Strike Called By Rail Union This Saturday

President Hopeful Negotiations Break

Washington, May 16—The Office of Defense Transportation is making full arrangements to take over and operate the nation's railroads. Federal seizure of the roads, is expected within 24 hours. The rail wage negotiation broke down today, and the brotherhoods of engineers and trainmen say the nationwide rail strike will begin on schedule Saturday "as sure as shooting," to use their words.

Truman Hopeful

President Truman again has expressed his determination to order federal seizure of the nation's railroads in the event of a nationwide strike, as scheduled for Saturday. But the President says he's still hoping that a settlement will be reached before then. Mr. Truman says the government still is working on negotiations but he would give no details. He refused to agree that negotiations between the rail operators and the rail brotherhoods have broken down completely.

Production Boss Asks For Anti-Strike Bill

Washington, May 16—Civilian production administrator John Small has appealed for emergency legislation, outlawing strikes for six months. Small says the nation must have six months of sustained production if it is to prevent disastrous inflation. Not only must strikes be stopped, he says, but also the leap-frogging of wages and prices.

President Calls Age Groups from 26-29

Washington, May 16—The President to some extent has offset recent congressional action extending the draft but exempting teen-age youths and fathers. The President has authorized the induction for military duty of all single men between the ages of 20 to 29. That means that men in the age group from 26 through 29 who were previously exempt, now are subject to the draft.

The War Department says the new Congressional ban on drafting of teen-agers will not slow down the army demobilization schedule immediately. But, the department says, it may compel the Army to ask that induction of men between the ages of 25 and 30 be resumed.

Arbitration Refused By Soft Coal Union

Washington, May 16—The soft coal strike won't be settled by arbitration.

President Truman's hopes of putting an end to the bitter dispute by arbitration were dashed tonight when both John L. Lewis, UMW chief, and Charles O'Neal, for the coal operators, refused point-blank to arbitrate. The mine owners were willing to put their disputes over wages and hours to an impartial mediator, but refused to accept arbitration on the union demand for a 70-million dollar welfare fund. Lewis told the President that his negotiating committee was not authorized to accept arbitration.

Both Lewis and O'Neal left the White House after a 12-minute conference with the President. Mr. Truman told them to

Candidates For Student Body President Reach Seven

Johnson, Morrison Add Names For DTH Editorship

Present Editor Seeks Position By Re-Election

Announcement Brings Nominees to Five

Bob Morrison, present editor of the Daily Tar Heel, has announced his candidacy for re-election on an independent ticket. The announcement brings the total of candidates for the position up to five.

Before coming to Carolina, Morrison was managing editor of the Davidsonian, student newspaper at Davidson College; columnist and writer for the Hickory Daily Record; and editor of several Scouting periodicals.

Before his election as editor last year, he was associate editor and columnist for the Tar Heel. He was president of the Dialectic Senate, president of Battle Dormitory, and vice-president of the Interdormitory Council before he ran for editor. He now serves as a counselor of Battle, Vance, and Pettigrew Dormitories; member of the Graham Memorial Board of Directors; parliamentarian of the Philanthropic Assembly; member of the executive committee Student Welfare Board; member of the Debate Squad; president of the Tar Heel Institute of Public Affairs; member of the Interdormitory Council; publicity chairman of the Western North Carolina Club; and member of the Dialectic Senate.

Morrison has written numerous articles for the Carolina Magazine; he has been a member of the University Veterans Association; and he was president of the North Carolina Student

Miss Durema Fitzgerald

Student Gives Piano Recital Here Tonight

Miss Durema Fitzgerald will be presented in a recital of piano compositions tonight at 8:30 in Hill Music Hall. Miss Fitzgerald, graduate assistant and instructor of piano and organ, is a student of Dr. Jan P. Schinhan. Included on her program will be "Suite in E Major," by Johann Bach; "Sonata in C Major," by Beethoven; and two rhapsodies by Johann Brahms. She will also play five preludes by Alexander Scriabin, and her final selection will be "Rhapsody in F Sharp Minor," from the pen of Ernst von Dohnanyi.

Miss Fitzgerald has been a student at the University for three years and was previously a student at Meredith College in Raleigh. Her other piano instructors have been Eunice Martin of Raleigh and Stuart Pratt and the late May Crawford of Meredith College. Miss Fitzgerald is a special graduate student, being one of the first two students to work on the Bachelor

Candidate 'Scoop' Johnson Says DTH Needs New Blood

Former Journal-Sentinel Correspondent Was a Charter Member of Vets Association

Bill "Scoop" Johnson, a North Carolina veteran from Mount Airy, announced late Wednesday night that he will be a candidate for editor of The Daily Tar Heel, running on an independent ticket.

Bailey Reverses Position on OPA; Vets Send Petition

The UVA has forwarded to Senator Bailey its petition protesting the lifting of OPA. The petition was signed by 4012 persons, and is in conjunction with veterans from Duke.

It was learned yesterday that Senator Bailey has reversed his original stand and is now in favor of continuing OPA. This was brought about in no small way through the protest sent him by veteran groups and many other groups through the state, according to Blount Stewart, UVA president. Senator Bailey's reversal is expected to change the opinion of other congressmen.

Smith, Sellars Divulge Plans To Enter Race

Both Candidates Run Independently

Bill Smith, former U.V.A. president, and Jack Sellars, transfer from the University of Georgia, have announced their candidacies for president of the student body. Smith and Sellars are the sixth and seventh candidates to throw their hats in the ring for the position. Both are running independently.

"I firmly believe", stated Smith, "that the office should be filled at this critical time by a man running independent of any other organizational ties or commitments. . . I advocate a student government that will bring forth a dynamic and enthusiastic school spirit unknown to Carolina in the past year or two."

Candidate Sellars was secretary treasurer of the student council at Tennessee and was an active worker on publications, as well as outstanding in state-wide debate tournaments. Sellars, an army air corps veteran, is from Madison, Georgia.

In announcing his candidacy, he said: "I have no connection with any organization politically or otherwise. I represent those who are interested in the bettering of the conditions of university and student activities. I represent those interested in student affairs rather than politics."
