UNO Council Plans To Meet Twice Yearly

Soviet Ambassador Breaks UN Boycott

New York, April 9—Soviet ambassador Andrei Gromyko has broken his boycott of the United Nations Security Council Session by returning to his first meeting in 13 days. Gromyko was the big attraction at the meeting today, for outstanding bobby soxer idol Frank Sinatra sat almost unnoticed in the audience.

The United Nations Security Council has unanimously adopted a proposal by Soviet ambassador Gromyko to hold two special meetings a year. Foreign Ministers of the members would be expected to attend the special sessions. Regular meetings must be held at least every 14 days.

Iranian ambassador Hessein Ala was not present at this afternoon's U-N council meeting for the first time in two weeks. Ala had planned to return to Washington today, but postponed his departure for several days in the event the council wants to recall him.

For the first time since the United Nations Council sessions began in this country, Secretary General Trygve Lie was not in his seat this afternoon. Assistant Secretary General Sobolev of Russia represented the secretariat.

Dr. Milton Joseph Rosenau, world-renowned authority in public health and director since 1935 of the University School of Public Health, which serves as a training center for the whole Southeast, died at his home here yesterday morning at 1:15 o'clock following a serious heart illness for the last several weeks. He was 77 last January 1.

Long regarded in many circles as the foremost authority on preventive medicine, disinfectants, hygiene and the science on public health, Dr. Rosenau founded at Harvard University in 1909 the first School of Public Health in the world which he headed until 1935. During the same period he also directed public health schools at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and at Lowell Institute.

He organized in 1935 at the University its first public health school which has become the government-sponsored training center for the Southeast.

He served as president of the American Public Health Association in 1944.

Funeral Pending

No funeral arrangements have been made pending the arrival here of close relatives from Boston and Philadelphia and advice from doctors regarding the condition of Mrs. Rosenau who underwent an operation in New York yesterday. The body will be cremated and it is probable that funeral services will be deferred.

In addition to his wife, the former Miss Maude H. Tenner of New York, whom he married in 1934, Dr. Rosenau is survived by a son and daughter by his first wife, Milton J. Rosenau, Jr., of Framingham, Mass., and Mrs. Max Ifeld of Taos, New Mexico; a brother, Simon Rosenau, and a sister, Mrs. Perry Frankel, both of Philadelphia, and five grandchildren.

Dr. Rosenau received his M.D. degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1889 and did post-graduate work in Berlin, Paris and Vienna. He was awarded an honorary degree from Harvard University in 1914.

He entered the United States Public Health Service, then the Marine Hospital Service in 1890 at the age of 30 and was made assistant surgeon general and director of the Public Health Laboratories in Washington

Speech to Be Aired Over Station WPTF

The honorable Kenneth C. Royall, Undersecretary of War, and UNC alumnus, class of 1914, will speak in Memorial hall next Tuesday night, under the auspices of the University Veterans Association, announced Blount Stewart, UVA president. The speech will be broadcast over station WPTF and possibly over a nationwide NBC hookup.

Undersecretary Royall was designated by President Roosevelt to defend the Nazi saboteurs in their 1942 trial in Washington. He also spent one term in the N. C. senate and is past president of the N. C. Bar Association.

He has practiced law in Raleigh and Goldsboro and has been associated with at least 6 of North Carolina's congressmen, among them, Senator Hoey and Representatives Burgin, Cooley, Clark, Folger, and Kerr.

President Truman nominated Royall, then a Brigadier General in the army, as Undersecretary of War to succeed Robert P. Patterson, who was elevated to secretary when Henry L. Stimson resigned.

Romantic Burglar Makes Love While He Steals Silver

Charleston, South Carolina—(UP)—Police here have been ordered to double their efforts to catch a thief who steals kisses along with silverware.

The amorous burglar has a set routine. He enters a house at night, unscrews all the light bulbs and pockets everything he can find—then he looks for the lady of the house and steals a kiss.

