 gression... This attachment of the States of the Arab League to the United Nations needs no argument in support of it. In a world still ruled by power politics there is no hope for the Arabs or for any other people, large or small, except within a sound international organization in which the Arabs and other people can work for a better life. Thus, we look to the United Nations for justice and equity, and we pin our faith and find our salvation in its Charter.

For Integrity
 He emphasized that the Arab states "are for the independence and territorial integrity of each state whether or not it is a member of the United Nations. It is a principle from which we ardently hope we shall never stray. We are also for the freedom of nations to determine their life and destiny."

Mr. Tomch declared that the importance of the Middle East as the crossroads between the various parts of the world and the role of the Arab states in determining the peace of the world "is becoming more and more obvious. And the significance of the part to be played in the United Nations by the six Middle Eastern Arab states which are its members has been correspondingly increased," he said.

Veterans Co-op Hold Meeting Tuesday Night

At 8 o'clock Tuesday evening the veterans co-op will hold a general meeting in the medical building auditorium. Two members will be elected to fill the existing vacancies on the board of directors, and information regarding the patronage dividend will be announced.

Bull's Head Book Shop May Be Described As 'Intimate Nook for Browsing', Says Writer

By Raney Stanford
 "An intimate nook for browsing" is the descriptive phrase that has been applied to the Bull's Head book shop down through the years since its origination in 1928, and its tradition of service to the members of the University community is flourishing quietly today.

Breaking down this service rendered into things that are done for you, you, and you, Mrs. Charles Valentine, Jr., manager of the shop, explains how it becomes very personal indeed.

Buy Many
 "Many of our books are bought with special people in mind. I'll be looking through an order list and I'll see something that I know John will like, or something, Sue is interested in, so we'll order it."

People don't forget things like that. Mrs. Valentine hears from many of the shops habitués after they leave school, and many drop in again whenever they get the chance.

Housing Office Ends Last September List Of Room Applicants

All students who entered the University in September, 1947, and who made a dormitory deposit at that time have room accommodations arranged for them, according to an announcement released today by J. E. Wadsworth, housing director.

Wadsworth warns, though, that these men with dormitory space priority at present must contact the housing office, 207 South building, by tomorrow and pick up their room keys. Otherwise, after tomorrow their room deposits will be refunded and their names taken off the waiting list so that other students who came to the University in January may be assigned rooms as soon as possible.

The following men are again urged to contact the housing office immediately in case they have not yet done so by press time: Baddour, Robert A.; Barnes, Francis N.; Burgess, Robert L.; Carter, Leonard C.; Caudle, Richard H.; Constable, John; Crow, Kenneth M.; Ellis, James E.; Graham, Jack B.; Harper, James B. Jr.; Herring, Bobby J.; Hicks, Jesse R.; Ingram, John H. Jr.; Irby, Edward C.; Kirby, Wallace H.; Leinbach, William S.; Lounsbury, Tracy M.; Lowenstein, Al; McCullers, Hal A.; MacRae, Charles B. There is a book to suit almost every taste in this little corner of the library building; all the best-sellers are here and also things that a graduate English student would be pleasantly surprised to find.

"We keep all the Thorne Smith, S. J. Perelman, and things that everybody likes; but also many out-of-the-way books, things not ordinarily seen in the everyday commercial shop," says Mrs. Valentine.

One of Them
 The Bull's Head, one of the few college shops of its kind in the nation, is able to keep a stock of around 3000 volumes on hand through its unique system of sale and rental. All the books are for sale, and almost all of them are also for rent. The reader rents one at 10 cents for four days, and each time it is rented 10 cents is removed from the retail price until the book reaches a minimum sale value of 25 cents.

Nineteen Veterans Still Unregistered

Nineteen veterans, all in training under Public Law 16, are not officially registered in training at the University. These men, as follows, must report at once to Elliott G. Bourne, VA training officer, in 111 Peabody hall: Abernethy, Henry G.; Barham, Jesse L.; Blalock, William B.; Doddo, James Andre; Grosner, Alan L.; Guillebeau, Joseph E. Jr.; Hargett, Phillip G.; Loman, Thomas E.; Long, Peter L.; Lowe, Thomas M.; McCoy, Mercer G.; Phillips, Allen C.; Powell, Edward M., Jr.; Pridgen, Carl A.; Roycroft, Chester; Springs, Samuel M. Jr.; Weatherpoon, Joe C.; Wilkes, James R.; Woodard, Walker W.

