

Speakers Slated At CDP Meeting

Members of Chi Delta Phi, literary sorority, met Wednesday afternoon in Graham Memorial to discuss plans for the coming quarter. The new officers, elected in December, presided. They are: president, Ann Seeley; vice-president-secretary, Anne Osterhout; and treasurer, Betty C. Seligman.

Following a short business meeting, plans were made to have a series of guest-speakers appear before the organization during the quarter. Surrealism in art and literature will be the principal topic for study, it was decided.

Try-outs for membership will be held Wednesday, at 4 p.m. in the Grail room of Graham Memorial. All interested in trying out are invited to be present and read a manuscript of their own. All forms of literature, prose or poetry, are acceptable. A scholarship - membership will be awarded to a new member on merit of the work that she presents for entrance. Those who wish to apply for the scholarship-membership may write Ann Seeley, 301 Spencer hall.

WRESTLING

Were definitely calculated to bring many points to Carolina. Rhythm, balance and a cool head characterized his grappling technique. Kemp reports for induction early next week.

Undeterred by the loss of these two key men, the rest of the squad turned in its last hard workout before their opening meet against Duke. Instead of the usual freshman and varsity combinations the Quinlmen will meet the Blue Devils on an "A" and "B" team basis.

The Duke authorities made known their choice late yesterday afternoon and Carolina will try the new system in accordance with their request.

Close Bout

Only one time trial was run off yesterday, a re-match between Tillet and Tuomey for the frosh 145-pound slot. Yesterday's bout was as close as their first meeting, but at the end of six minutes Tillet held a slight advantage. Coach Quinlan will have a difficult time deciding which of these two boys will get the nod this Saturday.

The rest of the squad looked impressive as they went through a stiff calisthenic drill. Conditioning is almost complete and the team will meet Duke in fine shape.

of his seventieth birthday, January 10, which he spent quietly with his two sons, W. D. Carmichael, Jr., the University Controller, and Cartwright Carmichael of the Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company, Durham, and their families.

Carmichael has two other sons. Robert is in the advertising business in New York and Martin is with the Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company in Philadelphia. All four attended the University.

For many years he has been one of the nation's most prominent men in the tobacco manufacturing industry. Immediately upon graduating from the University in 1897 he was connected with the Durham city schools in which work he continued for 15 years. He taught English in the high school for two years, was principal of the high school for seven years and was superintendent of the city schools for six years.

As an undergraduate he was line for the Dolphins to come through again.

Major tragedy which has hit the team since Christmas has been the decision of Percy Mallison, ace sophomore sprinter and national titleholder, to give up swimming this winter. With Mallison on hand, Jamerson believes Carolina would have had its "best team in history" but despite this loss, he is confident that the boys will have a good year.

VMI First

Already rounding into good shape, the Dolphins are training hard for their opening meet with VMI two weeks from tomorrow. VMI scored more points against the Dolphins last year than any other team and this year are reputedly stronger than ever. But while taking good consideration of the Cadets, Jamerson's men are looking into the future to the intersectional meet with Navy on Feb. 10. One of the toughest teams the Dolphins will face all season, the Midshipmen have split even with Carolina in two previous meets and Jamerson is eager to notch a triumph when his men journey up to Annapolis next month.

As for the national championships being held this year at Ohio State on March 26-27, Jamerson is crossing his fingers. Whether or not the transportation facilities will be available for such a long excursion is still doubtful, but the general feeling is that once they get there, the Blue Dolphins would pull more than a few surprises.

SIDELINES

Carolina in the first round of the 1941 conference basketball tournament, which knocked the highly-rated White Phantoms right out of the proceedings.

9. State College's affinity for pulling some kind of hidden-ball play against Carolina on the gridiron. In 1941 it was a quarterback sneak that confused everyone on the field. This past season, it was Art Faircloth holding the ball gingerly behind his back and foxtrotting through the entire Tar Heel team.

10. The Tar Heels' cross country victory over a powerful Navy team in 1941. Coach Dalé Ranson's harriers pulled the hill and dale upset of the season in tripping the Middle runners.

In practically all of the above incidents, the famous and unbeatable Carolina spirit has been the predominant factor. Let us sincerely hope that the great fighting spirit of Tar Heel players and students will continue to exist in the future.

Many other events are also brought to mind, but space, which we have overused already, prevents us from going into detail. The swimming team's excellent work, the argument over the authorization of lacrosse, the names of many of Carolina's athletic greats, the ram incident, and even the day we scored three touchdowns in tag football—we can recall all of those and more, but time's running short and we have to pull the top down over our portable for the last time and hand this to our worthy sports editor, Westy Fenhagen. Au revoir.

Swinging from light to light inside the room, hanging by their feet with needles and pins and tape measures clutched tightly between teeth, Cappy Watters and her staff of costume makers vainly attempt to grab a few measurements as the chorus pauses between steps.

In the meantime co-directors Mary Louise Huse and Kat Hill dash from wall to wall batting their respective brains out upon each solid surface while changing scripts, looking for last minute inspiration and avoiding bill collectors.

Time and date of the revelry show is set for 8 p.m. Sunday in Memorial hall, the directors announced as they began beating the piano again on "that fourth chorus."
