SP Backs Lowenstein For Vice-President

Claybrook Triply Nominated For Yackety Yack Editorship

Candidate Is Director Of Fraternity Section

Bill Claybrook, rising senior from Reidsville, will run for the editorship of the Yackety Yack in the spring general elections as a triply-endorsed, SP-CP-UP, candidate, spokesman of the three parties announced yesterday.

Bill Duncan, outgoing editor of the yearbook, in announcing the nomination for the University party, said, "Claybrook was the most efficient editor of any section in the Yack this year."

"He always had his work done on time and with complete thoroughness. I believe that he will be able to do the entire book in the same manner that he has done the fraternity section this year."

Claybrook has worked on the Yack staff for two years. His first year was spent in general layout and organization work. This year he was editor of the fraternity section.

A commerce major, Claybrook is a member of the Order of the Shieks and the Air ROTC in which he serves as a cadet captain. In high school he was business manager of the school's paper.

He is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

ARC Drive Nets $2,522 Of City Goal All Contributions Not Yet Reported

Over $2,522 of the Chapel Hill $5,642 Red Cross quota for this year has already been collected, Mrs. R. M. Grumman, Red Cross voluntary services chairman, said yesterday.

Although only about half of the reports have been turned in, indications are that the full quota will be reached in the next week, the chairman said. The drive is scheduled to run through this month, but Mrs. Grumman expressed hope that it will close by March 15.

Business people have not reported, and only scattered reports from the campus have been turned in. Four sections in the residential districts have not reported, nor has the rural area made reports. Five out of the 24 sections in Colored town have turned in contributions, the chairman reported.

Most of the contributions from the residential sections have been made in the form of special gifts. Four of the residential sections have not made their reports, and only half of the 70 people listed on the special gift list have reported.

The Alpha Gamma Delta sorority, who were not listed on the books of the Red Cross, made a sizeable contribution, the chairman said. Campus solicitors, which include 59 students and 23 fraternity members, have not as yet reported.

Graduates Asked To Notify Laundry

Crime Never Pays

Trial Held For 1598 Crime
By Margaret Gaston
Confiscating the property of a deceased veteran did not pay off for Jonas Bodenham, an Englishman tried in a special Chancery court session in Saunders hall Monday.

The Englishman was on trial for an offence committed 350 years ago—and the decision reached by a jury of professors in the University English department was almost exactly the same as that handed down in the original trial in England in 1598.

'Opera' Opens Two-Day Run This Evening

Edwards, Smith Get Top Billing

When Barbara Edwards of Troy, and Irvine Noble Smith of Cortland, N. Y. make their first entrances at 8:30 tonight in the two-day run of "The Beggar's Opera" at Memorial hall, they will be performing two of the most sought after roles of the 18th and 19th centuries.

Miss Edwards is the newest actress to tread the boards as Polly Peachum, daughter of a thief-taker (Frederick Young) and his "chosen" wife (Catherine Covington). The role of Polly was originally played by Lavinia Fenton in London, 1728.

Miss Edwards, already well known for her lead role of Eleanor Dare in Paul Green's "Lost Colony" given yearly at Manteo, is also a well established singer. She has sung leading roles in nearly all of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas, "Cavellier Rusticana," "The Marriage of Figaro," and has acted in such plays as "Dark of the Moon," "Family Album," "An Enemy of the People," and "Egypt Lan."

Smith, at one time director of the Cortland Community Players, Cortland, N. Y., plays the famous role of Macheath, originally played by Thomas Walker.

He has appeared in lead roles for two seasons in the Lost Colony, first as Governor White and then as Sir Walter Raleigh. On campus he was stage manager for "Peer Gynt" and for "The Bartered Bride."

Catherine Covington and Frederick Young are cast in the comedy roles of Mr. and Mrs. Peachum. John Brinegar is playing Filch; and the role of the jailer and his daughter Lucy are being played by John Shearin and Lee Noll.

With a cast of well over 50 and a complete orchestra under the direction of Dr. Jan Schinhan and David Samples, the production will play at 8:30 tonight and tomorrow night only, the first production of the Beggar's Opera to play in Chapel Hill. Tickets, general admission and reserved, will be available at the doors of memorial hall as well as at The Carolina Sport shop, the Y lobby and Hill hall.

Duncan Elected To Speakership Of Phi Assembly

Bill "Bully" Duncan of Narberth, Pa., was elected speaker of the Philanthropic assembly in Phi hall Tuesday night.

As editor of the Yackety Yack Duncan turned in a complete year book for publication earlier than any of his predecessors. He is a member and past secretary of Kappa Sigma, and has served the Phi as speaker pro-tem. At the present time Duncan is vice-chairman of the University party.

The honor, a degree of bachelor of education and music was awarded to Chancellor House "because he has successfully cancelled the University . . . by and with the consent of the Daily Tar Heel."

The award was made at a dinner party at the Terrace View supper club on Saturday, at which Chancellor and Mrs. House were honored guests. Larry T. Queen, president of the Order of the Golden Bear, presided over the meeting.

John W. McReynolds, president of Polytechnic institute, made the award after delivering a speech in which he lauded the fine work of House in "chancelloring" the University in spite of all opposition.

Other awards made by the organization included a sweater to John E. Taylor and a cup to John W. McReynolds for their outstanding work in the organization during the past two years.

Was Candidate For Speaker On SP Ticket

Says Lowenstein Top Man for Job

By Charles McCorkle
Harry Horton, former Student party candidate for the vice-presidency of the student body, withdrew from the race yesterday because of his "dissatisfaction with student government in general and disgust with the legislature in particular."

Horton threw his support to Al Lowenstein, who was nominated unanimously by the Student party for the post yesterday.

