

WEATHER
Cloudy and continued cool with occasional showers.

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS

Politics
The Press
Wallace

VOLUME LVI

United Press

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., TUESDAY, MARCH 2, 1948

Phone F-3371-F-3361

NUMBER 114

Charlie Gibson To Run For Tarnation Editor On Campus Party Slate

Daniels To Speak Tonight On Democratic Liberalism

By Jack Brown

Jonathan Daniels, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, will address University students on "Liberalism in the Democratic Party—Is the Democratic Party Liberal?" tonight in Hill hall at 8 o'clock.

JONATHAN DANIELS

Davis Announces Playmaker Cast

The members of the cast of "Call Back Yesterday," the fourth major production of the Carolina Playmakers thirtieth season, were announced late yesterday by Harry E. Davis, director of the play. "Call Back Yesterday" is a new play by graduate student Gene McLain, and will be presented March 10, 11, 12, and 13.

The leading role of "Judge Ralph Gentry" will be played by Gordon R. Bennett, who appeared in last summer's presentation of "Outward Bound." Mary Jo Cain, who last appeared with the Laboratory Theatre, will play the role of "Alice Gentry."

Porter Van Zandt will play politician "Tom O'Malley," and Sidney Shertzer will appear as political henchman "Tad Finton." George Upchurch will act "Richards," while Eleanor Ringer will play "Mrs. Cooper," and Mac Shaw will be seen as "Cooper."

James Geiger will have his 27th role, this time as "John Kenston," Ralph's father-in-law, and Majorie Cameron is to portray "Jerry Dutra." The role of "Merideth Gentry" will be handled by Erle Hall, and Claude "Slat" Rayborn will act "Carl Nicholby."

"Miss Parker" will be played by Hilda Frances Lawrence, Edsel Hughes will be the radio announcer, and Harry Thomas and Robert Eberle are the two workmen on the dike.

James Riley is designing the experimental style setting, and William Ayres will serve as master electrician.

Williams Hits Truman

Washington, March 1—(UP)—A demand for President Truman to remove himself as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination was voiced openly on Capitol Hill for the first time today.

It was made in the House by Representative John Bell Williams, a Mississippi Democrat and one of the leaders of the Southern Democratic revolt against Mr. Truman's Civil Rights program.

Williams told the house that the President should bow, in his hands, "with the hope that our party still can be salvaged." The President's Civil Rights program, he added, has removed any chances the Democrats had of winning in November.

On the other hand, another Southern Democrat, Senator Lister Hill of Alabama, pledged his

A question-and-answer period will follow the address, and admittance to the meeting is open to all students of the University, regardless of their political affiliations.

Daniels, son of the late Joseph Daniels who was Secretary of the Navy under President Woodrow Wilson, will speak with the qualifications of one who has been a Washington reporter, an administration troubleshooter, a Presidential press secretary, and later a reporter and private citizen.

Tar Heel Editor

A graduate of the University, Daniels completed his undergraduate work in three years and remained another year to earn his master's degree. In 1921-22 he was editor of the Tar Heel.

For his book "A Southerner Discovers the South," Daniels was awarded the Mayflower cup for the North Carolina book of the year in 1938. His most recent book, "Frontiers on the Potomac," is a view and review of the American political scene.

Daniels' address tonight will be the first in a series of such programs sponsored by the recently-organized student Young Democrats club, according to Lester G. Carter, president of the organization.

The purpose of the programs is to cover the policies of the Democratic party in state, national, and international affairs.

Council Delegates Determined Today

Delegates for the Executive council meeting of the State Student Legislature will be chosen this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Roland Parker lounge No. 1.

The seven delegates will be selected by the presidents or official representatives of all campus organizations, and it is strongly urged that all campus groups such as the Di, IRC, CPU, and also YMCA, YWCA and others participate in this meeting since the responsibility of this school's representation in the State Student Legislature lies with them.

The Executive council meeting will take place in the Senate chamber of the State capitol in Raleigh and at that time, plans will be made for the April meeting of the Student Legislature in the capitol city. Delegates from all the colleges and universities in the State will be present.

First Mag Since Its 'Death' Vote Scheduled To Hit Campus Today

The first issue of the Carolina Magazine to hit the campus since the announced death given the publication by a student body referendum is scheduled for today. Yes, the magazine is still very much alive—and literary.

