Governors Will Talk

WITH THE NORTH CAROLINA football organization back from just a little bit of a ball game South of North Carolina, most of the wondering ones around these and other parts seem more interested in the state of Tar Heel grid affairs in Columbia last Saturday, than what the Governor of North Carolina may have said to the Governor of South Carolina.

Governor Scott probably was versing Governor Thurmond on the subject of rural roads, while most of those who follow the Tar Heels, are more anxious to know about those city roads the men of Coach Carl Snavely will have to travel to Williamsburg, Durham, Baton Rouge, and New York, not to mention three more contests at the home establishment.

Had most of the wonderers been in the South Carolina capital city over the weekend, they might have wished that they hadn't bothered to make the trip. The Tar Heels were definitely not at their best, nor were the Gamecocks, nor was the weather, nor was the officiating. Cold Coca-Colas were the only luxury of the afternoon, with the exception of several outstanding individual performances, mostly by Tar Heels, that played havoc with the light sleepers all afternoon.

On the Elements

OF THE CONTRIBUTING ELEMENTS, the officiating was about the only one that didn't affect the Tar Heels one way or the other. In fact, that's about what penalties did to the Carolina entry throughout the afternoon, moved them one way and then the other. The officiating, or the lack of a quick and decisive article so named, slowed the game to a turtles' pace and left the players of both sides standing around with nothing to do but exchange telephone numbers.

The weather left both sides in the need of a good dose of Hadaool. It was hot and muggy, sort of a poor man's Turkish bath that took a great deal out of player and spectator alike. It wasn't exactly good football weather, so the boys decided that wasn't the time to play exactly good football either.

The competition, too, contributed much to the lack of sparkle on the Tar Heel outfit. The Gamecocks proved to be a hard group of fellows to get a good football appetite worked up for. The hungry look was lacking. It isn't easy to play top flight football against a second or third flight football team. The Tar Heels found it wasn't Saturday. Takes a football player to match a football player.

The Priceless Gems

BUT THERE WERE priceless gems among the Carolina playing organization who shone right on through the haze of so-so football. Fred Sherman, possessor of a name that incites more puns than terror in South Carolina these days, played wingback on Saturday as if he had invented the position. He turned the reverse, which up until this game had been going exactly in that direction, into the productive two-touchdown scoring device.

Sherman whip-creamed this basic effort by performing two pass catches that made the people wonder how the World Series was coming on. The cherry on top was high-scoring honors of the day—Sherman made that grade with 12 or thereabouts points. After Sherman's and the other two touchdowns were scored, a fr. Egbert Williams appeared on the field intent on impressing upon the people the importance of the little extra things in life.

Williams, no doubt, left a good impression. He bisected the goal posts four times running, which led most to ponder who used to kick these things before this new Coxswain of Conversion came along. Williams, it seems, hadn't liked the idea of being called the poor man's Bob Cox. It must have been a joke, though, for the Gamecocks certainly got the point—four times.

Two More to GO

TWO OTHER TAR HEELS whose notices keep Jake Wade's messors busy most of time, gave the boys some more to write about Saturday. Billy Hayes, who had an absence of friends and flowers after a slow start last season, is now learning to write with both hands. Hayes continues to pass extremely effectively and his running against the South Carolinians was one of the most educational things unveiled in the Palmetto state in years.

Of course, all good things must come to an end, who of course, Art Weiner. Weiner has caught everything but cold thus far this season and remains with eyes peeled to the sky, expecting air mail specials from Charlie Justice, Hayes, All-American pickers, and the stork.

There was another figure that performed with brilliance on Saturday, and which until this game had missed these three eyes. The figure belongs to one Dave Wiley, a tackle who packs a mean wallop and wallops a mean pack. Mr. Wiley is just that.

Which is enough about the Tar Heels for one day, except to remark that Charlie Justice remains an All-American among a growing lot of All-Americans. And to add that if Carolina plays many more breathers like South Carolina, they might suffocate one of these Saturdays.

Irish Take Over First Position; Army in Second

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 — (AP) — Notre Dame is the top college football team, the experts decided today in the second Associated Press nationwide poll of the season.

But the Fighting Irish landed the no. 1 spot by only a slim margin of 30 points over Army, which polished off last week's leader—Michigan—in a 21-7 upset Saturday at Ann Arbor.

Michigan, which received 34 first place votes a week ago, didn't get a single one this time, but the sports editors and sportscasters still thought enough of the Wolverines to give them enough other ballots to land them in the top 10—in seventh place to be exact.

