Stalin Praises Russian Share In War Victory

Urges Safeguard Of Peace in Talk

London, April 30.—Premier Josef Stalin, in a May Day order of the day as Minister for the Armed Forces, said that Russia was in the vanguard of peoples fighting for peace and security.

Stalin, in his message to the armed forces broadcast by Radio Moscow, said this year "for the first time after the victorious end of the war, May Day is celebrated in peace bought by hard sacrifices and privation."

But in recalling the war, Stalin warned that Russians "must not forget for a moment the activities of international reaction," which he said, "plans a new war."

Stalin recalled Lenin's admonition to be watchful and to take care of the armed forces. "Our army, air and sea forces," said Stalin, "have carried out their duty to the country in war. Now before there is a not less important problem—to watch over the peace and work of the Soviet people."

Admission Office Swamped By Entrance Applications

One of the busiest spots on the campus these days is the admissions office.

Although James Wadsworth, university housing officer, may disagree and claim his office has more visitors, the fact is that the second floor of South building looks as if Gilda is putting the blame on Mame again. The place is literally swamped.

Roy Armstrong, the university's ambassador, says 100 persons a day are trying to get in school. Besides those personal interviews, about 200 pieces of mail come in daily asking for entrance information.

As it stands now, the enrollment for next fall should be in the neighborhood of 5500. Last March all former students returning from the wars couldn't be accommodated so that as many as possible will be piling in here come summer. Very few want to stay out this summer. As a matter of fact, the summer vacation for students is

Bernard Gabriel Appears In Student Union Sunday

Well Known Pianist to Give Varied Bill; "Music in Profile" Is Theme of Program

Bernard Gabriel, founder of the "Society of Timid Souls," and nationally known pianist, fascinatingly different in his presentation of musical portraits, is slated to appear in the Student Union Sunday evening according to Martha Rice, Graham Memorial Director.

Executors Begin Search For Art Site

The three trustees for the estate of the late William Hayes Ackland began Monday their survey of the University to determine its fitness as the site of a $1,300,000 art museum, as provided for in Ackland's will.

After leaving here Thursday the group will present their findings in a report to the District of Columbia District Court, to determine whether Rollins College or Carolina will receive the sum.

Arriving here last week-end, the group was led on a tour of the campus Monday by President Graham, Chancellor House, Controller W. D. Carmichael, Jr., John V. Allcott, Art department head, and Albert Coates, director of the Institute of Government.

According to the stipulations of the will, a maximum of $300,000 may be expended in the construction of the art museum itself, the remainder to be used for endowment.

"No announcement will be made as to whether the University of North Carolina or Rollins College will get the bequest until late summer or fall," stated Edson B. Olds, head of the group. "Final decision in the case will be left up to the Washington courts, but they will probably uphold our recommendations."

Sunday Band Concerts

The University Band will begin its weekly Sunday afternoon appearances with a lawn concert under Davie Poplar this Sunday at 4:00 p.m., stated Earl Slocum, band director.

"Music In Profile," an illustration and discussion of the vast powers of music will be the theme of the program, in which Gabriel will endeavor to demonstrate the ability of music to portray the tragic, ecstatic, satirical, fiery, the contagion of dance music, and the stir and excitement of martial melodies. During the program selections from the "Water Music" of Handel, and Etude of Chopin's, numbers by Beethoven, Liszt, Mozart, and modern selections from Satie, Respighi, and Debussy will be heard.

Founded Society

As founder and organizer of the "Society of Timid Souls," Gabriel has been described in newspapers from coast to coast. Object of the Society is to aid artists of all kinds, especially musicians, to overcome their fear of audiences. Critic's comments such as "an ingenious young pianist," "at once master of his audience," and "the pianist with a flair for the unacknowledged" have prevented the young artist from suffering from any lack of stage presence or fear of audience reaction.

Try Out Club

The "Try Out Club," another organization where artists in every field may get an honest audience reaction to their performances, was also founded by Gabriel.

Recent programs over major metropolitan radio stations, including WFAF, WJZ, WQXR, and WOR, delighted audiences throughout the New York area. In all of his programs, Gabriel gives an informal explanation of the music and its background.

Background

Born in Denver, he came to New York at an early age and studied with private teachers, and at the Juillard School of Music, where he held a scholarship. He has appeared as recitalist in many of New York's famous music halls, and was starred last year in a guest appearance on the program, "We, The People" over CBS radio network.
