

Carolina-State Game Still Shrouded with Mystery; Both Teams Confident

If someone would come out in the clear and inquire flatly what football team—Carolina or State—will win tomorrow's Southern conference headliner here, he would be rushed off to the nearest institution and put under heavy guard.

There's just that much mystery surrounding tomorrow's game. State, feeling jubilant after scoring 44 points against Newberry, has seen nothing in the stars but a victory for the Wolfpack, but Carolina, likewise, has been feeling unusually confident that tomorrow will end differently than any Saturday in the past four weeks.

Down at Fetzer field yesterday the Tar Heels appeared about ready for State, and all indications pointed to another hard-fought game resembling that 13-6 victory for Carolina last year.

Backfield Shows More Polish

Coach Ray Wolf concentrated on ways and means of stopping State's dangerous punting, passing and running game. The new Cox-Dunkle-Barksdale-Jordan backfield, which has been showing more punch than any backfield combination this season, polished its game and seemed about ready to go.

Indications were that Carolina will have a couple of new guards tomorrow. Bob Heymann, who has played much this season at tackle, and Wray Lewis, reserve tackle, worked with the first eleven, and Dick White alternated with Ed Michaels at tackle.

Dunkle and Barksdale remained together in the "A" backfield, but it was still doubtful whether Joe Austin could get into the game. He took part in a heavy scrimmage session Tuesday, but he may be held out of the State game in order to give his shoulder another week of rest.

The Tar Heels were in fair shape. Johnny Miller, end; Joe Wolf, guard; and Charlie Baker, back, were the only men with injuries of any consequence. Wolf and Miller were expected to be ready for the game, but Baker appears to be out.

Reports from Raleigh said that State was nearing top shape. The only players definitely out of the contest are Mike Andrews, State's sophomore end; and Jack Hussey, Carolina's soph end.

Running on Carolina's No. 1 line yesterday were Hodges and Turner, ends; White and Sieck, tackles; Heymann and Lewis, guards; Suntheimer, center. Alternating with the varsity were Elliot and Richardson, ends; Michaels, Graham and Parker, tackles; Nowell and Faircloth, guards; and Cooke, center.

Spencer Licks McIver Again By 2-1 Score

Spencer making it the second in a row downed McIver 2-1 yesterday in a thriller, which saw the ball see-sawed back and forth down the field.

Wing-footed little Helen Hall and Anita Appel All-Carolina last year, led the Spencerettes into their opponents' secondary time and again the first half. Out of three set-up scoring chances, in this half, the Spencer lassies made only one good. Twice the ball, poorly aimed, went over the end line for a twenty-five yard bully.

Anita Appel, rushing in fast with the rest of the forward line, made a short drive into the goal box. Early in the second half Kay Goold scored for Spencer again.

The McIver girls did not threaten seriously the first half, but came back strong in the second to provide the Spencerettes with several nightmares. Guided by Aggie Martin, rampaging left inner, they surged down the field and rushed the goal continuously but Spencer's backfield saved the game by completing tackles at right moments. Alliene Brawley scored McIver's lone point on a penalty bully called after her shot had fouled off Virginia Klages' stick in the scoring circle.

A superior backfield gave Spencer the edge throughout the contest. Virginia Klages' driving was the best defensive feature, but Helen Hall's feet dashes were the tilt's real highlight.

Sophs In Sports

Craven Turner

Craven Turner of Raleigh is one of Coach Wolf's prize sophomores. Turner is one of the finest defensive ends on the squad and is a good pass receiver. His fine work against South Carolina and Davidson earned him a starting berth against Fordham. In his first varsity game against Lenoir-Rhyne, Craven scored a touchdown on a pass from LeBlanc.

Craven stands exactly 6 feet tall and weighs 181 pounds. He prepped at Raleigh high where he played football, basketball, and baseball. He was named on the mythical all-state high school eleven in 1938 and 1939 and captained the 1939 Raleigh high eleven. He was voted most valuable player on Raleigh team in 1939. Last year he paired with Jack Hussey at end on the freshman team and was a consistently good player. Craven also played first base on the frosh baseball team last year. During the summer he worked at a hardware store in Raleigh. His favorite movie stars are Jack Benny and Rosalind Russell.

Tatum's Proteges Open Home Debut In Kenan Against Mars Hill Today

Ruffin Tops Med School In 34-12 Win

Ruffin 34, Med School No. 1, 12. SAE 6, DKE 0. St. Anthony Hall 18, Phi Delta Theta No. 2, 0. ATO 21, ZBT 6. Sigma Nu 13, Pi Lambda Phi 12.

Ruffin resumed its early season powerhouse tactics and ran over Med School No. 1 34-12 in the only dorm-league match played yesterday in mural football.

Bobby Gersten again led the Ruffins and was the feature of the attack. Charlie Neaves scored 10 points, Barclay 12, and Pickard and Gersten six each to account for the winner's total. Alexander and Linker were the standouts for Med School. Kirksey and Wright led the offense and each tallied one touchdown for the losers.

