

Tar Heels Win Track Battle From Duke, 66-60

Tar Babies Outslug Raleigh High, 11-6

By Bill Woestendiek

The Tar Baby nine continued its march along the victory path here on Emerson field yesterday, and although the Raleigh high school lads made the going a little rocky in spots, the Carolina frosh won a wild slugfest by a score of 11-6.

Two big three-run outbursts, one in the second and one in the fifth inning, were enough to give the victory to the Tar Babies. The play of the freshman nine was ragged again yesterday, however, falling below the form displayed against Greensboro last week. George Sparger, Joe Green and Bart Lewis did the hurling for the home club with Sparger getting credit for the win. Walt Pupa and Grits Gresham were again the big men with the bat for the frosh nine, Pupa knocking in three runs.

First Batter Homers

An insight into the type of game that was coming was delivered by the first man up in the first inning. Marion Benson smashed a long homer over the head of center-fielder Johnson to put Raleigh out in front. Raleigh pitcher Phil Barbee couldn't hold that lead, however, for the locals went ahead in their half of the first. Myers, first Carolina man up, evened matters by tripling down the right field line and racing home when second-sacker Shaw muffed the throw-in. Walt Pupa's single scored Rivers Johnson from second base with the second run a few minutes later.

Colones Doubles

In the second inning, the Tar Babies continued to pull away when Johnny Colones smashed a long double with the bases loaded to highlight the attack. Walt Pupa's single in the fourth sent two more runs across, scoring Green and Myers, both of whom had walked.

Going into the fifth frame, the Tar Babies were comfortably out in front by a 7-2 count, but the Raleigh boys put on a rally that fell short of tying the ball game by only one run. The Capital city lads only got two hits

Headlee's No-Hit Game Is Week's Top Mural Feat

Two Thursday games highlighted this week's play in the dormitory and fraternity intramural softball leagues. Allen Headlee's no-hit 18-0 win over Beta Theta Pi No. 2 for the Phi Gams No. 1, was the first no-hit tilt of the season; and Town's eleven inning victory over Lewis No. 2, 4-3, the longest game thus far.

There were several other closely fought contests during the week, including three more extra-inning battles. DKE downed Alpha Chi Sigma 6-4 in an eight-inning affair, Lambda Chi Alpha edged out Phi Gams No. 2, 5-4, in another eight-inning game. Med School No. 1 triumphed over Alexander Club 6-4 in the week's other overtime tilt.

Headlee Takes Honors
Headlee easily took the pitching honors for the week with his superb mound performance in which only two men reached first, one on a walk and one on an error. The Phi Gam hurler gets a chance for a repeat performance this week on Thursday against the KA's. In the only other shutout this week Vic Seixas turned in a four-hit performance against the Betas No. 1 to give Chi Psi a 6-0 win.

Wolf, Shepard, Morriss Leave Tomorrow; Coaching Post Open

The chief question around Woolen gymnasium yesterday was, "Who will be Carolina's football coach next year?"

Ray Wolf, who came to the University in 1936 as head coach when Carl Snavelly moved to Cornell for more reasons than one, reports tomorrow to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis for a four-week training period before taking a post as a commissioned officer in the Navy's pre-flight training program.

Wolf joins Johnny Morriss, assistant track coach, and Bo Shepard, assistant athletic director, in the new class which starts work Monday.

Ralph Casey, Johnny Vaught and Jim Lalanne were to graduate this weekend in the first class of 600 prominent coaches and athletes who will serve as officers in the Navy's air cadet physical education training program.

Over his six year span as coach of the Tar Heels Wolf's teams won 38 games and lost 17. His poorest team of his career was last fall when the Tar Heels won three and lost seven tilts. His 1936 squad—his first year—won eight and lost two. In 1937 his team lost only to Fordham and defeated Duke, 14-6, to win the state and conference titles.

Six wins, two losses and scoreless tie with Fordham was the Tar Heels' record in 1938 and in 1939 eight wins, one tie and a loss to Duke were recorded. A brilliant 6-3 victory over Duke featured the 1940 season in which the Tar Heels won six and lost four.

Tennis Stars, Schacht Stage Exhibitions Here

Hardwick, Little Meet in Feature; Coeds Show Styles

By Mark Garner

Despite the disappointing audience Miss Mary Hardwick and Mrs. Dorothy Round Little battled through a two-set match in the feature attraction of the British and American Ambulance Corps benefit exhibition at the varsity tennis courts yesterday afternoon.