Word came yesterday from Managing Editor Charlie Gibson that this first of the four final issues of the monthly magazine is one which has the accent on fiction. The February issue carries four fiction stories by student writers.

"Dark Incident," a short story by journalism senior Clarke Stallworth is the highlight of the magazine's story material. A description of a lynching, the story has a full-page illustration by Dick Preyer.

Two short stories, "The Big Clock" by Julia Ross, which concerns a child's confusion regarding death, and "Alone" by Dorothy Dashiell Smith, which has a campus locale, are contributions from women student authors. Illustrations for the Ross story is done by Lucie Baxter.

The story of a hypocritical snake-pastor, Donald F. MacDonald's "The Way of the Serpent" tells what happens when a cuddler loses the faith and attempts to regain it. The story was written in Professor Phillips Russell's creative writing class this quarter. The illustration of panting, ecstatic snake worshippers is done by artist Bill Harrison.

The highlight of the feature this month is the photographic story, "Salute to the Basketball Substitute," with pics by Wilson Yarborough, Jr. It's the story and pictures of a White Phantom bench-warmer who wants to get on the hardwood. One of the pictures, in silver and maroon, occupies the cover seat in this issue.

"What Is So Radical?" by Henry Adams discusses the reputation which Chapel Hill has acquired as a hotbed of radicalism. The text is sparked by cartoons from Bill Harrison.

Other features which help to round out a very full issue, are: Mag Man of the Month picturing Sam Selden, as photographed verbally by Doris Weaver; the Carolina Parade, written by R. Foo Giduz and others, returning in this issue; one full page of poems by students Frank Groselose, John Zucker, Tom Wood, Bob Sain and Wyatt Hilsabeck; and cartoons for "Inside UNC" by H. K. Privette.

Wallace Assembly Completes Plans; States Purposes

The Tar Heel Students for Wallace assembly adjourned here Sunday after organizing a North Carolina Wallace organization and drawing up a statement of purposes.

In the statement of purposes issued by the assembly, the Wallaceites declared themselves in favor of world peace, anti-inflation measures, abolition of the House un-American Activities committee, civil rights for Negroes and other minority groups, and opposed the extension of segregated schools.

The North Carolina Students for Wallace organization will be headed by a state executive board comprised of one delegate from each Wallace club and elected state officials.

Local Wallaceite Bob Lewis was elected chairman of the executive board at the final session Sunday and Sylvester Thorpe, North Carolina college, was chosen as executive secretary-treasurer. Bill Richardson, president of the local Wallace club, was appointed as University delegate to the board.

Representatives from other colleges elected to head the state organization are Al Meltzer, Duke; Thomas MacPhator, Johnson C. Smith University; George Poggioli, Guilford college; Warren Jarvis, East Carolina Teachers; William Thomas, North Carolina college; Juanita Boomer, A and T; Henri Huse, State; James Johnson, Shaw; and Larry Dubovik, Black Mountain college.

Invitation Committee To Maintain 'Y' Booth

The Order of the Grail Invitation committee will maintain a booth in the "Y" building until Thursday of this week.

Thursday, March 4, will be the last day graduating seniors may order invitations for the graduation exercises in June. There is no cash transaction at this time. Payment will be made when the invitations are delivered in May.

The ring committee announced that there would be a registration book in the "Y" office. Those students wishing to order class rings are asked to sign the book so that the committee can contact them for the sale.

The ring chairman is Bob Kirkland of the Zeta Psi Fraternity.

Mag Managing Editor Serves On Staffs of Tarnation, DTH

Charlie Gibson, a versatile hand in University publications, is the Campus party candidate for editor of next year's Tarnation, campus humor magazine, CP spokesman announced yesterday.

CHARLIE GIBSON

Gibson, who is serving on three of the four publications here, is a rising junior from Winston-Salem. He is at present serving as a feature writer for Tarnation while holding editorial positions on the staffs of the Daily Tar Heel and the Carolina Magazine.

The 21-year-old humorist transferred here from Vanderbilt university in January, 1947, after spending 22 months in the AAF. He is doing reporting and feature writing for the DTH and is now serving his second year as a night editor.

