PAGE TWO

GOP

JNA

M

2000 TU 2.5 117+114

The Skipper -

-Book Battle-Frosh Father, Son Here

The official newspaper of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is issued daily during the regular sessions of the University by the Colonial Press, Inc., except Mondays, examination and vacation periods, and the summer terms. Entered as second-class matter at the post office of Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Sub-scriptions price: $5.00 per year, $3.00 per quarter. Member of The Associated Press. The Associated Press and AP features are exclusively entitled to the use for republication of all news and features published herein.

Editor Business Manager	DICK JENRETTE B. MENDENHALL
Managing Editor	CHUCK HAUSER CARMICHAEL III

The Daily Tar Heel

Editorial Staff: Charlie Gibson, Tom Wharton, Wink Locklair. Bill Kellam, Don Shropshire, Jimmy Rutherford, John Stump, Vestal Taylor.

News Staff: Roy Parker, Jr., Zane Robbins, Bill Johnson, Sam McKeel, Wuff Newell, Don Maynard, Rolfe Neill, Caroline Bruner, Bob Hennessee, Graham Jones, Glenn Harden.

Sports Staff: Buddy Vaden, Frank Allston, Jr., Andy Taylor, Larry Fox, Lew Chapman, Joe B. Cherry, Bebe Smith, Art Greenbaum.

Business Staff: Oliver Watkins, June Crockett, Neal Cadieu, Ed Williams.

About Sorority Rushing . . .

The next two weeks will be busy indeed for all the new coeds at Carolina as the five campus sororities throw open their doors for an intensive two weeks rushing program. Chi Omega, Delta Delta Delta, Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Delta Pi, and Pi Beta Phi girls have been laying their rushing plans since mid-summer-and the first rushing parties are scheduled Monday night.

Yesterday Marie Nussbaum, Pan-Hellenic rushing chairman, offered a few tips which should be beneficial to the girls going through rushing. Briefly stated, here are her suggestions:

First, be on time to all rushing parties to which you are invited. It's not necessary to "over-dress" for the occasion, and above all you should not attempt to assume a different personality. Be yourself, remembering that if the girls don't like your true nature, then you really don't want to be in that sorority.

Seek Girls That Seem Your Type

The condition of the house is, of course, important. Frequently it reflects the personality of its occupants. However, don't let yourself be influenced too much by the house. What really counts is the girls of the sorority. Seek out the girls that are of your type-and consider the overall congeniality of the group which is entertaining you.

A little pre-rush investigation today also is in order. Inquire about the group's scholarship and the campus activities of the girls in it. They reflect the industry of the chapter.

Also a word of caution should be thrown in against depending on the opinions of your room mate. Just because she's your best friend doesn't mean she is a good judge in sizing up a sorority. Make up your own mind-after giving all the sororities an even break. A girl is being foolish if she enters rushing with the belief that she already knows the sorority she wants to join.

And remember, you have no cause to be

By "Wink" Locklair

A 44-year-old grandfather and his 18-year-old son are registered in the freshman class at teh University here this fall.

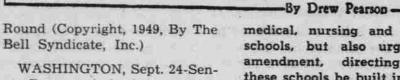

When Henry Peterson Leighton retired from active duty with the Army last May, he began making plans to get started on a college degree. At the same time, his son, William Wood Leighton, was completing his senior year at Chapel Hill High School. Now, father and son find themselves as classmates in their first year of college. 'The Government has provided a marvelous opportunity through the GI Bill of Rights for me to obtain a higher education and I'm most anxious to take advantage of it," Mr. Leighton said, shortly after completing registration in Woollen Gymnasium. He has enrolled for courses in social science, mathematics and German, and Bill will follow the usual freshman curriculum, although he may get into the ROTC program soon.

During Mr. Leighton's Army carrer, which began at Fort Bragg in 1922, he spent over 13 years in charge of the ROTC office at N. C. State College. As a matter of fact, he was retired from the Raleigh institution. "But I've liked Chapel Hill since I first passed through here on a bicycle in 1919 when I was moving from Durham to Chatham county. I'm glad to be enrolled in this University."

