

Po' Spinsters Wait For Dogpatch Brawl

Coeds Amazed By Four Dates In One Evening

By Elsie Lyon

Four different dates in one evening! All undated gals of the Carolina Dogpatch are fixin' to celebrate the memory of the illustrious Sadie Hawkins in grand style.

The gals are amazed at the possibilities. Take one man to the dance, date two others while there, and be escorted home by still another. Did you ever hear of the like? Four chances to get a man, and the same goes for the men with the gals.

The Tin Can will see a real can opener used on it Saturday night from 9 to 12. The Graham Memorial Mountaineers, featuring Harry Whidbee on the fiddle, will give their all.

Maybe the girls will even show the old boys about these parts how to do things. Grady Reagan is going to give his very special version of "Li'l Abner," the title song from the new RKO movie.

Surprising Costumes

Everybody will be mighty surprised with the costumes of famous Dogpatch characters. Students will compete for cash prizes to be given for the best Daisy Mae and Li'l Abner, and for the many other valuable prizes to be given for the best costumes.

Students are mobbing the Graham Memorial office, house presidents, and members of the Graal and University club to sign up. And did you hear about that $5 prize to the coeds or men's dorm with the largest turnout? Any social fund would welcome that.

Everyone is thanking that great committee, composed of Marjorie Johnston, Jane McMaster, Bill Doss, and Peregée Taylor who are slaving so hard to give us a hand in snagging a man.

Lots of people have already signed up and more are doing so all the time. The great lottery, when the girls will draw the name of the lucky man whom they will escort to the dance, will take place Friday morning at 10:30.

Mayor Fish Worley has said, "It's an excellent opportunity to meet lots of folks, what with the round and square dancing and partner changes, and, after all, who are we to disagree?"

lege adviser; the opinion of each of the faculty members under whom he has studied; and the general difficulty of the curriculum followed.

These requirements were put into effect in an effort to erect a barrier for "grande-hounds" and an attempt to make the extra honor of junior membership represent "real scholarship and not pseudo-scholarship," according to A. C. Howell, of the English department, who opposed their repeal at last year's meeting.

Vice-President Watts Carr in presenting the repeal motion at that meeting said, "Frankly, I don't feel that it's fair for me to be a member of the fraternity when I know other boys who had a three or four point better grade than I did, yet were not admitted."

HERE'S YOUR blind date for Sadie Hawkins' day, fellows — costume and all. Daisy Mae's just a sample. As any fool kin plainly see. See?

have been busy urging all juniors to attend the session and this morning's vote will tell the story. Elliott remarked that in the past when a class fails to approve its budget the first time it usually has a long wait before it can finally be approved and important official business is invariably delayed.

The class income of $5,959 will be spent as follows: auditing and book-keeping, $10; Yackety Yack space and pictures, $94.25; junior-senior profn, $1,500; supplies, $10; postage, $5; printing, $5; marshals for commencement, $65; donations to University club and Carolina Political union, $50 each; for officers of the class of 1942, $25; and miscellaneous, $25.

The total expenses of the class will amount to $5,075.25. It will carry over $1,195.89 into its senior year.

"Let's get this budget over with," Elliott urged.

the cost of losing valuables rather than end this ulcer of petty thievery — in many instances extending to grand larceny.

As a solution of a situation that badly needs correction I offer a three-phase proposal for the consideration of the administration and the student body; to-wit:

1. That the University, students or administration, obtain adequate detective services to trace "lost" articles and to apprehend the culprits.

2. That the University and the town of Chapel Hill require the local book stores to place in all textbooks

Phi Resolves To Establish Dating Bureau

A resolution providing for the establishment of a dating bureau between the Woman's college and the University was passed last night by the Phi assembly in the beginning of a campaign to better the social relations between the two schools.

"Plans will go into effect immediately for actually carrying out this plan," Jimmy Pittman, speaker pro team, said.

Bob Sloan is acting as chairman of a committee composed of Representatives Lineback, Pittman, and Nimmons. This committee will discuss the matter with Dean Bradshaw and make arrangements with the administration of Woman's college.

