Education School To Offer Courses On Saturdays

The University School of Education will conduct special classes at Chapel Hill for teachers and graduate students on Saturday mornings and Monday nights during the fall quarter, it was announced yesterday by Dean Guy B. Phillips.

Twelve courses will be offered, each carrying graduate credit, Dean Phillips explained. Persons teaching will be permitted to carry six quarter hours, he said. Seven courses will be offered on Saturday mornings and five on Monday nights.

Brauer Receives Science Award From Oak Ridge

One member of the faculty and one graduate of the University of North Carolina are two of the three recipients of the first annual Science Research Awards of $500 each just announced by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies for significant contributions to science in the South.

The faculty member is Dr. Alfred Brauer, professor of mathematics at the University, and the alumnus is Dr. Walter Gordy, now associate professor of physics in Duke University.

Recipient of the other of the three awards is Dr. Allen T. Gwathmey, associate professor of chemistry in the University of Virginia.

Two Speeders To Meet Judge

Two student "Hot-Rod Hoppers" roared themselves right into next Tuesday's session of Recorder's Court here by allegedly racing abreast up West Franklin Street at an estimated speed of 60 miles per hour.

The students, both seniors, are William J. Gliarmis, 21, of Durham, and Lee S. Sunas, 23, of Wilson. Officer David Roberts, who made the arrests Saturday night, said neither of the boys appeared to have been drinking.

Gliarmis and Sunas were booked on reckless driving charges, Roberts said. They will appear before Judge John Manning in Recorder's Court Tuesday morning.

The students were driving a 1949 Oldsmobile and a 1947 Buick, and were allegedly driving at the excessive rate of speed from the west end of Franklin Street into town. Roberts said they were finally stopped in front of the elementary school.

Police Department officials issued a general warning on the heels of the incident that "new stress" would be placed on the enforcement of city traffic ordinances, since many new automobiles have come to Chapel Hill with the 1949-50 student body.

meet freshmen informally during the three-day camp.

The evening sessions Thursday were divided into two parts. Six cabin groups held meetings to discuss the values and shortcomings of the camp, and minutes of these sessions were then discussed by the entire camp as a group. The latter part of the evening program featured a pep rally at which cheerleaders Jerry Pence, Anita Gates, and Audrey Donnan taught the freshmen University songs and yells.

The final day of the conference a proposal for a Freshman Councils of the previous night, and a new constitution was adopted. Each cabin group, according to this measure, named two representatives to a temporary committee to formulate a council which will work with Bob Barrus, associate secretary of the YMCA, in formulating a freshman program of dances, retreats, and other special functions.

-Orientation Week Activities-

Orientation Committee, from a large number of applications last spring, returned to Chapel Hill several days before the new students arrived in order to attend a series of informative meetings which were to equip them to supervise their groups.

During the past week the counsellors have given lectures and conducted discussions on the campus and honor codes, student government and the constitution, drinking and dating, extra-curricular groups and the opportunities they offer, UNC relationships with other student bodies, the Student Council, the National Students' Association, fraternities, and the Dormitory Adviser System.

In addition to these group meetings another program has been carried out that was designed to facilitate a better understanding of University life, nurture a devotion to the rights of students here, and develop an appreciation for the responsibilities which the existence of these rights impose.

This part of the program included tours of the library, the book exchange, and the Planetarium. All groups were aided in registration and some counsellors conducted informal tours of the general campus.