The technique is always the same—but so far police haven't been able to trap him.

On one recent night escapee the burglar was almost trapped when he leaned over to kiss a woman whose husband was lying next to her.

She woke up immediately, and screamed. "I knew it wasn't my husband," she told police.

And she explained—"I make him shave every night. The man who kissed me had a moustache."

Chancellor R. B. House

House Speaks Here Tonight

Addresses Members Of Asheville Club

The first meeting of the new Asheville-at-Carolina Club will be held tonight at 8:00 P.M. at Gerrard Hall. All persons from Asheville and surrounding towns are urged to attend. The club is being reorganized to keep Asheville people in contact with one another on the Carolina campus. The function of the club is purely social, and there are already plans abroad for dances, parties, and picnics both here and in Asheville.

Chancellor House will speak, and Mr. W. H. Plemmons, former principal of Lee H. Edwards High School in Asheville, and well known by all Carolina students, will be there to wish the new club well. Margaret Jean Taylor, publicity chairman for the re-organization, said.

"This meeting will be a very important one, as the framework for the new organization will be planned, officers will be elected, and dates for ensuing meetings will be set. Due to the large number of Asheville students at Carolina and the enthusiasm expressed by those who have been contacted thus far, this organization should be an even bigger and better club than its predecessors."

Housing Survey By Townspeople Begins Today

Today in Chapel Hill and Carrboro the Citizens' Housing committee begins a housing survey of all houses in an effort to find rooms for students.

The committee, organized last week after a suggestion from the Ministerial Council, has formulated its plans and will make the survey by telephone and personal visits. Cooperation by all citizens has been requested by C. L. Shepherd, publicity chairman of the committee.

It is hoped that rooms uncovered by the survey will somewhat ease the housing situation. With record enrollment just announced by the University, and the uncertainty of the building situation, the prospects for adequate housing are very dim.

Legislature Reverses Stand On Journals

PU Approval Needed For Managing Editors

The Student Legislature last night reversed its previous decision, and approved a motion by Jack Lackey to amend the method of selecting the staffs of the various publications. The motion as passed provides for the appointment of the managing editors, business managers and circulation managers by the editors with the approval of the Publications Board.

Editors

On successive motions by Mavis Mann, Jack Hester and Doug Hunt, the Legislature approved election of the editor of the Daily Tar Heel at large, with the qualification that he must have worked on the paper at least six months. Editors of the Yackety Yack and the Carolina Mag, it was decided, will be elected as was originally proposed in the constitution. This method provides for nominations to come from the staff of the publication, the Publications Board and a special committee of the Student Legislature, with the student body electing one of these candidates.

Gromyko and Sinatra Share UNO Spotlight

New York, Apr. 9—(UP)—Soviet ambassador Gromyko had to share the limelight at the U-N Council session today.

He had to share it with Frank Sinatra, the crooner.

Sinatra attended today's session, but there were no bobby soxers and little fanfare.

Sinatra said he was an observer for the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

"Even a crooner," said the crooner, "can be interested in world peace if he wants."

Trailer Camp for Students Will Be Ready in Ten Days

Approximately 10 more days will be required to complete construction of facilities for the trailer camp located on the old high school grounds on Pittsboro road, which is to be used by married veteran students.

The ground now being cleared will provide space for over 40 trailers, and around 20 more could be placed among the trees around the main camp ground, it was learned in South Building today.

Nearing completion now is a bath house with separate sections for men and women. This will contain toilet facilities, showers, lavatories and wash-tubs. It will have steam heat. Outside each trailer will be located individual water faucets, from which occupants can run hoses into their trailers.

Privilege of putting trailers on the grounds will be on a first come, first served basis. There are at present around ten trailers located outside Alexander hall which are awaiting completion of the camp on Pittsboro road. Applications for space should be made at the office of Director of Housing James Wadsworth, 204 South Building.
