

Carolina Track Team Battles Duke Today In Dixie Classic

Tar Heel Nine Edges State In Tenth, 5-4

Benton Hurls Second Win In Three Days

By Harry Hollingsworth
A wonderful tenth inning in which Carolina pushed across three big runs spelled doom for State here yesterday afternoon, 5-4, in a ball game featured by spurts of brilliance followed by spasmodic exhibitions of fielding resembling feats contributed from time to time to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Ray Hardee, the losing pitcher in a thrilling mound duel with Carolina's Red Benton, contributed the impetus needed to keep the Tar Heels going after once they started in the tenth.

He walked two men and hit Benton with a pitched ball which demonstrated that most anything can happen when a team begins to crack.

Morris Starts Things

Mac Morris started things by singling off First Baseman Gibson's bare hand with no one down. Carolina was behind then, 4-2, for State had pushed over two runs in its half of the tenth.

That hit rattled Hardee and a mound conference was called, but it did little good, for Chubby Myers worked the State fireballer for a free ticket. That further rattled him and another mound confab was held. Benton, the batter, had instructions from Bunn Hearn to sacrifice, but he fouled off his first attempt. Hardee threw him two balls and then smacked him in the ribs with a slow curve.

Hardee Obliges

Hardee obliged the Tar Heels by walking Bobby Gersten and Morris trotted home with the first run of the inning. Lew Hayworth, who has established a reputation for hitting in the clutches, lined what appeared to be a hit over second base, but shortstop Mewborn fielded the ball and forced Gersten, Myers scoring run No. 2 and tying up the game. Dub Johnson, who had failed to get the ball out of the infield all afternoon, was the next batter. The State infield pulled in close, playing for a possible twin killing. Johnson took a strike, a ball and another ball; then he swung on the next pitch and popped up what appeared to be an easy out behind second base. The ball was hit high and both Stewart and Mewborn lost it in the scramble to get under it. It fell safely for a hit and Shot Cox, who had gone into the game to run for Benton, slid safely across the plate with the third and winning run.

Seventh Conference Triumph

The victory was Carolina's seventh conference victory and third Big Five triumph of the season. But when one gets down to analyze yesterday's game, the Red Terrors really deserved to win.

The first reason for that statement is that Hardee pitched a beautiful ball game for nine innings. After Bobby Gersten singled to right field in the first inning, Hardee retired the next 20 batters before Reynolds got an infield hit in the seventh.

Unearned Runs

The second reason is that the Tar Heels got two unearned runs in the seventh. Reynolds' infield hit came after two men were out. Jack Hussey was safe when first baseman Gibson dropped Wheeler's throw from third on his infield grounder. Reynolds went all the way to third on the error, and scored when pinch-hitter Leon McCaskill slapped out a line single to right field. Hussey also circled the bases when Rightfielder Bailey juggled the ball three times before he was able to get it back to the infield.

Those two runs put Carolina back in the ball game after State had taken a big 2-0 lead on runs scored in the sixth and seventh innings. A walk to Mewborn, Stewart's sacrifice and a single by Bailey to right field gave the Terrors a singleton in the sixth. That run looked mighty big then for Hardee was still setting the Tar Heels down one-two-three.

And then, when Ray Hardee caught hold of one of Benton's fast balls and drove it over Reynolds' head in center field for a home run in the seventh, Carolina really looked to be out of the ball game.

But then came the seventh in which the Tar Heels tied up the game and the tenth in which they won it.

State's two runs in the tenth came on three hits and a fielder's choice. Bailey singled, but was forced by Gibson at second. Wheeler singled, scoring Gibson. Wheeler advanced on an outfield

British Tennis Stars Play Here Today

Zany Schacht Will Provide Crazy Antics

By Mark Garner

Tennis, comedy and fashions are in store for the spectators at the varsity tennis courts this afternoon at 2:30. The exhibition, for the benefit of the British and American Ambulance Corps, will be highlighted by the Mary Hardwick-Dorothy Round Little net match; baseball's favorite zany, Al Schacht, will furnish the comedy, and Carolina coeds will model the latest styles in fashion or sports.

