Carolina Faces First Blackout Wednesday PM

McKinnon to Run Independent Stump For T an' F Chief

To Oppose Colby, Gleicher in Race For Humor Post

By Larry Dale

Ben McKinnon entered the race against UP's Stud Gleicher and SP's Charles Colby for editor of Tar an' Feathers yesterday, becoming the first candidate of the current campaign to run independently.

Naming Clay Croome, member of the varsity baseball squad and promising fullback for the coming football season as campaign manager, McKinnon enters the campaign two weeks after the party candidates.

McKinnon contributed an article to the first issue of Tar an' Feathers and has been a consistent contributor since. His story "Navy Blues" appears in the current issue. Two of his articles were printed in the previous issue.

Ben, also a member of the Daily Tar Heel staff, writes sports and feature stories as well as his weekly column "On Bended Knee."

Campbell To Visit UNC

John Bull's Envoy To Be IRC Speaker

England's famous Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary, Sir Gerald Campbell, will give Carolina students its biggest hypodermic full of Anglophobia antidote tomorrow night in the IRC's fifth Victory Series speech.

Winston Churchill awarded Sir Gerald his newest rank March 14 as a further move to strengthen British sympathy in the United States, where a sudden shower of anti-British feeling has made diplomatic endeavors more difficult.

Campbell previously, on January 15, 1941, had been sent from Ottawa as Senior British Minister. June 3, Campbell was made Director General of British Information Services, with headquarters in New York City. His newest position, as front man for Lord Halifax and with equal diplomatic power as the official ambassador.

All Students To Engage In Fake Raid

Final Instructions Issued for Raidmen; Dorm Guards Chosen

By Hayden Carruth

Carolina's first blackout of the new war program will begin Wednesday night at 11:30 and last until 11:45.

"This is the most serious war project that has been undertaken at the University since the entrance of the United States into World War II," said Louis Harris, student coordinator, as he announced the practice drill.

All students must be in their rooms at 11:23 Wednesday night, OSCD orders state. The South building bell will sound the alarm at 11:23, when each student must turn out his room lights and proceed to the designated place. Wardens must see that all students have left their rooms, that "absolutely no light escapes," and that students are "well sheltered."

Police Stand Guard

A deputy policeman will stand guard at the entrance of all buildings to prevent the entrance or exit of any students during the blackout. The all-clear signal will sound at 11:45. Students will be led back to their own floors by the wardens.

Flashlights will be utilized to light the hallways of the dormitories during the blackout. All students on the floor that is used as a shelter must keep their doors closed. "No light must escape!"

A special crew from the Chapel Hill Office of Civilian Defense will make an inspection tour during the blackout to report on its effectiveness. This blackout is a test, preliminary to an official Army blackout that will be called within 20 days. Army blackouts have no warning.

Marriage, Family Session Convenes At UNC Today

Over 200 representative leaders hailing from as far separated points as Texas, Florida and Massachusetts will convene here today for the eighth annual conference, directed by Professor Ernest R. Groves of the Department of Public Welfare, on Conservation of Marriage and the Family.

Although the program features discussions of the problems of teaching marriage it also includes other topics relating to the conservation of marriage and the family. The meeting is not open to the general public in any of its sessions.

University representatives at the session will include: Dr. Katherine Jocker, Margaret J. Hagood, Donald S. Klais and Rabbi S. Sandmel.

The three-day conference to be held jointly with Duke will discuss among other topics, "The Church and Marriage Counseling" by Rev. O. T. Binkley, Wake Forest; "Psychotherapy in Marriage Counseling" by Robert W. Laidlaw, M. D., Columbia University; "The Children Who Are in Social Conflict" by Elinor W. Sneath, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Coed Senate Session Called for 1:30

The coed senate will meet today at 1:30 in Gerrard hall, speaker Jean Hahn announced yesterday. "This is a correction to the notices already sent out announcing the meeting for Caldwell hall," she said. New rulings of the Honor council regarding coeds entering lodgings of men students in town will be discussed.

French Club Meets

The French Club will meet tonight at 7:20 in front of the "Y" to go to Georges Levy's house.

Railey Names Campaign Head; Nathan Picked for CAA Post

SP Fills Athletic Association Slate

Student Party delegates completed their 1942 slate yesterday, naming Chapel Hill native Sim Nathan candidate for the vice-presidential post of the Athletic Association.

Nathan's nomination was unanimous, and came as the last official party announcement, ten days before the campus-wide election. Unexpected delays kept nominations open two weeks longer than Party leaders had anticipated. Nathan's unanimous nomination took place at the end of last week, it was learned, but Party heads elected to wait until yesterday for the final announcement.

Secretary and one of the founders of the Town Boys association, Nathan, a junior major in accounting, also holds the post of Athletic Manager of the Town Boys Club.

A member of the Monogram Club for two years, he has served on the letterman's executive committee and earned his letter on the track and cross-country teams. Out of Carolina's sports world, Nathan has served on the Student Audit Board.

He also directed the drive in town during the campus-wide NYA campaign that successfully raised close to $6,500 when national NYA appropriations were slashed and threatened to drop 75 self-help students from the lists.

Nathan is a member of the CVTC and a private first class in the United States Marine Corps Reserves.

Naval Personnel Reports for Duty

Enlisted personnel who have reported for duty in connection with the Naval Pre-Flight School are rapidly converging on Chapel Hill in preparation for the arrival of the commander sometime next week.

Ensign Edward E. Mack, Jr., (SC) USNR has working under him now P. V. Largura, Chief Storekeeper USN, J. Geletka, J. M. Gresser, G. D. Matson, and M. G. Eberle who are Storekeepers 3rd Class USNR.