Young Bill was active on the swimming team at the local high school and he took part in a number of extra-curricular activities there. This summer, to stimulate his interest in journalism, he took a guided tour from Chicago to the West Coast and up through Canada. His teachers hope he will become interested in creative writing during college. Mrs. Leighton is very pleased with the educational plans of her husband and Bill. Henry P. Leighton, Jr., who has a twoyear-old daughter, Carol Lee, is assigned to the First Guided ate Democratic leaders, meeting behind closed doors last week. decided not to adjourn until something is done about the nation's overcrowded schools and the undermanned medical profession.

HORRLS

Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Their decision was reached after personal appeals by Sen. Hubert Humphery of Minnesota for action on his emergency school-construction Bill, and by schools, but also urged an amendment, directing that these schools be built in areas where there in dire need.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

"This isn't the United Areas of America," Green broke in dryly. "This is the United States of America. Let's do it by states." "Now, Theodore," chided Hill. "After all, Rhode Island is just two counties when the tide is in

But when the poll was taken, words, ordering the steel com-Paulson and FTC Examiner Frank Hier, who are helping him on the steel case. The spokesman for the lawyers was Hoyt Moore of Bethlehem Steel, a lifelong friend of Ma-

VICTORY IN

PENNSYLVANIA

CONGRESSION

ELECTION

At the breakfast, steel attorneys urged a compromise permitting the steel industry to continue using the basing-point system. They wanted the Trade Commission to issue a "cease and desist" order full of fancy

Coffin, UNC Journalism By Bill Kellem crowded in on them and con-"We offer no excuse for being provincial." the head of the Carolina Journalism Department, "Skipper" Coffin, (his initials, O. J., were forgotten long ago) chuckled between puffs on his ever-present stogie the other night as he reclined on his front porch studio couch and discoursed on his career and things in general.

"Plenty of people criticize us for not turning out a student who's a "finished" product ready for a metropolitan newspaper. All we're trying to do is furnish some reporters and desk men for North Carolina newspapers," Skipper continued. "We try to start him right and to teach him to use his head. After that, if he gets on a metropolitan paper, it's up to him."

"Provincial papers are very important. I consider them to be public utilities. Since they're more personal than big dailies, they have an obligation to their readers," Skipper said.

The Skipper, has been turning out "provincial" newsmen at Carolina for 23 years. He came here in 1926, after a 15-year career on North Carolina papers during which he served on Asheboro, Winston-Salem, Charlotte, and Raleigh papers. His career culminated in his appointment as editor of the Raleigh Times in 1918. Since 1926, Skipper has been a columnist and editorial contributor to the Greensboro

Daily News.

Skipper got his nickname around 1933 from Doc Blodgett, an intermittent student and journalist. Skipper used to kid Blodgett, who'd done newspaper work before entering here, about what poor work an old hand like Blodgett was doing in comparison to the inexperienced kids around him. Blodgett would listen and always answer, "Aye, ave, skipper." The other students picked up the name and it's stuck. Anyone who's been within earshot of the Skipper never forgets his booming voice, which goes through the walls of Bynum Hall like a bullet through tissue paper, or his frequent, infectious belly laugh which convinces you that he wasn't kidding when he wrote (in characteristic Coffin phraseology) the second of his ten journalistic commandments. It says: Thou shalt not take thyself too damn seriously. The Skipper is of medium height, but you get an impression of bigness from his every action. When the Skipper succeeded Gerald Johnson as the oneman journalism department in 1926, there were only a half dozen or so students enrolled as journalism majors. This was quite fortunate for the cramped quarters (one small class room and a closet-size office for Skipper) could scarcely have held more students. For nine years Skipper was the journalism depart-

This condition continued until 1935 when Skipper and Company, he now had Walter Spearman, shifted their quarters to the top floor of Bynum Hall, where they now hold forth, or rather third, for the UNC Press and UNC News Service have

ment.

sequently complicated the housing problem.