Table Stadium Bill

The bill favoring the addition of concrete seats to the west end of Kenan stadium was tabled until the next meeting of the assembly. Such an addition to the stadium would complete the form of a horseshoe, as originally planned.

The resolution brought up last week concerning the campus code was defeated by an overwhelming vote. It provided that the campus code be supplemented by guaranteeing definite fundamental rights to all students.

"We will make a definite effort to begin our meetings promptly at 7:30, and I expect all members to co-operate with us in this particular," Speaker Sloan said.

sold serial numbers; that, at the first sale thereof after the adoption of this measure, the book store enter, for permanent and easily available record, by the serial number of each book sold the name of the purchaser thereof; that at the time of repurchase of books by the book stores another entry of the name of the person selling the book to the book store be made thereby.

(Offhand this may seem to mean that there could be no exchange of textbooks between students, but that is not so, for the student-seller and the student-purchaser need only to inform the book store whose name is stamped inside the book that such an exchange has taken place. As for outstanding textbooks, the serial number entry could be made by the book store at the student.)

3. That every student be closely on the alert for any evidence of the misappropriations mentioned, and the student be willing instead of reluctant to report anybody (best friend, roommate, or enemy) to the Student council when evidence is found that he has been guilty of such. How do you feel knowing that somebody — many students — are petty thieves, dishonest, and that one of them may be your roommate, thereby exposing you to the danger of losses you cannot afford?

These protections are badly needed, for they will cause a fear of detection in the mind of the would-be "snitcher" that will greatly decrease the likelihood that he will be as willing to appropriate to his own use the property of others.

Let's have a hue and cry for a solution of this mar on the face of the honor system! Let's have action!

Pete Burkheimer.

POWER ADDED

don has plenty of fire and has gradually worked his way to the first team by consistent work, while Cozart, who started the season as just another mediocre halfback, has come to the starting line-up in just three weeks. Jack Begley, 215-pound guard who ran on the first team until a knee injury put him on the shelf, has shown great improvement and will give somebody a tussle for a starting assignment.

The tackle vacancy caused by Marshall Parker's leg infection is being filled by Frank Clement and Manuel Holhouser. Neither has much of an advantage over the other, so they will probably split time at the important inside tackle post.

With Serlich in the top backfield unit yesterday was John Sadlik at fullback, Leo LeBlanc at tailback, and Emack at wingback. The next backfield contained three erstwhile fullbacks, Bob Shuford at tailback, Ray Jordan at fullback, and Mike Buss at blocking back. Clay Croom completed the quartet at wingback.

Sadlik, moved from tailback to fullback at the first of the season, continued to pace the entire squad with a bruising performance in scrimmage yesterday. John has been the most consistent back on the team since the first game, and he shows no signs of slowing. He's powerful — in the Wake Forest contest he literally blasted a hole in the Deaclet line to score the first touchdown, and kicked the extra point after the second. John is the reason that three 200-pound fullbacks are on the second team. He won't be moved.

In a war review, neither over-optimistic nor pessimistic, Churchill spoke with a calm determination and a confidence in the nation's readiness for any eventuality.

In a similar summation before the House of Lords, Foreign Secretary Halifax said that Britain repeatedly had rejected German offers for agreement at the expense of France. He appealed to Marshal Henri Petain not to commit France to a course which would be "a stab in the back for her former allies."

NC Gives Roosevelt 370,000 Over Willkie

By United Press

RALEIGH, Nov. 6 — (Wednesday) — President Roosevelt piled up a majority of more than 370,000 votes over Wendell L. Willkie for North Carolina's 13 electoral votes, returns from 1,620 of the state's 1,916 precincts showed early today. The count gives President Roosevelt 532,698 to Willkie's 159,425.

The state gave almost as large a margin to J. M. Broughton, Democratic candidate for governor, and each of the 11 Democratic congressional nominees was assured of election.

Broughton led Robert H. McNeil, the Republican candidate, 447,924 votes to 123,313 in returns from 1,298 precincts.
