Eight Delegates To Attend Recreation Meet

Chapel Hill will be represented by eight delegates at the twenty-sixth annual National Recreation Congress which opens in Baltimore, Maryland, next Monday. Russell M. Grumman, director of the extension division at the University of North Carolina, will be chairman of a rural recreation luncheon at the Congress, and Samuel Selden, assistant of the Carolina Playmakers, is scheduled as chairman of a session on drama and its place in defense recreation.

Other delegates attending are Joseph H. Pratt, president of the Public Recreation Commission; Tom Hines, state director of recreation for NYA; and four members of the faculty at the University, Oliver Cornwell, head of the department of physical education, R. A. Fetzer, director of athletics and physical education, Harold D. Meyer, sociology department, and W. Carson Ryan, head of the department of education.

Recreation in "The America We Defend" will be the underlying theme of this year's Congress which signals the thirty-fifth year of service by the National Recreation Association, clearing house for the country-wide recreation movement.

Advance reports indicate that more than 1500 professional and volunteer leaders from all parts of the country will attend the five-day conference on community leisure-time problems during the emergency.

rendered by a much larger number of men and women."

And so, on the heels of these pronouncements by leaders in defense, departmental heads of the University, overcoming the loss of top men to government laboratories and offices, prepare for the assigned task.

School of Commerce—New courses in production planning and control, principles of production accounting and production cost accounting.

Physics department—A course in practical physics, offered, as in other schools, under the Engineering, Science, and Management Defense Training agency of the federal government.

Chemistry department—Lecture subjects with demonstration in instrumental analysis, detection and quantitative analysis, machine operation.

School of Public Health—Twenty hours each week in ten-week course in safety engineering.

While all eyes turn toward the subject of the moment, defense, governmental attaches warn educators that it is imperative that all forces not be concentrated on present emergency, that danger lies in not recognizing the problems of the future.

Building for the defense of America, they say, not only means the building of armed forces and technicians, but the strengthening of the America of the future—the continual stream of men and women from the nation's colleges, men and women capable of leading a country in the future.

ing-Clark called "Katie Went to Haiti." Accompanied by Tom Avera, Miss Loaring-Clark also sang "Begin the Beguine."

Music, both sweet and swing, was furnished by "The Carolinians," new University band which made its initial appearance last night. The band played accompaniment for a jitterbug exhibition featuring Shot Cox, Mary Bowen, Frank Alspaugh and Jessa Prevatte.

Other talent in the production was Tom Avera and a chorus doing "Visit Chapel Hill," Irv and Paul Gordon, twins, playing the harmonica and doing imitations, Alonzo Squires presenting impersonations, and Rex Coston singing "You Stepped out of a Dream."

College night is an annual production given for the enlistment of new talent on the campus and for the further exploitation of old.
