

Students Mob Town's Eating Facilities As Officials Seek Remedy To Situation

Lenior Hall Manager Says Pine Room To Offer Special Tray Lunch Meal

By Darley Lochner

Carolina students may be able to eat three meals a day and they may not. Restaurant owners and cafeteria managers said today that the solution to the problem of long lines and crowded tables was the staggering of eating hours. "If students don't have 11 and 12 o'clock classes, the situation may be improved if they will eat then and not wait until the 1 o'clock rush," L. H. Gooch, manager of Lenoir Hall said today. Gooch estimated that Lenoir would be able to serve 4,000 students each meal if there was a steady flow of customers instead of a big rush at 1 p. m.

Four Lines Moving

Four lines are now open upstairs in Lenoir with the main dining hall and the two wings all open. The Pine Room in the basement at the south entrance is offering a special tray lunch.

Those eating in the Pine Room will be offered a meat when possible, two vegetables, a drink, a salad and a dessert for 55 cents at lunch and 60 cents at dinner. There will be a choice of two meats at both meals and a choice of ice tea and coffee at lunch with milk added to the supper menu.

Gooch said that the emphasis in the Pine Room would be upon well balanced meals and speedy service. Prices in all Lenoir lines will be the same as last year.

2000 Downtown

Downtown eateries, according to a Daily Tar Heel survey, have the capacity to serve an additional 2,000 students each meal. Meat and sugar shortages remain the principle problems of restaurant managers. Here it was also requested that customers avoid the 1 o'clock rush hour and eat at 11, noon time, or 2 o'clock. Prices will be approximately the same as this summer.

Campus Calendar

—Short Notices for Busy Readers—

Students May Receive Athletic Passbooks

Students who pre-registered last quarter, and have not yet received athletic books, may turn in their yellow cards for books in Memorial Hall all day today and tomorrow noon-time. This is the last chance for students to get pass-books.

Managers Wanted

Students wishing to apply for managerships of the quonset huts in the lower quadrangle area are requested to see William L. Smith, manager of dormitories, in the basement of South Building.

CHI O'S TO MEET SUNDAY

Members of the Chi Omega sorority will meet Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Chi Omega house, according to Fran Satterfield, sorority president.

For those not desiring a complete meal there are approximately a dozen sandwich shops prepared to serve a maximum of 3,000 customers.

If All Else Fails

If all other food sources fail the Carolinian with a car can always go to Durham as one freshman did during the first two or three days of school. And then there is that old standby of a can and can opener. A little crude, we must admit, but at least you won't starve.

South Building officials said last night that University dining rooms had sufficient facilities to take care of the majority of students on campus. The four lines of Lenoir hall are able to serve 2800 students each meal. The Pine Room in Lenoir will accommodate 1000 students each meal and Carolina Inn can feed an additional 900 students. Spencer dormitory is able to accommodate another 120 coeds, making a grand total of 4820 meals.

Daily Hours Set Aside For Routine Illnesses At School's Infirmary

Dr. Ed Hedgepeth, head of the University Infirmary, today requested students with routine illnesses to call for treatment during the office hours from 9 to 11:30 a. m. and 2:30 to 5 p. m. daily.

Hedgepeth emphasized, however, that office hours do not apply to emergencies and stated that the infirmary is open at all times to ill students.

No visitors will be allowed in the infirmary due to crowded conditions. "Ninety per cent of the cases in the infirmary are infectious diseases in which visitors would be a health menace to the whole campus," Hedgepeth added.

"Health conditions on the campus during next term can be very bad because of crowded living conditions and difficult dining facilities but if students use good common sense in taking care of themselves no one will have anything to worry about," he further stated.

Director Young Now Holding Tryouts for Both Glee Clubs

Membership in Each Group To Be Limited; Varied Programs Arranged for Singers

Professor Paul Young, director of the men's and women's glee clubs, has been holding tryouts in Hill Hall from 2 to 5 in the afternoon during orientation week for new members of both organizations. Tryouts will continue through this afternoon. In speaking of these tryouts, Young declared, "I'm not looking for solo voices. I'd like everyone who has a good voice and an interest in choral singing to turn out. There will not be an extensive solo audition. I simply want to hear the quality of the voice and determine whether or not one can sing in tune."

Both the men's and women's choral groups have made great progress since the war, when it was difficult to find members, especially for the men's club. Last year, with things returning to normal, the women toured Camp Lejeune and Cherry Point and gave two civic concerts in Kinston. According to Young, the concerts in Kinston were so successful that the civic clubs there are having difficulty in deciding which organization will sponsor a return engagement this year.

Men's Club at W. C.

The men last year gave a successful concert at the Woman's college in Greensboro, and are expected to return this year. Plans are under way for a tour of cities and women's colleges in North Carolina and neighboring states, which Young believes "should be a good experience and a lot of fun for every member of the club."