Temporary quarters have been set up for the men on the third floor of K Dorm which is rapidly nearing completion. Business office officials are compiling a survey of available rooms in town for Naval Officers' use and is expected to complete it this week so that arrangements can be completed for the influx of over 70 married officers and their families.

Applicants Barred From V-7 After May 1

Information received here yesterday from the Naval Recruiting station in Raleigh indicated that the present V-7 classification will be closed on May 1. After that time, entrance into the V-7 unit will be made through the V-1 classification, Dr. W. D. Perry, vocational guidance head stated.

Gretter, Gersten To Manage Campaign

Dick Railey, Student Party vice-presidential nominee yesterday announced that Monogram Club President Bobby Gersten, and Debate Council President Carrington Gretter, would fill the posts of campaign managers during the current political race.

Gersten, star member of Carolina's "White Phantoms," President of the Monogram Club, member of the Grail, and Senior Honor Council, declared that "with an outstanding record of three years participation in student activities, Dick definitely appears the logical choice for the student government office for which he has been nominated."

Co-manager Gretter, debate council president, and former President of the Di Senate, further asserted yesterday that Railey is "an able and conscientious administrator, his work with the Council as Executive Secretary is outstanding by reason of its quality, quantity and vigor." Gretter went on to state that "He is a square shooter in every respect, and I am deeply honored to do all I can to help make him Vice-president of our Student Body."

Gretter praised Railey's "fairmindedness and keen sense of justice," declaring it "will make a permanent contribution to Carolina student government."

Sales Positions Open for Seniors

Details of opportunities for men between the ages of 23 and 40 in the sales organization of the Pet Milk organization were released yesterday by Dr. W. D. Perry, director of vocational information.

The job requires men between the ages of 23 and 40 who are not liable to be called for military service because of some minor physical defect or because of dependents. The applicants must have or obtain an automobile with equipment that will permit travel by car for at least two years. This opportunity is extended to men who are interested in making selling their lifetime work.

Interested students and faculty members are asked to consult with Dr. Perry in 207 South building.

Baker to Administer Exams for Marines

Lieut. Don Baker, former Carolina grid star now with the Marine Corps recruiting service, will hold physical exams for candidates in the Marine Corps Reserve Officers class today and tomorrow in the Naval Science offices of Woolen gymnasium.

Debate Team Reports

Debate squad and council members will meet tonight at 9 o'clock in the Grail room of Graham Memorial for a team report of the Middle West debate tour.

Navy Motif To Prevail At Festival

Kelly, Frances, Futrell in Race; Kyser May Appear

By Mary Lou Taylor

Announcement of nominations for the queen and her court yesterday brought Carolina's "Spring Carnival," rejuvenated May Day festival, closer to its annual welcome to flowery springtime. Elections will be held Thursday at the YMCA.

Slated for "sometime early in May," the carnival will be based on a Navy motif, with the participants colorfully garbed in the traditional blue and gold. The probability of Kay Kyser's coming to Chapel Hill has kept plans in the tentative stage as speculative arrangements would have Carolina's band-leader alumnus crown the beauty queen.

Diddy Kelly, Peggy Lou Futrell and Mary Booth Frances are the nominees for May Queen released by Breezy Brezeale yesterday. One will be selected by vote of the entire campus to reign supreme as the epitome of Chapel Hill's femininity.

From the following list, six senior representatives to the Queen's Court will be chosen; Helen Hall, Jean McKenzie, Jane Putnam, Virginia Broome, Ellen Winkler, Jackie Ray, Nancy Suiter, Jane Durning, Mary Lib Nash and Ellen Hudson.

Twenty junior representatives were nominated from whom eight will be elected; Libba Rogers, Virginia Kloges, Ardis Kipp, Sis King, Jackie Laird, Mary Lib Masengill, Holcome Turner, Watson Prince, Julia Mebane, Molly Holmes, Rene Whitney, Pat Johnson, Blanche Grantham, Ditzzi Buice, Lois Boyd, and Katherine Sparks.

Three graduate coeds will be chosen See FESTIVAL, page 4

Di to Wrangle With Honor, India, Freedom

Government criticism, India's status and faculty enforcement of the Honor Code go under the gavel tonight when Dialectic Senate members under President Roger Mann meet at 7:30 in New West's Phi hall.

"Resolved: that criticism of the government be permitted in war time" will be the first bill to be brought up at tonight's session. "Resolved: that India be immediately given dominion status" will be second and ending the discussion will be the question, "Resolved: that Honor Code violations be referred to a faculty committee rather than a student group."

Mann announced that new members will be inducted into the Di tonight. All members will be required to submit five bills (items for discussion).

Pretty, Little Peggy Nolan To Bow at Frosh-Soph Dance

By Bob Hoke

Peggy Nolan, petite Irish songstress, makes her bow to Carolina this weekend when she shares the spotlight with Lang Thompson and his broadcasting orchestra for the Freshman-Sophomore dances.

Thompson, first band signed for a University dance under the new legislative limitation of dance expenses, will share honors with campus maestro Freddy Johnson for the weekend set.

Johnson opens the weekend Friday night with the freshman dance from 9 until 1 o'clock. Bandleader Thompson moves onto the Carolina bandstand Saturday for the tea dance from 5 until 7 o'clock and for the Sophomore dance from 9 until 12 o'clock. Each of the informal class dances will be held on the main floor of Woolen gymnasium.

The blonde vocalist with the laughing Irish eyes is rated as one of the best vocalists in show business today. Recently, she began recording both as a soloist and with Thompson. Her most noted work is the rendition of old-time Gaelic tunes.

Her career began, it is reported, when a fellow church choir member suggested an audition at a radio station.