The department did not break the ten-per-year mark in graduates until 1935, when 13 got AB's. The number of grads steadily rose until a pre-war peak of 54 was reached in 1941. The war made heavy inroads on the total and it was not until 1948 that the pre-war peak was surpassed with a total of 79. Last June, they did even better, for 80 students got journalism

At present the department has a total of three prefessors, two assistant profs, one instructor, and two part time lectures.

degrees.

Skipper was born in Moore County in 1887. He graduated from Carolina in 1909 with a AB degree and was editor of the Tar Heel during the last semester of his senior year He succeeded Senator Frank Graham as editor.

"I set type for spending money, made up the paper, wrote over half the stuff in it, and solicited ads while I was editor." Skipper recalled. "And Louis R. Wilson (present head of the NC Historical Collection) quit teaching German after he had me in one of his classes."

Skipper taught for two years after he graduated. In 1911 he went to work on the Asheboro Courier as a reporter. The owner of the paper was a district solicitor, so Skipper did all the work on the paper. Late in 1911 he served as sports editor of the Winston-Salem Journal but he resigned partially because the owner wanted him to go down to the train station and ask everyone where they were going-so the paper would have a big personals column, but mainly because he was courting his wife, Mre. Gertrude Wilson Coffin, whom he married in 1912.

The editorship of the Charlotte Observer semi-weekly was his next stop. "I reckon I put it out of business, for they stopped publishing it four months after I got there," Skipper said. He became state editor of the Observer in 1912 when the former state editor was promoted to managing editor. The deposed managing editor was an itinerant Englishmen who was fired for using a streamer to announce the sinking of the liner Titanic.

medical, nursing and dental out."

son's.

and three counties when it's

Sorority On Trial, Not You

sorority girls themselves are more on trial actually than you, and they are just as excited about the coming two weeks as you are. You be the judge.

The sororities each have a quota of 55 women, and natually all the Carolina girls can't join a sorority. Many have no desire to do so. You should not be upset if you are not invited to join a sorority, for the big majority of the coeds are not members. Many of the campus' most outstanding girls are not in a sorority. And on the other side, there are many benefits which can be derived from membership. However, there's little need to discuss them. The sorority girls will give you plenty of reasons this week.

So enter into the rushing period with the spirit that you are going to have a good time. And you will. For weeks now the sorority girls have been practicing their songs, painting their houses, and brushing up on their etiquette. During the two week rushing you will have an opportunity to meet some of Carolina's top coed leaders. And you will make countless friends during the time whether you join a sorority or not.

So bring out the punch bowl, dig up the old scrapbook. Rushing can be lots of fun. However, the Carolina gentlemen will just have to excuse the bags under the coeds' eyes this week. These post-rush chapter meetings can be awfully long and trying.

Good Promotion Jobs

Carolina students, whether they realize it or not, are being subjected to two terrific promotion campaigns these days. Students interested in advertising or some promotion job might well note the details of the campaigns, for they certainly have a professional mark.

Ab's well-known Book Shop in Chapel Hill is conducting one of the two campaigns. Kemp Nye, of that organization, has designed a very clever "original" Carolina flag which he hopes will supplant the Confederate flags of last year's football days. We have had no report on the success of Ab's promotion campaign, but apperently the store has gone all out in an effort to sell the flags. At any rate their advertising technique is admirable. Nye has been cruising his Buick about the campus with flags waving, and at Friday night's pep rally they were in evidence everywhere, compliments of Ab's. At the conclusion of the rally, one Ab agent was seen throwing dozens of the flags downstairs from the balcony in an effort to get the movement started. In addition, most of the state newspapers have carried stories on the creation of the new pennant.

