Police Violence Probe Begun Here

Formulation of procedure for the investigation of charges pressed against members of the Chapel Hill police force claiming violence and mistreatment of prisoners was begun yesterday by Dean R. H. Wattach and P. L. Burch, committee in charge.

Commissioner of Police Burch told a DTH reporter that "everything had been set in motion" to make a complete impartial investigation. While final details of the inquiry are being completed, Burch will be out of town so that on his return both members may begin action immediately on the case.

Wattach, head of the School of Law and town alderman, is planning to announce the outline of the investigation procedure today. It is probable that the actual date for the hearing will be set early next week following Burch's return.

The request for a complete hearing before the full board was made by Mayor Bob Madry at Tuesday night's meeting when the case was first brought to the attention of the city aldermen.

No definite statement was given as to what type of meeting was favored by the board but common law procedure calls for persons with information relative to the charges, to appear at the preliminary meeting for report. There is a possibility that an open meeting before the town may be scheduled.

Complete facts on the two-man investigation will be published as received.

The hearing will center about the alleged mistreatment by the police of three negroes in their custody. Sworn affidavits in the DAILY TAR HEEL of Callie Norwood, Flossie Durham and Jessie Stroud accuse the Chapel Hill police force of violating the law by striking the negroes.

All dormitories and houses wishing to compete in this campus wide contest must get in touch with Ben Snyder, Joe Harper, Mary Lib Masengill or Betty Sterchi, contest managers, before the competition begins next week.

Correction

In yesterday's story on the meeting of the student legislature, it was stated that W. J. Smith, speaker of the legislature, indicated that a bill to move campus elections to the middle of the spring quarter might be brought before the legislature later. This statement is erroneous and should have read that the proposed bill would move elections to the middle of the winter quarter.

problems he was recently chosen to head the War College, set up as a part of the University to deal with the situation now facing it and the students.

Paul Green is well known in dramatic circles as a successful playwright, being the author of such productions as "The Lost Colony," and "Native Son."

Rex Winslow of the economics department, an expert in his field, was formerly connected with the department of Agriculture under the administration of Henry A. Wallace.

"The panel promises to be one of the most informative to be presented in a long time since it is dealing with problems which are pertinent to every student," said Jim Loeb, member of the CPU planning committee.

The discussion will be open to the public.

Chest Gets Donations From Greeks

Interfrat Council Gives Drive $50

Scattered results of Wednesday night's fraternity and sorority meetings indicated that the groups would give substantial sums to the $10,000 Carolina War Chest.

The Interfraternity council delivered a $50 check to Bernard Moser, drive chairman, as their initial contribution.

Fraternities which reported to John Kendrick, men's division leader, were setting aside sums well above the $3-per-man-minimum. Although all the houses have not yet indicated what they will give, if it is anywhere near the first contributions, fraternity donations will be in the thousands.

Sarah Sutton, head of the women's division, said that one sorority had pledged one dollar per member from house funds, not including the contributions of individual members.

Individual student gifts were also starting to come in. Many, not waiting until reached by canvassers, were bringing their money to the YMCA office. One student gave Harry Comer, YMCA secretary, $20.

Comer encouraged all those who wish to contribute now to use the War Chest facilities at the YMCA office.

With the men's and coed dormitories, and town still to be reached, the War Chest total was still close to the first thousand mark.

Arty Fischer, Sound and Fury representative, told committee members at yesterday's meeting in Graham Memorial that plans for the benefit Sound and Fury show on Thanksgiving day were being completed.

Government Needs Chemists, Aides For War Program

The Federal Government is in need of teletype operators, office appliance repairmen, junior chemists and chemical aides, according to the latest Civil Service Commission bulletin.

College students who have, or will have in four months after filing, completed three years of college chemistry training and who have 24 semester hours of chemistry credit may apply for these chemical aide positions, which will be located all over the country at a salary of $1,800 a year. Students with four years of college training and 30 semester hours credit are eligible for the $2,000 junior chemist positions. A great increase in the number of chemists is expected as a result of the expanding synthetic rubber industry.

