Tarnation Staffers Give Nod To Kerr In Editorship Race

Members of the Tarnation staff, Carolina humor magazine, yesterday endorsed Tom Kerr, CP-SP candidate for the magazine's editorship in the spring elections.

Thirteen members of the staff signed a petition supporting Kerr, currently managing editor. In their petition, they stated:

"We the undersigned, having worked in many various capacities on Tarnation over the past two years with Tom Kerr as managing editor, do hereby enthusiastically endorse his nomination for the editorship of Tarnation for the coming school year; and on the basis of his sound, skillful, faithful and efficient management, we do pledge our full support, not only to his campaign, but also to his production of an ever-better Tarnation in the happy event of his election."

Headed by Tom Wharton and Bob Smith, current co-editors of the humor magazine, the petition included, A. Frank Moore, Jack Taylor, Bert Hawley, Bill Bostic, James A. Mills, Dick Stoker, Ted Duval, Bob Sturdivant, Jack Niles, Bunnie Davis and Steve Horn.

Bob Smith, co-editor, in releasing the staff endorsement, said, "Tom has been the mainstay of the magazine as long as I can remember. He knows everything there is to know about the technical end of magazine production. By this, I mean financial intricacies as well as layout and printing."

"He has worked industriously and faithfully for two years and has been hand in hand with professional shops working with us. For this reason, we of Tarnation feel that he is the only man on the campus who merits consideration for the job of editor next year."

Kerr is running against Charlie Burns and Lem Whittsett, UP-endorsed candidates for co-editorship of the magazine.

Girls Offer Aid To Fire Victims

FARMVILLE, Va., March 7.—(UP)—Girl students at the State Teachers college here today shared clothes and beds with 70 freshmen girls who lost everything but their lives in a disastrous dormitory fire early yesterday.

The pajama-clad girls fled to the lawn shortly after dawn, when great tongues of flame burst through the upper windows and roof of the building. Occupants of the top floor had moved out earlier, when fumes from an unknown source were noted there.

Farmville's fire department got to the campus in short order, and firemen said the girls were excited, but not panicky, as they streamed out of the building.

Many had their hair in curlers, and were choking in the heavy smoke.

The building burned out and the walls collapsed, but firemen summoned from several nearby towns including Lynchburg prevented the flames from heavily damaging the college chapel and main building. Only a charred white column and part of a wall were left of the dormitory-auditorium.

Dr. Dabney S. Lancaster, president of the college, said the building was covered by between $80,000 and $90,000 in insurance. He billeted the girls on their classmates yesterday, and said none would be hampered in her schoolwork because of the loss of books and clothes. Loss was set at $400,000, the building was 43 years old.

Rites Are Set For Broughton In Afternoon

Nation Mourns Senator's Death

RALEIGH, March 7.—(UP)—The body of J. Melville Broughton came home for the last time at 7:10 o'clock this morning.

The 60-year-old North Carolina Senator and former Governor died suddenly of a heart attack yesterday, only three months after he reached his life-long goal.

Dr. Frank P. Graham said today that "in the death of Sen. J. Melville Broughton North Carolina has lost one of her most beloved citizens and nobly useful leaders."

"America has lost a leader on the very threshold of high promise and dedication to his country at a critical time. In the threefold University, we have a deep sense of personal loss. The University mourns with his family and his state."

of election to the United States senate. Today he was to have made his first speech on the senate floor, in the Southern filibuster fight.

Instead he was coming home to the city where he headed North Carolina's government through four critical war years and maintained his law offices for more than a quarter of a century.

Broughton's body was to lie in state today, and funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Tabernacle Baptist church, where he taught Sunday school before going to Washington. Burial will be in Montlawn Memorial Park.

Orchestra Leader

Schinhan Had It Tough With Talk

By W. P. Covington III

"The Beggar's Opera," which plays Thursday and Friday nights in Memorial hall, will feature a complete 18 piece orchestra under the baton of Dr. Jan P. Schinhan.

Born in Vienna, Dr. Schinhan has behind him many years of professional conducting of operas. As conductor with the famous German Opera company, he came to America just prior to World War I. With the outbreak of the war, Dr. Schinhan found himself stranded in a strange land where he could neither speak nor understand the language. Because of the language barrier, he was unable to obtain several excellent professional conducting offers in New York.

Grads Must Pay Yearbook Charge

A charge of $1.50 will be levied upon all spring quarter graduates who wish to have copies of the Yackety Yack, it was announced today by Ted Fussell, business manager of the yearbook.

All seniors who will graduate this month and will not be in Chapel Hill during the spring quarter have been asked to contact the Yack office before Friday between 2 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Explaining the $1.50 fee, Fussell said that the money would cover the regular student fee for the spring quarter. He said that an additional 50 cents will be charged if students wish to have the yearbook mailed.

Fussell warned against waiting until the summer to request that a Yack be mailed: "Mail requests for Yacks may not be answered until next fall since staff personnel may not be here this summer. Therefore, it is imperative that all March graduates come by the office this week to make necessary arrangements," he explained.

Yesterday's meeting of the Student council was the second meeting called to discuss the constitutionality of compulsory coed mass meetings. Emily Baker,

Student Assembly Voted Unfavorable

A recommendation for a Greater University day to be held at the University next fall on the day of the State football game, was discussed at the meeting of the Greater University Student council at the Woman's college in Greensboro Sunday afternoon. Martha Fowler, chairman of the council, presided over the meeting.

The proposal to have the council sponsor the state student legislature was brought out of committee with an unfavorable report.

A measure designed to obtain more quality points for seniors carrying extra-curricular activities received a favorable vote and was referred to a special committee.

An earlier proposal that copies of the constitution be drawn up in longhand, on parchment, signed by the charter members of the council and copies presented to the libraries of each school, received a favorable vote by the council.

Candidate Is Present IRC President, Will Also Run for Legislature Post

John Sanders, rising senior from Four Oaks, will seek the office of secretary-treasurer of the student body on the Student party slate, it was announced yesterday.

Sanders' nomination completes the three-party slates for the top slots in the executive branch of student government. The line-up is as follows: SP—Mackie, Horton, Sanders for president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer respectively. UP—Gordon, Leonard and Williams. CP—Long, Talley and Williams (doubly endorsed with the UP).

A transfer from State, Sanders entered school here in the fall of 1947. He is president of the International Relations club, a member of the Dialectic senate, the Students for Democratic Action and has served since January as the IRC's representative on the Carolina forum.

In addition to holding the spot on the SP ticket for secretary-treasurer of the student body, Sanders will appear on the ballot for member of the Student legislature on the SP ticket from men's dorm district two.

Don Shropshire yesterday made the following statement on Sanders' nomination:

"The announcement by the Student party that John Sanders will be their nominee for the post of secretary-treasurer is an appropriate recognition for a man who is one of the most improved men in student affairs on the campus today."

"Sanders has demonstrated his ability, efficiency and willingness to put devotion to the task at hand ahead of his own personal desires in a variety of positions in which he has been of service. There is no doubt that this same rare conviction will enable him to make the job he seeks one of the really vital parts of a student government which needs more men like him."