Alumnus Orville Campbell, still a wheel about campus, also has been conducting his own promotion campaign, and apparently is enjoying great success in his efforts to make the song "All the Way, Choo Choo" popular. Campbell has succeeded to the extent that Benny Goodman has made a recording of it. Also a local version was in evidence at a number of beach juke boxes this summer. The ditty, with music by the very talented Hank Beebe, was sung two or three times at this weekend's pep rally. The song is good, and the more one hears it the better he likes it.

At any rate, Campbell and Nye deserve an A in their promotion efforts. It looks like both may meet with success.

jittery-or feel that you are on trial. The Missile Regiment at Fort Bliss.

It may be December, 1951, or June, 1952, before Mr. Leighton receives his bachelor of science degree from the School of Commerce, so he has made no definite plans as yet. "I fulfilled one life-long ambition by retiring from the Army this year. Now I'm getting started toward another important goal. I'm going to remain active and continue to work, of course," he said, "and I will maintain my affiliation with the Army in a reserve statue."

-USSR Front-The Road To Fame By Tom Whitney

MOSCOW, Oct. 1-(AP)-The roads to fame in the Soviet Union are varied. One of these roads lies through literature. A Soviet citizen who writes a best-selling novel or play or poem becomes known throughout the length and breadth of the land.

Another road lies through science. A Russian who makes a brilliant scientific discovery is soon the possessor of national fame Equal fame, however, can be attained by ordinary workers and farmers also.

For instance, two of the most famous people in the USSR this year are Maria Rozhneva and Lydia Kononenko. These girls who finished trade school only four years ago can read their names in Soviet papers from all parts of the country almost every day.

The leading Soviet papers, Pravda and Izvestia, wrote about them in lead, editorials. Their pactures appear frequently in magazines and papers. They are called on to give public lectures and to write articles. Maria Rozhneva and Lydia Kononenko became famous because they were initiators of a nation-wide movement for economy of raw materials.

In running their looms at the Kupava woolen mill, which is a little over two dozen miles east of Moscow, these two girls who headed brigades in the mill became

Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida for passage of his bill to increase medical training facilities. Humphery avowed: "No legislation could be more desirable nor more timely than providing the classrooms our children need. Do you realize that nine million more kids will enter school between now and 1958?"

"This is almost rabbitlike," observed Rhode Islands salty, 82-year-old Sen. Theodore Green, A bachelor.

Humphery grinned, said he was willing to go to any "extent in order to get the support of bachelors." He also explained that his bill had been blocked by Senator Taft, and urged the Democrats to go over Taft's head.

"I understand," added Humphrey, "that Taft is going to introduce a school-construction bill of his own.'

Georgia's Sen. Dick Russell, spokesman for the Southern Democrats, suggested an amendment authorizing emergency construction for schools hit by floods, earthquakes or other "Acts of God."

> But he warned: "One thing we ought to have is a ceiling on appropriations for this bill."

Later Alabama's Sen. Lister Hill backed up Pepper's plea for federal aid to expand impressed with the possibilities of reducing waste and making the raw material go farther.

In the early 1920's, Skipper got involved in the biggest libel suit in North Carolina history. The nation was then ripe with controversy over the Poole "Monkey" Bill which forbade the teaching to the theory of evolution in public schools Skipper got into trouble when he editorially asked "who was this emigrant ignoramus," in reference to the background of one J. R. Pentuff, a biologist with a Ph. D. degree from Shurtleff College. Pentuff was an avid supporter of the Poole Bill. This remark aroused Pentuff's ire and when Skipper editorially called him "umannerly and uncharitable, even toward the members of his own denomination," for attacking a fellow Baptist, Mr. Pentuff decided to sue Skipper for $35,000 damages.

no dissenting voice was raised against either bill.

Probably the busiest man on capitol Hill is senator Majority leader Scott Lucas. But he has year fight for a group of war taken out time to wage a twowidows who can't even vote for him.

