Teachers Meet Starts Friday

State Educators Will Discuss War

Several hundred school officials and teachers from all sections of the State are to gather at the University Friday and Saturday for a Conference on "The Classroom Teacher in the Emergency."

The Conference is sponsored by the Department of Classroom Teachers in cooperation with the State Department of Public Instruction and the consolidated University.

Its purpose, according to Mrs. Annie Laurie McDonald of Hickory, president of the Department of Classroom Teachers of the North Carolina Education Association, is to "develop through discussion better and clearer ideas of the opportunities which the individual teacher and teacher groups in North Carolina have for furthering measure of natural security in their respective communities."

Governor to Speak

Highlight of the two-day conference will be an address by Governor J. Melville Broughton Friday night at 7:30 at the Carolina Inn. The Governor will be introduced by Dr. Clyde A. Erwin, State Superintendent and will speak on "What North Carolina Expects of Its Classroom Teachers in the Present Emergency."

Governor Broughton's address will be followed by a symposium on "Demands of the National Emergency on Community and Educational Resources," to be led by T. S. Johnson, Director of Civilian Defense in the State.

Graham Issues UNC Bulletin

Pamphlet Tells How Activities Progress

"No University 'as usual'" writes President Frank P. Graham in "The University in the War," eight-page pamphlet printed by the Administration and distributed to key persons and points throughout the state and South.

Stating that this war must be won at all costs, the University head emphasized that "we must make many sacrifices," as he lists the resources and intensified program of the Consolidated University which have been dedicated to the mighty war-effort.

Bound in a red-white-and-blue paper cover, the pamphlet has been sent to members of the State legislature, University trustees, university heads throughout the nation, principles of state high schools and key officials and citizens in the South.

The University's stepped-up program, instituted 20 months before the Pearl Harbor incident, was cited by the War department and recommended as a pattern for educational institutions, Dr. Graham states.

"We will provide every type of war-training that can be taught adequately and effectively, within the limits of our facilities and resources," the Administration leader promises.

The Consolidated University shifts into "high-gear" with the full, year-round, four-quarter system instituted on the Chapel Hill campus and at State college, in Raleigh, and the "entrance-by-examinations" setup provided for superior students not holding a high school diploma.

Evidence of the new program was the admittance of 20 high school graduates See GRAHAM ISSUES, page 4

Jap Warship Torpedoed; US Tanker Sunk, 56 Lost

Ireland to Build Army of 500,000 Men; Senate Passes Air Raid Insurance Bill

By United Press

WASHINGTON—A battalion of bluejackets and marines has been formed and is fighting side by side with General Douglas MacArthur's American and Filipino soldiers on Bataan peninsula, a navy communique disclosed last night.

A communique also revealed that the 5,400 ton naval tanker Neches has been torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine in an unidentified area, with 56 men missing and 126 rescued.

Offsetting this, the navy reported that a torpedo boat from the United States Asiatic fleet was believed to have torpedoed an enemy warship after stealing into Manila Bay under cover of darkness.

It was understood that the marine battalion, which may include as many as 800 men, was formed from forces which remained in the Philippines after the United States naval base at Cavite was abandoned. Thus, no landing of reinforcements apparently was involved.

DUBLIN—Eire must build an army of 500,000 men, "trained to fight as well as any men on earth," because the danger to this neutral country is increasing, Prime Minister Eamon de Valera said yesterday.

Expenditures Bill Revisions To Be Discussed Before Group

Student legislature meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock in Phi hall, will take up the newly proposed revisions in the Political Expenditures Bill, presented by Bucky Harward, chairman of the elections committee.

Sweeping cuts in campaign expenditures typify the proposed revision, which has been tentatively approved by representatives of both Student and University parties.

Cutting the amount of money to be legally spent on campaigns up to and including the day of elections to $12.50 for major campus offices and $7.50 for others, the bill is expected to "pass the legislature with no trouble" tonight.

The bill also provides that no political party shall expend more than fifty dollars in campaign expenses, and that both candidates and parties submit itemized accounts of all expenses to the elections committee. All cases of violation will be turned over to the Student council for appropriate action.

Under the proposed revision no party shall expend money for freshman offices and no freshman candidate shall expend more than five dollars for campaign expenditures.

In case of run-offs, the proposal stipulates that no candidate shall spend more than the amount left between the legal expenditures and the sum already spent.

Intersession Meet Sponsored by UNC

A six-weeks "intersession" program in graduate education, designed to meet the requirements for graduate and principals' certificates, will be sponsored by the University Division of Teachers Education in Chapel Hill from May 1 to June 6, it was announced here today by Prof. Guy B. Phillips of the Education department and director of the Summer Session.

"This program has been planned to meet the needs of teachers and administrators who work in the state schools which operate for only eight months," he said. "This group will be able to complete the same amount of work that is available in a regular summer term of six weeks."