Highly varied programs have been arranged for the singers, with standard concert repertoires including much music of popular appeal. "An example of this music is a choral arrangement of 'Begin the Beguine,' which the women used last year," Young said. "It proved to be quite popular with the audiences."

Membership Limited

Membership in each club this fall will be limited to 120. Rehearsals for the men will be held in Hill Hall on Monday and Wednesday at 5 o'clock; women will rehearse Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock and Thursday afternoon at 5.

KEEPING TABS

So, I'll be seeing you on the book lines and chow lines (just in case you thought this week's registration lines were the end of that ordeal for you in Chapel Hill). I'll see you in Jeff's, the Pines, Brady's, the Terrace View and Kenan stadium. I'll see you in the library, in the labs, and at lectures.

I suppose I should give the new fellas and gals on the Hill a little advice and try to initiate 'em into the tricks of the trade—but I'll be darned if I'll give out all the secrets of a college career in one easy lesson.

Just remember one thing, and that is this: "Education that gives one courage to stand up in front of a cannon and fails to give one courage to stand up in defense of right and justice, is a failure."

See ya at the game tomorrow — beat Duke!

Physical Education Will Not Meet Today

Physical education 1 and 26 for men will not meet today because the gymnasium is still being used for registration changes.

The DTH delivery complaint box is in the YMCA office.

By Jud Kinberg

DR. E. E. ERICSON

Dr. Ericson Leaves UNC

Dr. E. E. Ericson, well known professor of English here since 1930, has resigned to become head of the Division of Humanities Department at the Fort Devens branch of Massachusetts State College, it was announced by Chancellor House.

A specialist in linguistics, Dr. Ericson received his B.A. degree in 1923 from the University of Montana; his M.A. from the University of Maryland in 1925, and his Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins in 1928.

Principal at First

Dr. Ericson was a high school principal and superintendent first, and then became a member of the faculties at Montana, Maryland, Pittsburgh and Johns Hopkins before coming to the University of North Carolina.

He published "Modern Russia" with his son, Ervid E. Ericson, who was killed in the Pacific during the war, and "The Use of 'Swa' in Old English." He has also completed "A Bibliography of Old English Literature," "A History of the English Language" and "Ghandi's India," also with his son.

Dr. Ericson studied dialects of the United States, and in 1934 was awarded a fellowship by the general education board for his dialect studies. He was a member in 1935 of the southern committee of the Linguistic Atlas of America.

Exchange to Nanking

In 1935 he was exchange professor in the National Central University in Nanking, China, where he gave courses in English composition and literature and delivered a series of lectures on American education, social life, art and literature.

Laundry Changes Pick-up Service

Laundry will be picked up every two weeks instead of the usual weekly pickup, officials of the University laundry announced today.

Due to a 50 per cent increase in student enrollment and a corresponding loss in labor, neither special nor regular weekly service can be handled by the laundry as in the past.

Students residing in areas where family bundles are picked up on Tuesdays and Wednesdays will have their laundry picked up at the same time. Those living on the campus will begin sending out their laundry this coming Monday.

categories above solely because they are in excess of the allowed quota, may pursue Naval Science courses for college credits, with the approval of the academic authorities.

The Daily Tar Heel delivery complaint box is in the YMCA office.

ATTENTION ALL STUDENTS LIVING OUT OF TOWN

Those students whose residence is outside Chapel Hill, with the exception of the following: FOREST HILLS, CHASE AVE., WESTWOOD, DAVIE WOODS, and all subscribers between DAVIE WOODS and CHAPEL HILL; GIM-GHOUL RD.; and all residents of UNIVERSITY HOUSING PROJECTS will please PICK UP THEIR COPIES OF THE DAILY TAR HEEL AT THE Y (on campus) UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE.

The Carolina Magazine, long crippled by financial and personnel shortages, displayed strong signs this week of emerging from its three-year doldrums as Editor-Elect Fred Jacobson scheduled his first staff meeting and mapped out a comprehensive publication schedule.

Oldest monthly publication in the South, the Magazine history dates back one hundred and two years to 1844. It has consistently served as the voice for the finest literary talents on campus. In the early 1940's, the Carolina Magazine broadened its scope to present editorial content which combines fiction, feature, sports and humor articles in each issue.

Eight Issues this Year

1946-47 plans call for eight issues of the Carolina Magazine during the fall-winter-spring quarter period. Determined to publish only "top material," Editor Jacobson states that many responsible posts remain open to both new and returning students.

Although the first formal meeting is not scheduled to take place until Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Jacobson urged all students interested in Magazine work to visit his office on the second floor of Graham Memorial on any afternoon.

UNC Unable To Hire Janitors for Dorms

J. S. Bennett, supervisor of operations, announced today that occupants of dormitories, barracks, and the Tin Can must make their own beds and clean their room since the University is unable to hire sufficient janitors.

Cooperation is urged by the supervisor until such time as janitors can be employed, said Bennett.