These are women whose husbands were killed during the war while they, themselves, were thrown into enemy prison camps. They couldn't collect the pensions ordinarily paid to war widows, because the law required that they file within one year after their husbands were killed. This was impossible, since these widows were stuck in concentration camps. But they will now be able to collect their pensions- as a result of a special bill, pushed through congress by busy Senator Lucas. Note-none of the widows who got in touch with Lucas is from Illinois-his home state. A secret breakfast took place in the Carleton Hotel the other day to discuss a problem that worries the steel industry just about as much as the strike.

This is the basing-point system, a monopoly practice whereby steel companies lessen competition between each other by charging the same price whether the steel is made in Pittsburgh, Pa., or Geneva, Utah. Already, in a test case over cement, the Supreme Court point system violates the antitrust laws, and the Federal Trade Commission is now cracking down on other big industries that use the basingpoint system to regulate pri-.ces.

So, while the headlines have been screaming about the strike, the big steel companies have been quietly maneuvering to save the basing-point system.

First move was to try jamming through congress a bill to legalize the system, which, however, was caught and amended by Sen. Estes Kafauver of Tennessee and Congressman John Carroll of Colorado, two alert Democrats.

Now the steel companies have changed their tactics, are trying to soften the Federal Trade Commission, have sent their best lawyers to work on Trade Commissioner Lowell Mason, usually friend of business. It was a Mason who met the lawyers at a Carlton Hotel Breakfast, bringing along FTC Counsel Lynn panies to stop certain minor practices but permitting them to continue systematic freight absorption-the nub of the basing-point system.

Note-Commissioner Mason can count on one other commissioner-Garland Ferguson-to vote with him. Tough Commissioner William Ayres of Kansas will oppose, together with newly confirmed commissioner John Carson. Commissioner Ewin Davis would oppose, but is sick. This may mean a tie vote.

It's unprecedented for a Senator to run for another senate seat before his own term ends, but that's what Washington's gruff, outspoken Harry Cain secretly plans to Though Senator Cain doesn't come up for re-election until 1952, he confides to friends that he wants to run in 1950 against his liberal colleague, Sen. Warren Magnuson. Cain, a diehard Republican, has been a voicein-the-wilderness crying out against social welfare, while Magnuson, a Democrat, has been a dynamic crusader on the other side.

"We just cancel each other out," Cain explained to a close friend. "So I'm going to give the people of Washington a chance to choose between us. They know my record, and they know Magnuson's record. Now let them have their choice."

Cain also hasn't decided yet whether to resign his own seat to take on Magnuson. He knows that if he gives up his senate seat, G.O.P. Gov. Arthur Langlie could fill the vacancy with another Republican. But Cain is not a wealthy man, needs his senate salary. Furthermore, many senators have held on to their seats while running for other public offices, such as Governor or Vice President. If his scheme goes through, Cain will wage an old-fashioned, mud-slinging campaign. All the back-alley information he has collected for two years is stacked away in a thick file, labeled "Magnuson," and Cain plans to throw it all over the state of Washington.

Cain is a vigorous, rough-and -tumble campaigner. Magnuson, far more popular, both at home and in the senate, is more easygoing, doesn't indulge in invective. But if Cain does decide to run against him next year, it will be the stormiest campaign in Washington State's history.

"He was too progressive for them," Skip said. "I learned much useful information about newspaper work from that fellow. I never did know what happened to him."

Skipper came to the Raleigh Times in 1916 as city editor. He also covered the 1917 legislature. While doing so wrote a number of poems, which he included in his daily column on legislative doings. The poems were character sketches of the various legislators and public officials.

"I published the book and lost money on it. I modelled the poems on the Spoon River anthology and apologized in the preface to Edgar Lee Masters for what I'd done to his type of book. I told the truth in verse and only a few got mad." Skip said That was his only attempt at poetry.