Local talent will be added to the show in the persons of Harris Everett, co-captain of the varsity netmen, Tickets to the exhibition tennis matches this afternoon may be obtained at the Carolina Sports Shop, Tar Heel office, ticket office in Woolen gym and the News Bureau for 50 cents.

and Vic Seixas, second-ranking junior player in the country. Everett and Seixas will clash in a singles engagement and will team with their English guests in a mixed doubles match. Well-Known to Local Fans

Both Miss Hardwick and Mrs. Little are well-known to Tar Heel tennis fans having played here last fall with their countryman, Charles Hare. Miss Hardwick also visited here in the winter of 1941 as a member of the Bill Tilden, Don Budge, Alice Marble pro quartet.

At present the women are devoting all their time to securing funds for their embattled country. Mrs. Little is truly a war wife. Her husband is serving in the medical corps of the British army and she supports her son by teaching and coaching tennis at the Seigniory Club, Province of Quebec, Canada. Miss Hardwick, one of Britain's most patriotic daughters, has been playing benefit matches all over the country with the entire proceeds going to aid the English. Both women donate their services free and travel about the country in an ambulance like those purchased with the proceeds of their exhibitions.

Al Schacht will be making his debut at Chapel Hill. How this nationally-travelled clown has managed to avoid the Hill for the 21 years he has been showing his ridiculous antics on the diamond is a mystery, but at last he is making his appearance here.

"I have decided to make a comeback at tennis," the ace buffoon said. "I will challenge and shall continue to do so as long as there is free speech anyone in the stands. If anyone would like to play I'm sure I can find them an opponent."

Winston-Salem High School Lads Win Net Honors

Two upsets featured the finals of the North Carolina High School Athletic Association's 27th annual interscholastic tennis tournament here yesterday. Berk Ingram of Reynolds High (Winston-Salem), seeded No. 2, upset Charlotte High's Teddy Kessler, the favorite and No. 1 seeded player to win the singles title in straight sets. The scores were 6-3, 6-2.

C. H. Duncan and Gene Disher of the John W. Hanes High of Winston-Salem, seeded only fourth, pulled a surprise by defeating the No. 2 seeded tandem of Lenoir Kessler and Phil Glotzer of Charlotte to clinch doubles honors. They also won in straight sets by scores of 6-2 and 6-4.

Earlier in the day Duncan and Disher eliminated the No. 1 seeded duo of Charles Doney and Tom Snell, 6-1, 6-2.

Kessler and Glotzer won their semi-final match by defeating Emory Green and Joe Colman of Greensboro, 6-4, 6-3.

In the semi-final singles matches Teddy Kessler beat Durham's Jim Kelly, 6-3, 6-0, and Ingram turned back Aberdeen's Joe Bowman, 6-2, 6-2.

The victories in the singles and doubles ended Charlotte's two year reign as State champion in both divisions.

RED BENTON, big Tar Heel right-hander, won his fourth game of the season yesterday by outlasting State's Hardee in a grueling ten-inning ball game. The hard-working redhead, pictured above, twirled a brilliant game for his second victory in three days.

Red Benton, who pitched his second win in three days, was in hot water in the sixth inning, but a neatly executed double play after he had given Craig an intentional walk saved the day.

Jack Hussey furnished the fielding gems. In the fourth inning he made a leaping, one-handed catch of Bailey's drive and in the ninth he picked Stewart's drive off his shoe laces.

Thrilling Meet Is Expected; Frosh to Clash

By Ben Snyder

Seeking Carolina's first win over Duke in a major sport this year, a band of Tar Heel freshmen and varsity trackmen, 70 strong, will go to Durham this afternoon where, beginning at 1:15, Dixie's greatest dual meet competition gets under way.

The clash between the two conference behemoths will preview next

Varsity and freshman trackmen are requested to eat lunch at 11:30 today and are expected to report to Woolen gym ready to leave at 12:30.

month's championship meet in which Carolina and Duke superiority is a foregone conclusion. In many respects today's meeting is the most important of the season for the two squads.

Score to Settle

Carolina has a double score to settle with the Blue Devils—Duke having won both the dual and conference meets last year—while Coach Bob Chamber's team has not yet erased the stain of a crushing loss suffered at the hands of the Tar Heels in February's indoor championship. The contesting teams have met once already this season in a preliminary skirmish at the Carolina relays which found Duke dominating both the track and the field competition.