"As a member of the Student legislature and as Student party floor leader," Horton charged, "I have seen poor legislation railroad through; I have seen legislators making deals to gain personal prestige; I have seen deals made to keep people in the legislature who had no interest in that body and the same people make deals to oust people who had legitimate excuses for absence."

Horton was apparently commenting on procedure of the Rules committee of the legislature in evaluating absence excuses of legislators.

The former candidate continued, "I have seen members of the executive branch bulldoze the legislature into passing certain legislation, and a short time later changing their minds and reversing things, thereby making a plaything of the legislature and turning it to their own uses."

Horton said he was convinced of the need for sweeping changes in the legislative set-up which would require more time and effort than he could give.

"The consolation, however," Horton said, "lies in knowing that Al Lowenstein, who will replace me on the Student party ticket, is a man of outstanding capabilities and one who has an outstanding desire to return the Student legislature and student government to their rightful place of efficiency and esteem on the campus."

"I will vigorously support Al in this campaign," Horton concluded, "because I am certain that if he is so privileged as to be elected to the office of vice-president, he will preside fairly and honestly over the legislature and conscientiously exert all his vast knowledge of student government to the best advantage in bringing about the much-needed changes and improvements in that body."

Nominee Helped Write First UNC Constitution

Al Lowenstein, present member of the Student legislature and one of the original writers of the student constitution, was nominated by acclamation by the Student party yesterday afternoon to run for the vice-presidency of the student body.

Deadline Set For Nominees By Chairman Names Must Be In by March 24

Nominations for candidates to run in the spring elections will be due on March 24, Al Winn, chairman of the campus elections board announced yesterday.

Party chairmen or campaign managers must turn in their lists of candidates to Winn by 6 o'clock at 8 Steele dorm. Coed nominations are to be turned in to Eleanor DeGrange at 110 Smith dorm.

A compulsory mass meeting of all candidates, party chairmen, and campaign managers will be held in Hill hall March 29 at 7 o'clock. Final rules and regulations for the election battle will be discussed at this time.

All candidates will be introduced to the campus at large on March 31 in Memorial hall at 7 o'clock. The major candidates, for top offices in student government and publications will make short talks on their campaigns.

All expense accounts from candidates will be turned in on April 4 by 6 o'clock. Coeds accounts should be given to Miss DeGrange and the men's accounts should be turned in to Winn in Steele.

General campus balloting for the various posts will be held on Tuesday, April 5. In the event of necessary runoffs, expense accounts from the runoff will be turned in on April 11 under the same conditions of those turned in for the first primary. The runoff election will be held April 12.

Radio Quiz Show Scheduled Today

Wanna be on a quiz show? There's one on schedule this afternoon at Swain hall at 4:45, complete with music, questions, master of ceremonies and a studio audience.

The show is the brain child of Tommy Thomas, radio major, who decided to do something different for his term project. In this age of musical quizzes, variety shows, and anything goes radio, Tommy decided that if the networks could do it, why not have one here on campus? Today is the big day, and students who appear at Swain hall about 4:45 can get on the show.

The program promises to be a dilly. Thomas and Dick Johnson will act as masters-of-ceremonies while Producer Frank Wooten keeps things running on schedule. Featured on the show will be the popular Town Talk Trio from Graham Memorial, the keyboard stylings of Hank Beebe-Bud Early piano-organ combination, and a musical quiz with the inevitable prizes, donated by the sponsors, Liggett and Myers tobacco company.

The show will be held in studio A and the doors will be opened to the public at 4:30. There will be no admission charge and seats will go on a first-come first-served basis.

The candidate was one of the outstanding members of the special committee which was formed in 1945 to write the constitution which the student body ratified in the spring of 1946 and under which campus government at the University now functions.

At the present time, Lowenstein is a member of the Elections committee of the legislature. He is serving his second term as a member of the assembly.

He served as a member of the Student council last year, and was a member of the special committee set up several years ago to set up the present block fee structure from which student government obtains its operating funds.

Lowenstein is opposing Ted Leonard and Banks Talley for the vice-president's job, the primary function of which is to sit as speaker of the legislature. Leonard is running on the University party ticket and Talley on the Campus party ticket.

An associate editor of the Daily Tar Heel, Lowenstein has been a University delegate to the State Student legislature three times, once serving as chairman of the UNC delegation. He has been the University delegate to the National Students association convention in Madison, Wis., and has been the Student party floor leader in the local legislature. He has also been a member of the Men's Glee club, and the Hill representative to the Council for Religion in Life.

Accepting the nomination yesterday, Lowenstein said, "I have always tried to do right and play square with all persons, in student government as elsewhere. If I win, I will try to translate these ideals into the vice-presidency and prove them 'practical.' Some people say they sound good but won't work. I will work to make them work."

"I will try to make student government more inviting to the non-politicians who constitute most of the campus and now have little contact or want little contact with their government. I tried in the constitution committee to safeguard the rights of all students permanently through the document and I have tried in my personal activities to respect these rights."

Lowenstein concluded, "Both the people I am running against are fine persons and I respect them. I am very sorry that Harry Horton, who would have made a wonderful vice-president, has seen fit to withdraw. I hope I can live up to some of the kind things he has said about me, if I should be elected."

The SP candidate has belonged to the Young Republicans club and the World Federalists, the latter in which he served as vice-chairman.

Publication Ends

Publication of the Daily Tar Heel will cease with this issue and will be resumed again on March 24, first day of classes in the Spring quarter, Editor Ed Joyner announced yesterday.

The business office of the DTH will close at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Class tickets for the spring quarter for pre-registered students may be picked up in Memorial hall on Tuesday, March 22, from 9 o'clock in the morning to 10 that night, and on Wednesday, from 6 to 8 o'clock in the morning, a report from the Registration office said yesterday.