An all-sport fashion show with a dozen Carolina coeds as models preceded the main net event and Al Schacht, king clown of the diamond, capered through a tennis and baseball routine to the delight of the audience. Schacht's antics, familiar to baseball fans, were not as effective without the background of an actual ball game but his pantomime of a pitcher and his imitation of a temperamental tennis star were well-staged and brought forth hearty laughter and round after round of applause.

Harris Everett, Tar Heel varsity net star, and Vic Seixas, top frosh netman, displayed a high-grade brand of tennis in their singles match. Everett used his well-known drop shot mixed with baseball drives in turning back his yearling competitor in the first set by a 6-0 count. Seixas rallied in the second set and won three games before Everett captured the set and match at 6-3.

Mrs. Little played exceptionally well yesterday and took the first set from Miss Hardwick with ease, 6-3. No shot was impossible for Mrs. Little, at present tennis instructor at the Seigniory Club, Province of Quebec, Canada, and the English woman's backhand cross-court shot from the baseline came in for much applause.

and "Oh's" and "Ah's" from the appreciative audience.

In the second set Miss Hardwick recovered and made placement shots to all corners of the court winning the set, 7-5. The red-headed netter covered the court well and used a blistering forehand drive to mark up the victory.

In a single-set mixed doubles engagement Miss Hardwick and Everett bested Mrs. Little and Seixas in a hard-fought tilt, 6-4. The pairs were evenly matched and provided the most interesting exhibition of the day.

Poole Takes Golfing Crown; Neese Is Consolation Victor

Doeschler Loses To Duke Star In Semi-Finals

ATHENS, Ga., April 18—(UP)—Grover Poole of Duke, who has never lost a collegiate golf match, kept his record intact here today to take the gold crown in the Southern intercollegiate golf tournament with a seven and five victory over Frank Stranahan of the University of Miami.

L. C. (Shooky) Neese of North Carolina defeated John McMurray of the University of Virginia, two and one, to take the championship consolation title after having been previously defeated in medalist play by George Blum, the tourney medalist from Georgia, while McMurray lost to Bill Goldsport of Duke.
Poole shot the first nine in a blazing two under par, held the next three in par and Stranahan conceded after Poole shot a six foot putt on the 13th hole. Stranahan failed to hit the championship form that he displayed against Arnold Blum in the semi-finals yesterday. Stymied twice, Stranahan made a chip putt on the 10th hole but missed the same shot on the 11th. It was his first loss in seven consecutive tournaments.

Poole had eliminated Dick Doeschler, Carolina sophomore, 2 and 1, to reach the final round.

to hang on by virtue of sheer all-around balance. The score then stood 59-58 with the Devils leading. Mengel, Carolina's most versatile trackman in years, had already won the high hurdles and taken seconds in the high and broad jumps. Storer, the Methodist favorite, had won the 100-yard dash earlier in the afternoon and appeared to be well-rested and set to repeat in the low barriers.

that Mengel and Storer were taking each hurdle stride for stride. Mengel looked to have a slight edge as they hit the seventh obstacle with Mike Mangum not far behind the leaders. At this point Storer broke his stride and hit No. 7 going over. Ultimate victory hung on his ability to recover and close with Mengel who now was definitely out in front. It looked for a moment as if he might regain his stride but the pressure was too much and completely unnerved, Storer collapsed going into the eighth hurdle and fell ingloriously to the track. Mengel and Mangum flashed by to win with ease and Carolina's first major athletic victory over Duke of the current scholastic year was an accomplished fact.

It was a stiff, bitter, uphill fight that a plucky squad of Tar Heel trackmen waged all afternoon. Spotting Duke an initial edge by dint of weakness in the field events, Carolina was never ahead until Mengel's startling victory. The Devils were definitely on as Hank Profenius, Wendy Lockwood, Werner Brown and Bob Gantt piled up impressive points to give the home team an early and sustaining lead. However, Coach Bob Fetzer's squad hung on, tallied valuable seconds and thirds and came through with two clean sweeps in the pole vault and the high hurdles to keep within striking distance of the leaders. The initial Duke margin dwindled to 47-43 with four events to go, shot back up to 53-46 with three remaining, climbed to 58-50 with two to go and then dwindled to 59-58 when the broad jump returned Percy Ashby and Warren Mengel in front of the field.