The experts down on Fetzer field don't know just how to figure this one. On paper the Devils have a slight superiority, but the Tar Heels have so many unpredictables that a good day might very easily swing the competition in favor of Coach Bob Fetzer's squad. In any event, the meet will live up to its deserved reputation of the

Tar Babies Cross Bats With Raleigh High Today

By Bill Woestendiek

A rapidly improving Tar Baby baseball club will go after its third consecutive triumph of the still young season here on Emerson field today at 3 o'clock when the Carolina frosh cross bats with a powerful Raleigh high school nine.

Coach Jim Tatum announced yesterday that he would stick to his three-pitcher routine again this afternoon. Joe Green, George Sparger and either George Webb or Bart Lewis will see action against the Capital city lads. Green started the opening game of the year against the State yearlings.

Sparger has seen action in both previous games, and while he was not at his best against the Baby Terrors, George twirled a superb three-inning job against Greensboro high school Wednesday. Webb has been the finishing pitcher in every game this season and is likely to have that honor again today. Bart Lewis, New Jersey right-hander who looked good beating Greensboro, may take the place of one of the other twirlers.

High School Opposition

In meeting up with its second straight dose of high school opposition, the frosh team faces a tough assignment this afternoon in handling the boys from Raleigh. The Tar Babies showed vast improvement in crushing Greensboro, 10-2, and are expected to continue their fine play against Raleigh.

The starting line-up will be virtually the same as that which started the first two games. Only change may be at short, where Roy Gwaltney, Durham's flashy infielder, may get the starting assignment. Billy Myers, first-string shortstop, has been both ered with a sore arm and will probably be given a chance to rest it today. Gwaltney has been a whirling dervish on the left side of the infield in the daily practice sessions and should give a good account of himself in the field. Opposing hitters found it virtually impossible to hit balls past the tiny infielder in intrasquad games. Although he is not too potent a man with the wood, he can hit the ball, and his fielding should make up for any batting lapses.

Holeman or Johnson

Gus Holeman, who doubled home the first two runs against Greensboro Wednesday, may get the nod to start in center field if Raleigh starts a southpaw on the mound. Rivers Johnson, slugging left-handed batter, will be in his accustomed position should a right-hander open for Raleigh.

The rest of the line-up will be identical to the one which has played previously. The line-up and batting order is: Gwaltney, ss; Johnny Colones, 2b; Holeman or Johnson, cf; Walt Pupa, rf; Frank Wideman, lf; Jim Hayworth, 3b; Bill Lee, c; Grits Gresham, 1b, and Green, p.

Doeschler Scores Golf Upset; Advances to Semi-Final Round

ATHENS, Ga., April 17.—Dick Doeschler, sophomore sensation from the University of North Carolina pulled a major upset this afternoon when he eliminated Duke's brilliant soph, Bill Goldthorpe, 4 and 3, to advance into the semi-final round.

The semi-finals will be held here tomorrow morning with the 18-hole finals being staged tomorrow afternoon.

Poole Advances

Others to advance into the semi-final round with the hot Tar Heel linksman were Grover Poole, No. 1 Duke golfer, Frank Stranahan of Miami, and Arnold Blum of Georgia, yesterday's medalist.

Doeschler, playing an excellent brand of golf, had to go 20 holes in his morning quarter-final match before he could best Jack Killen of LSU, one up. Dick came right back in the afternoon round to upset the favored Duke Blue Devil sharpshooter. Goldthorpe had eliminated Jack McMurray of Virginia one up, in the morning round.

Doeschler vs. Poole

Doeschler clashes with Poole tomorrow morning in the first semi-final match in what should be one of the feature matches of the tournament. Both men have been playing excellent golf, with Doeschler far surpassing expectations down here.

In the other semi-final match tomorrow, Blum battles Stranahan. Blum shot a blistering six-under-par 140 in yesterday's qualifying round finest thing of its kind in sectional competition. Neither team has a pre-dominance of power and regardless of the victor, the natural balance between the contesting schools will make the winner go "all out" for the decision.

Third Places Important

Although the final verdict may lie in the performances of the men who will fill in with vital third places, it will still be up to a few outstanding individuals to hold up their end of the scoring. Just how Duke's octet of Storer, Brown, Sargent, Lach, Gantt, Palumbo, Profenius and Lockwood will stack up against Carolina's headliners is problematical, but whatever the outcome of the competition in the upper brackets, it is certain that the "big men" in the top loop will furnish the meet's greatest thrills.