SAE and DKE went into an overtime period before SAE was able to push across a six-pointer and take the contest 6-0. The Dekes held the favored SAE's scoreless during the regular game. Strickland accounted for the winning margin and Wilson, Glenn, and Moore paced the winners. Wide-man, Gibbons, and Rodman were the standouts for the Dekes.

'Double AA's' Feature

ATO's "Double AA's," Anthony and Ashby, collaborated once again to lead their team to a 21-6 victory over ZBT. ATO held a 7-6 margin at the half but took command of the situation when play was resumed and won going away. For the winners Bishop and Cranford scored once each and shared honors with Ashby and Anthony on offense. Blumberg, scoring the losers only touchdown, and Stein and Freedman were outstanding for ZBT.

Sigma Nu met unexpected opposition yesterday and was able to keep its slate clear by only a one-point margin, edging out Pi Lambda Phi, 13-12. Conger and Sears crossed the goal line for Sigma Nu while Coxhead and Look paced the attack. Pi Lambda's Lipman and Schlegler scored one goal each for their team. Whit Lees setting the pace in the backfield.

Emack led St. Anthony to an 18-0 shutout win over Phi Delta Theta No. 2. Torrey, Mayorga, and Emack scored six-pointers for the winners and Williford, Jenkins, and Beyer led the losing Phi Deltas.

Med Student's Condition Is 'Satisfactory'

The condition of William Beavers, Med School student injured in an intramural football contest Thursday afternoon, was reported as "very satisfactory" by attendants at the Infirmary last night. Beavers suffered a head injury in the Med School-BVP game Thursday and remained unconscious for some time.

ACTION ON THE COED FIELD. So far this year there has come no complaint from the men on the campus that the coeds weren't making use of the Coed field. This shot, taken a few days ago during one of the coed hockey games, shows a little of the hot action that takes place.

Reserve Harriers Meet Improved Guilford Today

Ranson Named Participants Yesterday

By Bill Woestendiek

Carolina's cross country varsity reserves face a tough assignment this afternoon when they run against a much-improved, revenge-seeking Guilford squad on the Quaker's home course at 4:30.

Lamar Wood, Dick Hollander, Jim Perrin, Charlie Johnson, Mervyn Lentz, Lem Gibbons and Buck Marrow were the men named to run against Guilford over a three-mile course by Dale Ranson yesterday. This is a much weaker team than the one that downed the Quakers in the Tar Heels first meet of the season, 18-47.

The Guilford club has gained much needed experience since the first meet, and led by Captain Walter Patzig, Haul Reddick and Brad Leete, it is hoping to upset the Carolina harriers today. Reddick Paces Quakers

Reddick finished ahead of everyone running for the Tar Heels today in the first Carolina-Guilford meet, running the rugged three and one-half mile Bradford-Lewis course here in 19:27. Arthur Truxes and Tom Jewett finished ahead of Reddick last time, but neither of these men is running today. Lacle Cockman, Bill Dohit, Charles Monnet and Vaughn Sparrow will aid the aforementioned Guilford lettermen in today's meet. All of these men ran fair races in their opening meet and have improved considerably since that time.

The varsity Tar Heels run Wake Forest tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. Captain Mike Wise, Doug Moody, Frank Hardy, Arthur Truxes, Jim Earle, Tom Jewett, Sim Nathan and Chuck Howe will run against the Deacons. Rich Van Wagoner, ace Tar Heel speedster, will be lost to the squad tomorrow since he is confined to the infirmary with a blistered foot.

Mars Hill And Babies On Rebound

By Ben Snyder

Probable line-ups:

Pos.	Frosh	Mars Hill
LE	Smith	Bowen
LT	Jones	Engle
LG	Karres	Day
C	Highsmith	Moore
RG	Strayhorn	Harris
RT	Stringfield	Holt
RE	Smith or Holeman	Anderson
QB	Myers or Winners	Simons
LH	Gregory	Faulkner
RH	Wright	Cushwa
FB	Arbes	Carr

This afternoon Coach Jim Tatum will bring forth his 1941 freshman football team in its local debut when the Tar Babies lineup against Mars Hill junior college in a game starting in Kenan stadium at 3 o'clock.

Losers in their two opening games against N. C. State and Wake Forest yearling outfits, the home club will be gunning for its initial victory of the season. Much had been expected of the current Tar Babies and their first games were something of a disappointment. Still, with even half a break, the frosh could have turned the tide against either of their conquerors and faced today's game with a clean slate.

On Rebound

Tatum's club will be rebounding from last week's stinging 12-2 Wake Forest set-back and play hard, driving ball all the way. The squad will come up to game time in good physical shape generally speaking, although injuries and sickness are sidelining tackle prospects Paul Long, Dutch Hammonds, Thad Ellis and Bob Altomese. Tatum still has a pair of excellent men in Meredith Jones and Jim Stringfield in those positions, but reserves in the tackle slots are practically non-existent.

Mars Hill Passes

Drilling on pass defense yesterday afternoon, the first year team gave notice of what can be expected from the Mars Hill collegians. Sparked by Wilbur Carr, triple threat fullback, the visiting Lions are also rebounding from
