Linksmen Win Season Opener Impressively

Liles Shoots 74 For Lowest Score

The Tar Heel golfers, first links team to represent the University since 1942, opened the season with a bang by defeating Wayne University of Detroit, 14¹/₂ to 3¹/₂, on the Hope Valley course yesterday afternoon.

High Wind

The match was played in a high wind, which wrought havoc with the scores. Graydon Liles, of Greenville, N. C., took low-scoring honors for the afternoon by posting a two-over-par 74.

The feature match of the day saw Liles, the Tar Heel No. 1 man, shut out Stanley Setera, the visitors' ace, 3 to 0.

Jim Keiger, No. 2 star from Asheville also played well as he took Bob Balkwell in tow, 2¹/₂ to 1¹/₂, in the second half of the lead-off foursome.

Thursday afternoon the Carolina golfers entertain Wake Forest's Demon Deacons over the Hope Valley layout.

The summaries:
Liles (NC) defeated Setera, 3-0. Keiger, (NC) defeated Balkwell, 2¹/₂ to 1¹/₂. Best ball: Carolina 3, Wayne 0.

Ashby (NC) defeated Opalka 2¹/₂ to 1¹/₂. Nyimicz (NC) and Jawar tied, 1¹/₂ to 1¹/₂. Best ball: Carolina 2, Wayne 1.

BOBBING IN SPORTS

By Bob Goldwater

The Carolina campus awoke Saturday morning to learn that its outstanding basketball coach of the past two seasons had accepted a similar position with the Naval Academy. After several weeks of "watchful waiting," the CAA has let possible national recognition in this sport next year slip through its fingers.

In no manner whatsoever do we blame Lt. Ben Carnevale for his decision to accept Navy's most attractive offer "that I just couldn't refuse." Neither will we condemn the CAA TOO MUCH at this time, since that organization might happen to appoint a coach who will produce another great aggregation to carry on the Tar Heel court exploitations of the past season. Instead, we will hold judgment until next winter to see if Coach Carnevale's departure means as big a blow to Carolina basketball as everyone says. And to Lt. Ben Carnevale go these parting words, "Thanks for giving us two fine basketball teams and good luck at Annapolis!"

A few days ago, we took the trouble to walk over to lower Fetzer field to watch Spring football practice and to say hello to Carolina's mentor, Carl Snavelly. The coach admits to being pleased with the showings in the off-season sessions and especially with the pep that the gridders have exhibited. It felt good to renew old acquaintances with Chan Highsmith, John Tandy, and George Sparger, all important cogs in the 1942 Tar Heel grid machine.

Bad weather caused Carolina tennis enthusiasts to miss what would have been the outstanding encounter here this season when rain and a low mercury forced Friday's match against William and Mary to be cancelled. The Indians, without a doubt, have one of the strongest net teams fielded by a college in recent years. Coach John Kenfield's charges will get a crack at the Indian lineup before the campaign ends, however, since a date at the Williamsburg school is included on their northern jaunt this week-end.

Despite a mediocre record of four wins and an equal number of losses, the Tar Heel baseballers demonstrated their true caliber Saturday by handing Navy its first loss of the season. In fashioning a brilliant three-hitter, Hamp Coleman established himself as a likely choice to receive Coach Bunn Hearn's starting nod against a strong Duke nine next week.

While on the subject of baseball, we'd like to take this opportunity to crawl way out on a limb by predicting the following results in the 1946 major league campaigns:

National League	American League
Cardinals	Red Sox
Giants	Yankees
Cubs	Tigers
Dodgers	Indians
Braves	Senators
Pirates	Athletics
Phillies	Browns
Reds	White Sox

Just by way of comparison, if any students wish to submit their selections on the outcome of the pennant races, we'll be glad to total the results and report on how a cross section of the Carolina campus picks the big leagues to finish this year.

Marines Defeat Stacy Dormitory In Extra Inning

The Intramural softball leagues got back into full swing yesterday after a week of bad weather with several close contests featuring the day's play.

The highly-touted Marines had their hands full all afternoon and were forced to come from behind to defeat Stacy, 8-7, in an extra inning contest. Pi Lambda Phi scored another upset as they staved off a late rally to turn back the Pikas, 13-11. Other hard-fought games saw Graham No. 1 outlast the ROTC 2nd Co. to win 12-11, as the Law School was edging out Aycock, 8-7.

The Phi Kap Sigs showed they were still the team to beat when they routed Phi Delt No. 2, 15-0. Tony Jones on the mound for the winners allowed but one hit and was never in trouble. Living up to their advance notices the Physical Ed. Staff

DiLorenzo, McElrath to See Mound Action for Carolina

Five Games in Six Days Feature Week of Play for Busy Hearnmen

By Bill Woestendiek

Back home after two impressive victories on the road over the week-end, Carolina opens a week of baseball that will see the Tar Heels play five games in six days when they battle the Durham Bulls of the Carolina league on Emerson field today at 4 p. m.

Coach Bunn Hearn announced that he will start practically the same club that defeated Virginia and Navy last week and would throw either freshman southpaw Vin DiLorenzo or John McElrath, a holdover from the 1945 squad, against the pro club.

The Carolina coach also said he expects to substitute freely today to give his men plenty of work in preparation for the Blue and White nine's opening Big Four battle here tomorrow against NC State, a tilt with the Coastal Plain league Wilson club at Wilson Thursday, a return engagement with the Bulls at Durham Friday, and a Southern conference clash with the University of Maryland here on Saturday.

The Tar Heels turned in their best performance of the season in nipping Navy by a 2-1 margin at Annapolis Saturday. Hamp Coleman was in brilliant form against the Middies and stopped the opposing hitters cold as he scattered three bingles. Cleet Cleetwood hit an impressive homer and the rest of the lineup performed well, playing a fast, heady brand of ball.