Work on Both Mags

During the past year he has been associated with both of the magazines here, serving as associate and now as managing editor of the Carolina Mag.

His light profiles in Tarnation and the Mag have ranged from R. Foo Giduz to Ed Lanier. His most recent work for the Mag was "Of Cabbages and Queens," a tongue-in-cheek survey of the Woman's college which was banned in Greensboro.

In announcing Gibson's nomination, chairman Bob Haire of the Campus party stated, "We are fortunate to be able to include on our slate the one candidate who stands head and shoulders above all other aspirants for this post."

"Most Qualified"

Pete Gerns, present business manager of Tarnation, endorsed Gibson, following the announcement of his candidacy yesterday. Gerns said, "I believe Charlie Gibson to be the best qualified candidate for Tarnation editor. I have found him to be the man who can and will make our Tarnation the best humor magazine this campus has ever seen. He has the ability to write, knows how to handle the layout of a publication, and can get along with a staff of sometimes temperamental writers and the businesslike owners of a printshop. He will manage without having to depend on others for the execution of duties."

Gibson is a member of the Dialectic Senate, the Air ROTC, and Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Stevens, Long, Place Third in Debates; University of Texas Wins First Honors

Navy Announces Uniform Change

The announcement may be premature, but official notice that spring is here was posted yesterday when the following order of the day appeared on the Y bulletin board:

Headquarters
6969 AAFBU
Chapel Hill, N. C.
1. March, 1948

General Order)
No. 521)

Subject: Change of Uniform
To : All Enlisted Personnel

(1) Effective 1 March 1948, due to the favorable weather change, optional Class A uniform for all duty personnel will be khaki, cotton.

(2) Off post and after 1800 hours on post, khaki ties, as per Q.M.C. issue, will be worn.

(3) All personnel are ordered to comply with this command and any infraction will result in disciplinary action in accordance with par 9 or 615-40.

By order of Colonel Foster:
D. Byron Barnes
Capt. MAC, AUS
Asst. Commandant of Troops

Copies of order will be furnished the fol.

2 copies—TAG Attn: "SPXPO-R"

2 copies—CG HQ APFPDC

1 copy—CG AAF

After issuing the order "Colonel" Paul Foster and "Captain" Don Barnes, whose headquarters are in rooms 27, 28 Old West dorm, commented "We're just looking out for the enlisted boys."

They figured the one winter suit which a veteran might be able to afford on $65 a month must be getting pretty threadbare by now.

Debaters, Coaches Declare Tournament "Greatest of Year"

By Dan Wallace

Coed Merle Stevens and Charles Long, UNC affirmative team, placed third in the division of mixed teams at the Glendy Burke Centennial Forensic tournament last week held at Tulane university in New Orleans. First honors of the meet went to the University of Texas.

Earl Fitzgerald, manager of the UNC delegation, reported that the other debaters were good but did not meet with the success of Stevens and Long.

"Greatest of Year"

Debaters and coaches who had participated in other meets declared that this tournament was the greatest of the year. They held that the competition was the toughest experienced in any meet.

Coming in behind the University of Texas to take second place in the men's division was S. M. U. Among the schools present were the University of Wichita, Agnes Scott, University of Utah, Emory U., University of Mississippi, and the University of Toronto, Canada.

Return Debates

The Debate council is now completing plans for return debates with Wake Forest, Duke, and Davidson, and arrangements are being made to attend the National Forensic tournament to be held at Fredericksburg, Virginia, this month. The various categories in which UNC representatives may compete are: Oratorical and extemporaneous speaking, dramatic reading, after-dinner speaking, and debating. The competition in this tournament is expected to be very strong.

Top Money Earner Is Ginger Rogers

Only one woman appears on the Treasury department's list of the top ten wage earners. She is Ginger Rogers, blonde dancer and actress, who comes from President Truman's home town Independence, Missouri. Among the first ten, she took the leading money lady role away from shapely Betty Grable, whose $280,000 topped Hollywood stars on a similar list last August. This new list includes money earned in 1945 and 1946.

However, it is not actually a true index of total wealth because it does not include money earned from investments. Deanna Durbin was runner-up to Ginger among the Hollywood folk. Her work before the cameras earned the songbird almost $263,000.