Office appliance repairmen are wanted who have had experience maintaining, repairing, and overhauling various types of office machinery such as typewriters, calculating machines, addressograph machines, teletype machines. Typewriter repairmen are especially wanted. The pay is $1,860 a year. ## Session Plans Quiz Program

Questions Sought For Sunday Fete

In keeping with the idea of imitating popular radio shows, this week's Sunday Night Session will feature an "Information Please" type of program.

The board of experts will consist of Dean R. B. House, Dean Roland B. Parker, Coach Jim Tatum, and Dr. Hugh T. Lefler.

Any student may submit questions, and if the question happens to be used and is not answered, a prize will be awarded. No definite prize has been decided upon, but as soon as this information is made known it will be disclosed in the DTH.

All questions must be submitted to Boots Keith, Joe Harper, or else they can be left in the office of Graham Memorial. Questions will be accepted until Sunday night.

Deans Parker and House are expected to handle any questions concerning students and student government, as well as the general puzzlers. Tatum will attempt to answer the sports queries, while Dr. Lefler, social science professor, will probably take the questions in the historical field.

Additional Paintings Augment Lurcy Exhibit

Augmenting the collection of modern French paintings which were lent to the University by Mr. and Mrs. George Lurcy for a month's display, three new pictures on landscapes by Sisley, Marquet and Dufrenoy that were held up in the restorers in New York were added to the current exhibit in Person hall.

The paintings vary greatly: Sisley's represents the Impressionist group in its traditional vein, Dufrenoy's "Place de la Bastille" is Impressionist in its manner though it was painted much later, and Marquet's landscape of a river and a bride over its banks has a rich golden glow that gives it a great deal of atmosphere.

The painting by Marquet was done some years ago when Marquet was more closely associated with Matisse and the "Fauves" group.

Also on display are "War Posters" and "Dilbert" by Lt. R. Osborn which are cartoons on Naval aeronautics. In the small gallery "Visual Aids in Army Education" and "Children's Books" may also be viewed.

The exhibition will be open daily from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. and on Sundays from 12 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Curriculum Preparation Being Rushed

High School Men May Transfer

The recently established College for War Training will open its doors to selected high school students for special war service training February 1, according to an announcement yesterday from Administrative Dean R. B. House.

"In view of President Roosevelt's announcement yesterday that each boy would register on his 18th birthday," said Dean House, "the College for War Training will hasten its formulation of pre-induction curricula."

Under the plan as approved by Dean House and the War College advisory board, qualified high school students may transfer without delay from the first semester of high school to a pre-induction program, enter a reserve and more than likely be assured an opportunity of completing one or more years of college education and conditioning.

"The College for War Training is especially designed to make a real contribution to the war effort," said the Dean, "by offering pre-combat duty and scientific training."

Courses open to the incoming class of War College students will include regular academic subjects plus a special course of military organization, fundamentals, and other related courses on the war effort. Physical conditioning will play an important part in the program.

No arrangements have been made concerning the rooming plans, eating or instruction but Dean Bradshaw, head of the College, and G. B. Phillips, general secretary, are completing final details.

In response to inquiry as to whether the University would continue its policy of admitting selected high school students, prior to graduation, Dean House gave an emphatic "Yes." He explained that the experimental group of 30 admitted under this new ruling last year achieved distinguished success and that the University vastly speeded-up program would make it all the more important that "we continue this policy."

CICA Sponsors Barnyard Shuffle At Student Union

Shoes off, the first barnyard shuffle of the year will be held tonight in the main lounge of Graham Memorial from 9 until 12 o'clock. Dates will be invited by the girls attending the dance themselves or arranged through the CICA. Any girl wanting a blind date for the occasion should see Martha Guy, president of the CICA, or Marsha Hood immediately.

"Shoes will be checked at the door upon entering the dance and absolutely no footwear will be allowed on the floor," said Marsha Hood. A 10 cent war stamp will be charged for the service, and stags will be admitted upon the purchase of a 25 cent war stamp.

Couples will shuffle around through routines of "shu fly swing" and "birdie in the cage" with Mike Carr calling the numbers. A hill billy band has been arranged for the occasion by Henry Moll, manager of Graham Memorial.

Apple cider straight from the barn yard will be served during the dance. Between shuffles round dancing will be held in the lounge with recorded music.
