

Field Goal Attempt Missed by Gobblers

thrust back to their own 21-yard line. Justice's quick-kick, designed to surprise the Techmen, instead became a surprise to all Tar Heels as Oren Hopkins blocked the punt and, plucking it out of midair in almost the same motion, raced the remaining distance to score. Ross Orr converted.

The same play occurred in the final stanza, this time with linesmen John Maskas and Bob Taylor blocking and with the pigskin dropping into Maynard Bruce's outstretched hands. Bruce was almost brought down from the rear by the pursuing Justice but slid across the goal line. Orr again place-kicked the conversion to knot the score at 14-14.

Both Teams Threaten

The remaining few minutes provided the most exciting moments for the whole afternoon as both teams threatened to break the deadlock. Tailbacks Billy Britt and Maceyko provided the spark in a Tar Heel surge that carried to the Tech 25 before the Gobbler line stiffened. Then came the break that almost cost Carolina the ball game. Dick DeShazo quick-kicked for VPI and the wet pigskin slid out of safety-man Johnny Clements hands with Joe Hoffman recovering for Tech on Carolina's five-yard line. Then it was the Tar Heels' turn to hold and the game ended after Orr tried a field goal from the 21-yard line.

Justice, Maceyko, Walt Pupa and Camp led the Tar Heels on offense with Chan Highsmith and Ralph Strayhorn the standouts on defense.

Deacs Top Eagles In Friday Battle

tion ended the game. Deacons Trip Eagles Sparked by its crack halfback, John "Red" Cochran, Wake Forest scrapped their way to a 12-6 win over a sluggish Boston College eleven in a Friday night contest at Boston.

After narrowly foiling Boston's first two touchdown threats, Wake Forest shifted into their offense when Cochran ran the ball from the Deacon 2 to the Boston 12-yard line. A previous Eagle fumble had enabled Wake Forest fullback Brinkley to score early in the first quarter.

Coaches' Comment

Carl Snavely: "We didn't do well in the second half. I wasn't too surprised. I was uneasy the minute we failed to capitalize on our breaks in the first half."

"It was a nice ball game for a while, but the second half was very disheartening. It was bad."

"A hard-fighting VPI team out-conditioned us and that conditioning paid off in the second half."

Jimmy Kitts: "I'm proud of the fight my boys made. They made lots of mistakes and played sloppy ball, but it was a damned good second half. "Carolina has a good team, but they made lots of mistakes too and played some bad ball. They should have a good season."

Late Bulletin

The Cardinals were on their way to matching the Dodgers' afternoon win last night, leading the Cubs, 4-1, in the eighth inning.

VPI Defense, Weather Bring Headache to Tar Heel Fans

Game Opens Under Clear Skies, But Deluge Dampens Planned Intermission Ceremonies

By Jim Pharr

Old man weatherman and an alert band of Virginia Tech defensive men combined to cause the Tar Heels to call for the Bromo, as a shirt-sleeved crowd sat in Kenan stadium stands in Indian summer weather yesterday afternoon to watch the brawl that managed to bewilder Carolina supporters by winding up in a 14-14 deadlock.

The wall of green surrounding Kenan stadium provided a colorful setting at game time, with fairly clear skies and all the trimmings to provide good football. By halftime, a steady downpour of rain made John Q. Fan wish he were home by his radio, and the coeds and their dates lost the press in their new football clothes.

Some 12,000 bobby-soxers, including seven high school bands provided a novel angle to the contest. Greensboro, Henderson, Raleigh, New Bern, Kinston, Sanford and Rocky Mount musicians braved Jupiter Pluvius during the intermission to give the drenched crowd a little music and they managed to put on a pretty good show, in their contrasting colors of red, blue, yellow, and gray.

Rameses looked pretty sharp as he strutted up and down before the stands during the first part of the game, but by the fourth quarter even his horns began to droop a little from the rain and a couple of blocked punts.

Little Charlie Justice started out by sprinting to the three in the opening stanza of the game and the fans settled back, figuring that "It's true what they say about 'Choo-Choo'."

Carolina's ten cheerleaders really started to whoop it up when the little Asheville tailback slashed off right tackle and trucked it on down for a 68 yard TD.

Then came the second half, the deluge, and an aroused bunch of VPI footballers trotted on to the field and proceeded to erase that two touchdown advantage. An alert Mr. Hopkins slipped through the defense, tipped Justice's quick kick and poured it on for paydirt before the fans could draw a long sigh.

Tech supporters got a little more pep when Bruce picked up another blocked punt for the Gobblers. Ross Orr then converted and things were locked up tighter than a women's dorm in the wee hours.

The fans settled back in their seats, with the skies beginning to clear, and wondered how much more could happen in that crazy second half. It would have to be quick, because the relentless hour hand was running out.

After a little more jockeying around, those opportunity-grabbing Techs set up a field goal attempt that brought the crowd up again. With this final try failing, a couple more plays wound things up and the first 1946 gridiron battle for the Tar Heels became one for the books.

Dodgers, Cards Enter Final Day of Season With Flag at Stake

The Dodgers and Cardinals entered the final day of the season today with the National League flag race still in doubt.

The battling Brooks took a half-game lead yesterday afternoon by trimming the Boston Braves, 7-4, with Lefty Joe Hatten hurling a five-hitter to best 20-game winner Johnny Sain. No score was available on the Cardinal-Cub night contest at press time.

Today's probable starting pitchers: Lombardi, Dodgers vs. Cooper, Braves vs. Brazle, Cardinals vs. Wyse, Cubs.

MY SHOPPING LIST IS OUT OF THIS WORLD!

- 1 A nice little house or comfortable apartment.
- 2 A new car.
- 3 A dozen assorted Arrow shirts.

All these items are scarce today—so great is the demand—and it would be harder to buy a dozen Arrows than a house or a car. Drop around VARSITY regularly. Perhaps a shipment of shirts, slacks, or other men's wearing apparel has arrived. Some merchandise arrives each day. It may be just what you want.
