Confusion Reigned

Were you confused, or were you one of those people who could explain with half-time tie. assurance that one would not have to get up at dawn on Monday, that clocks were not to be set ahead but back, that the sun was being given an opportunity to catch up because it had not managed to do so since that time last spring or summer when we got the jump on it? Merely because the Daily Tar Heel printed the report of the State Budget Bureau to the effect that all state institutions would return to Eastern Standard Time at 12:01 Monday morning, was no reason to be confused; for the town of Chapel Hill is not a state institution, and it was perfectly all right for it to sneak back on Standard Time during the wee hours of Sunday morning along with the rest of the eastern seaboard.

Theaters and Churches

Of course the town's churches and theaters could not consider themselves state institutions and so tagged along with the town and combined their efforts to get the drop on the students.

All the same aren't you glad you got it settled on Sunday? Think how badly you would have felt upon arriving an hour early for an 8:30.