Baptist Church Reopens All-Day Nursery School

Last Thursday a full-day, non-profit nursery school was opened by the Baptist Church for the benefit of students and other residents requiring such services.

The nursery, now directed by Miss Lucy Horne, a college graduate, will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Lunches will be served to the children.

Miss Horne may be called at 9741 for interview and enrollment.

helps prevent our being stuck with a book if the demand for it suddenly falls away. After a few rentals a book almost pays for itself.

Attached to the University library extension under the supervision of Nellie Roberson, the non-profit book nook has been in its present location on the ground floor of the library, since 1935. One of the functions of its parent, the extension library, is to send out material, on request from various parts of the state, and many of the volumes requested come from the shelves of the Bull's Head. As Mrs. Valentine puts it:

"So any of the people out there that want to can read about John Steinbeck's bus." In downright "browsability" the shop lives up to its reputation. As a matter of fact, Mrs. Valentine is afraid the comfortable over-stuffed furniture appeals to many besides the bibliophile; people who seem to have their browsing mixed up with drowsing.

Union Needs Students For Volunteer Work

Everyone interested in volunteer work with Graham Memorial is asked to meet this afternoon in the Roland Parker lounge No. one, of the student union, at 5 o'clock. Chuck Hilty, assistant director of the union, announced that positions are open for student assistance in the departments of entertainment, dancing, music, and recreation.

"We have innumerable activities planned for the year, and this is a good chance for people to get into interesting work," said Hilty. "Graham Memorial work will enable them to make contacts and get good experience in the extra-curricular field."

A teaspoon in the toe of each nylon or silk stocking will keep them from wrapping around the clothesline.

terday in conference with President Graham, said that the commission was empowered by the U. N. Security council to use any means to resolve peacefully the dispute between the neophyte Indonesian Republic and the Netherlands. "They may investigate, mediate, or arbitrate," he said.

Describing the U. N.'s action on Indonesia as the only recent situation which found the U. S. and Russia in agreement, Scott emphasized Dr. Graham's responsibilities as "highly important in setting a pattern for settlement of disputes under U. N." He said that two months would probably be required for the commission to complete its work.

Scott, an official in the Division of International Security Affairs of the State Department, was sent to Chapel Hill to brief Dr. Graham on past developments in the Indonesian crisis and to convey state papers to the new delegate.

Dr. Graham, named by President Truman under the United Nations Participation act of 1945, is subject to confirmation by the U. S. Senate if Congress meets before the commission's work is completed. However, no session is expected.

Ed Joyner Will Serve as New DTH News Editor, Chuck Hauser Named Campus Editor for Paper

In conformity with an election campaign promise of Editor Barron Mills, the Daily Tar Heel news staff has been completely analyzed and re-distributed in order to insure students of complete coverage of campus news.

Following a meeting of old and new staff members Sunday, Managing Editor Earl Heffner announced several promotions and a number of new assignments.

Promoted to the position of news editor was Ed Joyner, former telegraph editor of the Wilson Times, who last year served on the Daily Tar Heel as a reporter and night editor.

Reporter Chuck Hauser also was promoted to the position of campus editor, a post analogous to city editor of a city newspaper. He will review all political copy as this newspaper seeks to employ nonpartisan coverage of campus political news. Hauser last year served as a reporter and night editor, also worked as a desk editor at times.

Both Joyner and Hauser will continue to serve as night editors. Other night editors and reporters will be Bill Sexton and Charlie Gibson. Both men served in these capacities last year. This year they have been assigned to larger news sources in recognition of the reportorial excellence.

Marine Reserves

Persons desiring to join the Marine Corps reserve may do so by contacting 2nd Lt. Morris N. Jenkins, USMCR, at room one Brockwell building (across the street from the Carolina Theatre) or calling 3066, it was announced today.

Lt. Jenkins pointed out that in most cases, rank equivalent to that held at time of discharge will be returned, and in all cases opportunity will be given for advancement in rank. All that will be needed, said Lt. Jenkins, is a copy of discharge papers.