Newman Will Present Concert in Hill Hall

Dr. William S. Newman, pianist and assistant professor of music, will present a concert in Hill hall at 8:30 Thursday evening.

His program will include thirteen keyboard sonatas of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries.

Dr. Newman has appeared in recital here frequently since the beginning of 1946, and he has always been well received.

UP MEETING

There will be an important meeting of the University party steering committee this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Horace Williams lounge. Nominations for Men's council, Women's council and Student council will be considered.

UVA Open House Cancelled Tonight

The University Veterans association will not hold its regular open house tonight.

Because of the CICA fashion show, UVA President Johnny Clappitt said yesterday that the party has been postponed until Thursday night at 8:30.

At that time, the Town Girls association and Archer house will be co-guests of the association. Betsy Ann Barbee, president of the Town Girls, said the group is expected to be present in force.

A. B. Coleman is in charge of entertainment for the open house and a musical program is tentatively planned.

The UVA Board of Governors will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock. Clappitt announced. There will be a general business meeting of the association next Monday night at 8 o'clock at the clubhouse behind Lenoir hall.

INNOCENT ABROAD

When a visiting motorist was involved in an accident here, he said he was innocent—Innocent A. Marva of Bound Brook, N. J.

BEHIND THE BARS in Orange county jail at Newburgh, N. Y., are news editor Douglas V. Clarke (left) and reporter Charles L. Leonard after they had been jailed for refusing to reveal their sources of information for gambling stories in the Newburgh News. Supreme Court Justice Gordon Flannery fined them $100 each and sentenced them to serve 10 days in jail on charges of contempt of court. (International)

Gentlemen to Get Added Attraction

Additional incentive has been added for Carolina gentlemen to attend the CICA Spring Fashion show, as if 68 complete outfits, Bussy Woodbury's commentaries and a string quartet for background music wasn't enough.

If you're one of the lucky five, you might also end up dating any of the models you select with all expenses paid for by CICA. The master plan will work like this: as they enter, all men will write their names on slips of paper. At the end of the show, five names will be drawn. The five men whose names are drawn can then take their choice of models, select an evening, and prepare to start out with dinner at the Carolina Inn with no worries about the check.

Subsistence Raise Begins on April 1

Veterans attending school under the GI Bill and the Vocational Rehabilitation act will get higher subsistence allowances effective April 1. Students will receive their first checks at the higher rate during the month of May.

The new rate for veterans without dependents will be $75 per month, veterans with one dependent $105 per month, and veterans with more than one dependent will receive $120 per month.

Excluded from the increased benefits, but entitled to subsistence allowances computed on the old basis of $65 and $90 a month are veterans who come within the following categories:

- (1) Those taking part-time institutional training.
- (2) Combination or co-operative training (in which students attend school part-time and are employed part-time, usually in a related field).
- (3) Internship and residency training.
- (4) Graduate training under a fellowship requiring a reduced credit course load because of services rendered under provisions of the fellowship.

Veterans without dependents, and veterans with a single dependent will not have to make application to VA to qualify for increases.

VA said that in the case of dependent children it will be necessary for students to submit certified copies or photostats of birth certificates. In the case of dependent parents, the student must supply evidence of actual dependency by making out an affidavit. Veterans are requested to file their dependency statements before April in order to insure efficient service.

Court Dismisses Segregation Case

Richmond, Va., March 1 (UP)—The Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals today dismissed a bus segregation case against a Negro woman convicted in Fairfax county on a disorderly conduct charge.

The appellant, Mrs. Lottie E. Taylor, was traveling from Washington to Madison county, Virginia, on September 12, 1946.

Evidence disclosed that the driver of the bus asked the woman to change seats before the bus left Washington. He pointed out segregation rules that would make it necessary for her to move when she reached the Virginia line. She refused to comply.

The passenger was removed from the bus at the Fairfax county courthouse, arrested for disorderly conduct and convicted.

However, the unanimous opinion of the high court reverses the conviction of the circuit court. The driver's request that the defendant change her seat was based on a rule of the carrier and not on any provision of law, the opinion says. Her refusal to comply constitutes "at most" a breach of the rules and regulations of the carrier.

Common carriers do not have the power to provide that a violation of their rules constitutes an offense punishable by fine or imprisonment, the opinion adds.