from the three schools of the Greater University—R. B. House of Carolina, W. C. Jackson of WCUNC, and J. W. Harrelson of State.

Between Halves

Between halves of the game this afternoon University President Frank Graham and the presidents of the three student bodies, Lib Patton, Dave Morrison and Paul Lehman, will make short speeches.

State dormitories and fraternities will observe open house after the game. The alumni ball, with music by Barry McKinley, will be held from 9 until 12 o'clock in Frank Thompson gymnasium. Bandleader Jack Wardlaw has planned a "jinx party" for tonight at the Carolina club.

All arrangements for Greater University day have been made by a committee composed entirely of students from the three units. The committee included Paul Lehman and Bill Friday of State, Dave Morrison, Bill Dees and W. T. Martin of Carolina and Lib Patton and Annie Braswell of the Women's college.

Prof. Harland Left Holding Obelisk

The mail must go through, or so it seemed in Prof. Harland's archaeology class yesterday, as a special messenger dashed into the auditorium where his "Archaeology of the Near East" was in session.

The messenger boy, in true Hellsapoppin' style, carried on his back a huge replica of an Egyptian obelisk (something on the order of the Washington monument). With businesslike efficiency, he thrust his burden into the arms of the surprised professor and after giving him a card, left in much haste.

"Hot-Shot Hoosis"

The card read, "We understand that you are interested in moving 'objects d'arts', from ancient Egypt, and under separate cover are submitted a sample of our work—'Hot-Shot hoosis'!"

"Compliments of the SECOND MATE'S SECOND RATE MOVING CO. (We move anything, Sphinx or Schwabi, Obelisk or Pylon... Grave robbing a specialty)"

State Has Hopes Of Capturing Big Five Crown

By Leonard Lobred

With a new make-up that has baffled William and Mary and Davidson and struggled through against Clemson, N. C. State's Wolfpack takes the field at Riddick stadium in Raleigh after a two-week lay-off to prepare for today's game with Carolina, one of its oldest rivals, in the feature event of Greater University of North Carolina day. The kick-off is at 2:30.

Their upset win over William and Mary, unexpected because of the Indians' early-season ranking as the best eleven in the Old Dominion, showed that the men of Coach Williams "Doc" Newton are producing what was expected to result from the helping hands of the alumni. Even though the first group of alumni-aided gridmen are now freshmen, the winning spirit seems to have a strong hold on the Raleigh campus, and the Wolfpack—no longer under the strain of a suicide schedule—is now as strong as any State eleven has been and is pointing to victories in the big contests that will gain prestige.

So optimistic are State rooters that they haven't given up hopes of gaining top standing this year in the Big Five. A light backfield of Bob Cahey, Lux Watts, Jack Huckabee and Pat Fehley behind a line that outweighs Carolina's by one pound is capable of producing all sorts of trickery, now that the Wolfpack has adopted a Tennessee style of play—with (Continued on page 3, column 1)

Soph Committee Passes Alternate Class Budgets

The sophomore executive committee met yesterday and approved two alternate budgets submitted by Class President Johnny Hearn.

One budget is compiled on the assumption that the sophomores will have individual pictures in the Yackety Yack, the extra $2.00 fee to be paid in the spring. The alternate budget omits this expense.

Sometime next week the class is expected to meet to vote on these budgets and incidentally to decide on the question of Yackety Yack pictures.

Hearn stated that he "felt assured that the budget providing for individual pictures will be adopted," since more than 100 photographs have already been made by Wooten-Moulton studios.

The date of the sophomore meeting has not definitely been set, Hearn said, but it will be in the latter part of the week. Prior to the meeting, the DAILY TAR HEEL will publish the budgets so as to inform the class.

To provide entertainment at the class meeting, Hearn promised that one of the "best dance bands on the campus" would play.