The program, limited to 50 persons, will be organized to fit into the regular summer program and expenses will be the same as for a six-weeks' term of the Summer Session.

Professors will be Dr. Roy Morrison, Dr. W. Carson Ryan, head of the University Division of Education; Dr. W. E. Rosenstengel, Dr. E. W. Knight, Dr. J. S. Tippet, and Dr. A. M. Jordan.

Sophs to Adopt New Proposal To Pass Budget

Statement Copies To Be Distributed To Student Rooms

In a new attempt to bring about approval of the class budget, a new plan was announced yesterday by sophomore president, Dotson Palmer.

Under the new plan one mimeographed copy of the budget will be put in each dormitory and fraternity house and sophomore members of those residences will take the copy to each sophomore in his own house for his signature of approval or disapproval.

The proposal will be explained tonight at a joint meeting of the sophomore executive and finance committees at 7:30 in 111 Murphey hall. A new class legislator will also be elected by the committees to replace Marshall Chambers.

The budget plan will be put into action tomorrow and it is expected to be completed by Friday, Palmer stated.

The proposal will take the place of the old system of trying to lure a quorum into Memorial hall at chapel hour. In the first attempt to have the sophomore budget passed, only 75 members of the class appeared.

At a meeting last night of the sophomore dance committee further plans for completing arrangements for the class dance were discussed.

The complete budget is as follows: total charges and estimated income, $2400; auditing and bookkeeping, $10; supplies and general expenses, $20; Yackety Yack and Wooten-Moulton expenses, $1695; debts, $20; dance, $400; CYA, $100; Sophomore Day, $155; total, $2400.

FBI Agent Speaks Today in Gerrard

Initiating a series of classes, presented by OSCD for the civilian protection program, Mr. D. S. Hostetter, special Federal Bureau of Investigation agent, will lecture today in Gerrard hall at 1:45.

Visiting Chapel Hill from FBI Offices in Washington, Hostetter will speak on civilian protection during air raids. Special attention will be paid to protection against incendiary bombs and poison gas.

"All students who volunteered for air raid warden positions or fire watcher posts in the OSCD drive should attend this meeting without fail," said Louis Harris, student coordinator.

Part of a series offered by the Institute of Government, the Hostetter lecture will be the first of the classes in civilian protection that the OSCD is organizing for all students who volunteered. Tie-up of civilian defense material in Washington is the only drawback to the program as it has been outlined.

US Naval Officer To Be in Raleigh During This Month

Lt.-Commander J. J. Tunney, USNR, will be at the Navy Recruiting Station in Raleigh on February 26, 27, and 28 to interview students interested in enlisting in the Naval Reserve as physical instructors in Class V-6, United States Naval Reserve. The title accompanying this position is Chief Specialist (A) (Acting Appointment), Class V-6, USNR.

Those who wish to apply must be between 21 and 33, hold a degree in physical education, and have had practical experience in physical education work. Application must be made at Raleigh in person with a copy of the student's official transcript, a birth certificate, and a photograph of the applicant, about 2" by 2". Appointments may be made in advance by mail, but the other material must not be mailed.

Because there is place for only a limited number, the selections will be based on the applicant's academic background, experience and leadership qualities.

The interview with Lt.-Commander Tunney does not obligate the Navy department to accept the applications for enlistment.

Bradley and Boogie Woogie Move into Carolina Saturday

"Boogie woogie," as interpreted by Will Bradley and his famous band, comes to the Chapel Hill campus this weekend as the Interdormitory council and the Order of the Grail join forces in presenting the traditional Interdorms set of dances.

Freddie Johnson and his campus orchestra lead off the activities when they play for the first of the weekend series of dances Friday night from 9 until 1 o'clock in the Tin Can. Dormitory residents have been issued bids to the informal dance.

Stopping over for a one-night stand, Bradley will continue the set with a public concert Saturday afternoon and an informal dance Saturday night, climaxing the weekend of sports events, house parties, and open houses.

With proceeds to swell the dorm social room fund, the public concert will be held in Memorial hall from 5 until 6 o'clock. Tickets went on sale yesterday at 35 cents per couple and 20 cents to the public.

Bradley mounts the bandstand in the purple and white cabanna of the Tin Can Saturday night for the last dance of the set from 9 until 12 o'clock. In an effort to slash expenses, the figure, with accompanying flowers, has been eliminated to be replaced with no-break dances, George Coxhead, exchequer of the Grail, announced. Admission to the Saturday night dance will be $1.10.

Graham Memorial will hold an open house for dance-goers and their dates Friday night immediately following the informal dance, to last until 3 o'clock. Bill Cochran, Director of the union, stated that no stags would be allowed. Special arrangements have been made with the athletic association for a 300-seat section on the student side at the Duke-Carolina basketball game Saturday night, it was announced. Tickets for students' dates may be bought from members of the Interdorm-