		- C.		1000	199	-	-	ALC: NO.				- In second	Concerns of the
C	ro	aa	-		1	Pu		1.		AL	P	-R	EP	 	N D O
-		199	mi			ı u	22	ae		LA			RA		005
-	ACE	loss		-					-	5 8	C			AR	URE
1	Vithe		Ч	30.		om in naren			1.29	TR		2	cui		² nr
I	sug	n		31.	Tre	at n	07.81]	y	114		P	RO	WS	B	ağı
	Irtici			35.	Ye: Un	ited			1.1	RE	T	IR		ST	ARR
A	bove	et no	etio.	38.	An	oint			4.3	AN	10	NG	L	IE	GE
ĉ	lity	in O	kla-	39.	Syr	nbel		÷.	14	PL	R	A	DI	d I	ETH
	hor	na		40.	Fai	shion	£		1	-		AN	ON	A	RCA
S	loon	5.6.		48.	Be	loca	ted		1913	21	A	RI	BFI	ES	H
1	ncite		DIG	47.	Mo	nman ve to	and	1	10	EA		ES	A	RE	E
	nic Pelt	knan	10		Pla	ro		1.0		1914	TEN	ALI	L L	EA	BL
E	tric abt cgg-s niqu	cui	rent	55.	Imi	st In reget ltate tile mins	shie		1 J 2 L	law	fieh		6.	Too a Spars Ward
1	12	13	viiiiii	4	10	IG IG	17	10	E. C	ard	gam	•	8. 1	Syllat	le of itation
		1	VIIIII		r .	-	10	0	V//////	12	10	14	27.3	50806	na
-	-	-	10000	Sec.		and the second	1.1.1.1	1.1	VIII0)	1000	dan	Sec	1 10. 1	FURG
?				13	-			-		14	1000		10.	Fuss	brown
			16	13	10					14	1		10. 11. 16. 17.	Fuss Light Paren Era	1 ma
			16	13		1 11			77	4	金星		10. 11. 16. 17. 19.	Fuss Light Paren Era Nine: for	comb
		18	16	13		21 21 21 21 21 21 21 21 21 21 21 21 21 2		19	17	4			10. 1 11. 1 16. 1 17. 1 19. 1 20. 1	Fuse Light Paren Era Nine: form Nonm elen	comb ietallig
	21	18	16	13	22			19	77	14			10, 11, 16, 17, 19, 1 20, 21,	Fuse Light Paren Era Nine: form Nonm elen Genuir	comb netallig
	21	18		13	22		23	19	77	14	24	25	10, 11, 1 16, 17, 19, 1 20, 1 21, 1 23, 1	Fuse Light Paren Era Nine: form Nonm eleu Genui gra Lubri	comb n ietallig nent. i of saes cant
	21	18	16	13	22	29	23	19	77	14	24	25	10, 11, 1 16, 17, 19, 1 20, 1 21, 1 28, 1 24, 1	Fuse Light Paren Era Nine: form Nonm eleu Genui gra Lubri Femiu	comb nent sees cant
5	21	18				29		19	7		24	25	10. 11. 16. 17. 19. 20. 21. 23. 24. 25.	Fuss Light Paren Paren Era Nine: form Nonm eles Genus gra Lubri Femis nar Flogg Symb	comb nent setallis nent sof sees cant tine de ed ol for
5	21	18			22	29	23	19	34		24	25	10, 11, 11 16, 17, 19, 1 20, 1 21, 1 22, 1 23, 1 24, 1 25, 1 27, 1	Fuss Light Paren Era Nine: form Nonm eles Genus gra Lubri Form Bymb tan Make	comb b betallis nent. sof sses cant iine ed ol for talum
5	21	18				29		19	34		24	25	10, 11, 1 16, 17, 19, 1 20, 1 21, 19, 1 20, 1 21, 19, 1 20, 1 22, 1 24, 1 25, 1 37, 1 38, 1 38, 1 39, 1	Fuss Light Paren Era Nine: for Nonm elsi Genus gra Lubri Femis nar Flogg Symb tan Make	t comb nent ictallig nent i of snes cant ine ed of for talum ltant
5 6	21	18	27	28		29	33		34	30	24	25	10, 11, 1 16, 17, 19, 1 20, 1 21, 19, 1 20, 1 21, 19, 1 20, 1 22, 1 24, 1 25, 1 37, 1 38, 1 38, 1 39, 1	Fuse Light Paren Era Nine: form Nonm elau Genui gra Lubri Femiu nar Fiogg Symb tan Make exu Annu City.	comb B B B B B B B B B B B B B B B B B B B
