

Draft Bill Awaits President's Signature To Become Law

French Fleet Docks at Toulon By Nazi Order

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—(UP)—The teen-age draft bill—designed to add almost 1,000,000 men to the armed forces by making 18 and 19 year old youths eligible for induction—received Congressional approval today and was sent to the White House for signature.

The Senate completed work on the bill by accepting with virtually no opposition a report from the conference committee which eliminated controversial amendments calling for one year of pre-combat training for the 18 and 19 year old boys.

President Roosevelt is expected to sign the bill without delay but selective service officials said that no teenage boys would be drafted before January because of the vast amount of "paper work" that must be completed.

LONDON, Nov. 12—(UP)—The French fleet—with Adolph Hitler's permission—will remain at Toulon in French hands ready to resist "any attacker", radio Vichy said tonight as German and Italian troops completed occupation of all the rest of France.

The Vichy announcement climaxed a series of conflicting reports regarding the vast fleet—three battleships, 10 cruisers, upwards of 50 destroyers and numerous small vessels.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—(UP)—Representative Melvin Maas (R-Minn.) recently returned from four months duty with the Marines in the Pacific told the nation tonight that the United States is losing the war and that the government is deliberately concealing the facts.

Speaking over a Columbia network, he said the Pacific war has been running steadily at a dangerous clip against America since Pearl Harbor and that unless an immediately basic shakeup is made in the Army and Navy high command the Japs will definitely win.

CAIRO, Nov. 12—(UP)—The German desert army has retreated 140 miles into Lybia dashing pell-mell for Tripolitania and the rear guard is trying to evacuate Tobruk from the attacking Allied forces.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—(UP)—The Navy today reported another flashing attack on Japanese supply lines and revealed that American flyers had shot down at least 17 enemy bombers in a savage Armistice Day battle over Guadalcanal—the biggest since the repulse of the Japanese invasion thrust on the island.

for the effigy of the Blue Devils will be burned. Denny Hammond said that despite the fact that the spot for the bonfire is to remain a secret until tomorrow night, "The club has arranged to have freshman fraternity pledges guard the pyre." During the burning of the effigy students will hold the traditional snake dance around the fire.

could easily be a high-scoring affair, although the consensus of opinion indicates a fairly low-score game. High or low, we'll take the Tar Heels. We didn't see the Duke-Maryland clash last Saturday, but we did see the men of Tatum demolish Davidson, and it is on the basis of their great showing last week that we are selecting the men in light Blue and white tomorrow.

That little man who makes such big mistakes is back with us. The Yogi was right on 12 out of 15 games last week, which helps bring his season's mark up a little bit. He has now selected 68 winners against 28 losers for a percentage of .708. He timidly offers the following selections for this week-end:

CAROLINA over Duke—The Tar Heels definitely will be "on hand" in their big game of the year.

WAKE FOREST over George Washington—although the Colonials upset Clemson, the Deacons are a better team.

STATE over Georgetown—injuries to five key men will hurt the Wolf-pack's chances for a victory, but . . . GEORGIA TECH over Alabama—on the basis of the Yellow Jacket's showing against Kentucky, but the Tide wants this one.

TULANE over Georgia Navy—don't ask us why.

WILLIAM AND MARY over VMI—Joe Muha will make it tough for the all-conquering Indians.

ARMY over VPI—the West Pointers are due to hit their winning stride again.

BOSTON COLLEGE over Fordham—a spot for an upset, but the Eagles are just too strong.

LSU over Auburn—anything can happen here.

NORTH CAROLINA NAVY over Manhattan—the Kelly Greens don't stand much more chance against the future fliers than would a Japanese Zero, but they'll be fighting.

MINNESOTA over Iowa—a titanic struggle, but after all, the Gophers have already lost three times and enough's enough.

NAVY over Columbia—after what the Sailors did to Penn, the Lions should be easy, but Governali will be slinging torpedoes.

WISCONSIN over Northwestern—

'Must Walk to Game,' Says Chief Sloan

In an effort to help relieve the expected traffic problem for Saturday's game, Chief of police W. T. Sloan issued the following statement yesterday:

"Chapel Hill residents, including boys in dorms and fraternities, most leave their cars at home tomorrow and park them in the yard in order to give more room for incoming traffic."

New Vote Totals On Senior Budget

Through a typographical error, results in the voting on the proposed senior budget were inaccurately printed in yesterday's DAILY TAR HEEL. Correct figures for the senior vote should read 374 approving the budget and eight opposing.

Hillel Services Held Late Tonight

"The regular Hillel services will not be held until 8:30 tonight because of the Duke victory rally," Rabbi Joseph Gitin announced today.

and proved one of the most popular bands ever to appear there. From there they went to the Tantilla Gardens, popular Richmond nitery, and to the Hotel George Washington in Jacksonville, Fla.

The set-up of the band at present is four saxes, three brass, and two rhythm, not to forget the girl vocalist. Ted plays lead sax himself, and is featured on alto solos. Sam Andrews is the go tenor man. Featured in the brass section are Shorty McCleod, sweet trumpet, Wally Andrews, hot trumpet, and Moch McBreder, trombone.

Mary Cary, a sweet young Norfolk miss, is the vocalist. Her style of singing is pleasing to both ear and eye.

the Wildcats fail to win a conference game for the first time since 1923.

NOTRE DAME over Michigan—because we have to choose a winner, and that's the only reason, brother.

PRINCETON over Yale—the Eli are on the comeback path, but they will feel the Tiger's wrath.

Mrs. Hadley Refuses To Join First Aid Class

"Imagine me rolling bandages, practicing splints, associating with socially inferior people. It's absurd and downright insulting! Why, the very thought of sitting in a room with noisy women makes me ill! People should stop being hysterical, like my butler who had the impertinence to insist on being an air-raid warden, and let the government handle the war."

Silly, giddy, Mrs. Hadley is not uncommon here in America. Unfortunately, there are many more like her who seem to regard the whole conflict as a personal crusade against themselves!

Mrs. Hadley was not unpatriotic. She just hated to see the normal routine of her life disturbed. Out of this one woman's reactions M-G-M has fashioned a picture of great emotional power. Already it is being hailed as the surprise hit of the new movie season.

"The War Against Mrs. Hadley," starring Edward Arnold and Fay Bainter will be shown at the Carolina Theatre, Wednesday & Thursday — ADV.