0 6	21	18		28		29			34		24	25	10. 11. 1 16. 17. 19. 1 20. 1 21. 19. 1 20. 1 22. 1 24. 25. 1 25. 1 26. 1 27. 1 28. 1 29.	Fuse Light Paten Era Nine: For elar gra Lubri For symb tan Make exu Annu City. Min Artie	t comb nent i of sses cant tine ed of for talum ltant is mesot
0 6	21	18	27	28		29	33	38		30	24	25	10. 11. 1 116. 1 16. 1 16. 1 17. 19. 1 20. 1 21. 1 23. 1 24. 1 25.	Fuse Fuse Light Paten Era Nonm eleg Genui gra Lubri Femi nar Flogg 8ymb tan Make eru Annu City Mation Articl	comb nent i of sses cant iine ed ol for talum ltant la de ods
5			27	28	32	37	33		34	30	24	25	10. 11. 16. 17. 19. 19. 20. 21. 23. 24. 25. 24. 25. 24. 25. 24. 25. 24. 25. 24. 25. 24. 25. 24. 25. 24. 25. 24. 25. 24. 25. 24. 25. 24. 25. 24. 25. 24. 25. 24. 25. 25. 25. 25. 25. 25. 25. 25	Fuse Light Paren Era Nonm eleu Genu gra Lubri Formin art Flogg Symb tan Make eru Annu City Min Annu City Min Annu City Era tan Base Control Co	comb a ctallin nent of sses ccant ine of sses ccant ine of sses clauma line a d a a a a a a a a a a a a a
5	21		27	28		37	33	38		30	24	25	10. 11. 1 11. 1 16. 17. 1 16. 17. 1 20. 21. 22. 25. 25. 25. 25. 25. 25. 25. 25. 25	Fuss Light Paren Era Nins: form Som elas ceaus genuis gra Lubri Fomili nar Fiogg Symbb tan Maks exu Annu City Mathematica Absoce Drink Eat :	comb nent setallig ment sses cant ine d of sses cant ine d of sses cant ine talum ltant in slowi way way words
5 9			27	28	32	37	33	38		30			10. 11 116. 17. 19. 1 10. 11 16. 17. 19. 1 20. 21. 23. 1 23. 1 24. 25. 28. 23. 24. 25. 28. 23. 24. 25. 25. 25. 25. 25. 25. 25. 25. 25. 25	Fuse Light Paren Era Nine: forn eleg genuin gra Lubri Formin form gra Lubri Formin forg Symbb tan Make eru Annu City City City City City City City City	comb neat istallin for sses cant ine of sses cant ine of for talum ltant is slow bition Latin cf. sods
0 6 1 5 9 77 2			27	28	32	37	33	38		30			10. 11. 11. 11. 11. 11. 11. 11. 11. 11.	Fuss Light Paren Era Nine: form Const Genuis gra Lubri Fomfi fan Make exu Annu City Min Artie Abscc Drink Eat a Narro Prohi Antie Circu Ocean Circu	comb neat ictallin sees cant time of for cant talum ltant in solution ltant in solution ltant in solution ltant is sees cant talum
2 5 0 6 1 5 9 17 2 5			27	28	32	37	33	38		30			10. 11. 11. 11. 11. 11. 11. 11. 11. 11.	Fuse Light Paren Era Nine: forn eleg genuin gra Lubri Formin form gra Lubri Formin forg Symbb tan Make eru Annu City City City City City City City City	comb comb cantine sees cant ine of sees cant ine of for ine of for ine of for ine of for ine of sees cant ine of for ine of sees cant ine of for for ine of for for for for for for for

EFTEMBER 24

N. A. WARRANT