Notre Dame, which brushed aside Purdue Saturday, 35-12, to remain among the undefeated and untied, collared 67 first place votes and a total of 1,489 points.

Army, which was seventh in the first poll, was right behind with 1,459 points. The Cadets got 58 first place ballots, as 172 sports writers and broadcasters took part in the poll. Only 80 voted last week, because of primary interest in the close pennant wind-ups in the national and American Leagues, and the World Series.

The third, fourth, fifth, and sixth teams last week — Oklahoma, Tulane, Minnesota, and North Carolina, remained right in that order again.

A newcomer to the top 10 is Kentucky, which jumped from 15th place to eighth after handing Georgia a 25-0 shellacking Saturday. California moved up from tenth to ninth, trading places with Southern Methodist, which was idle last week.

The total vote with points figured on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis (first place votes in parentheses):

1. Notre Dame (67) 1489
2. Army (58) 1459
3. Oklahoma (28) 1295
4. Tulane (25) 1052
5. Minnesota (6) 900
6. North Carolina (3) 594
7. Michigan (25) 476
8. Kentucky (8) 438
9. California (7) 358
10. Southern Methodist (1) 341

The second ten—11. Ohio State, 206; 12. Southern California, 181; 13. U.C.L.A., 125; 14. Cornell, 98; 15. Pittsburgh, 65; 16. Texas, 63; 17. Villanova, 33; 18. Navy, 36; 19. Michigan State, 30; and Baylor, 25.

Others receiving one or more votes—Louisiana State, 10; Pennsylvania, 9; Missouri, 8; Vanderbilt, 6; Rice, 4; Tennessee, Georgia Tech, Virginia, and Dartmouth, 2 each; Yale and Duke, 1 each.

CHAPEL HILL

Tar Heel Footballers Prepare To Meet Wake Forest Saturday

The Tar Heels came back to Chapel Hill Sunday after playing football at South Carolina Saturday. Monday they were given pointers on how to play more productive football.

Not all in the Carolina camp were satisfied over Saturday's game with the Gamecocks. The Tar Heel passing attack reminded some of the exploits of last January first when Tar Heel Tossers were pitching the ball to anybody and everybody, without regard to jersey colors.

Despite the fact that the North Carolinians gained over 350 yards and collected 18 first downs to South Carolina's four, the engineering looked shoddy at times. Rushing was at times good, but as a whole the Tar Heels didn't look like the Tar Heels.

End Kenny Powell was the only victim of a major injury in Saturday's meeting in Columbia. He is out with a serious knee injury that may possibly keep him out of the Wake Forest game Saturday in Kenan Memorial Stadium. With Ed Washington still out due to an ankle injury, the right flank ranks have been thinned to a dangerously narrow margin.

In an effort to correct the disadvantage, Coach Snavely has put Tailback Dick Bunting to

Yanks Celebrate Victory As Bums Just Count Cash

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 — (AP) — The winning Yankees and the losing Dodgers began scattering for their homes today to await fat World Series checks from Commissioner Chandler. Yankee officials also began the painful task of returning some $700,000 to fans who bought tickets to unplayed sixth and seventh games at the Stadium.

Although exact figures will not be known for several weeks, it is estimated that each full-share Yankee will receive close to $5,800 for the part he played in humbling the National League, and that each Brook will be salvaged to the extent of $4,100. That is nice salve, even after taxes.

The happy Yanks, who survived everything except fire and flood in their limping progress toward a 12th World Championship, held a colossal victory celebration last night. Manager Casey Stengel contradicted a report that he might not be back next year because of ill health.

"Nothing to it," said Old Case. "Why, I'm so healthy that I'm the only guy on the club who hasn't had a doctor all year."

Casey is working on a two-year contract calling for $40,000 per season. It would cause no surprise if Co-Owners Dan Topping and Del Webb should tear that one up and reward their hand-picked pilot with another reading, say $80,000 a year.

Naturally, most of today's second-guessing was directed at Burt Shotton, Brooklyn's 65-year-old guiding hand. The opinion is not unanimous that Burt will be back. "Team I ever put together."

Walker's Workout

WAKE FOREST, Oct. 10 — (AP) — Coach D. C. Walker put his Wake Forest football team through a lengthy workout today stressing fundamentals.

The drill was topped off with an hour-long dummy scrimmage, the scrubs assuming North Carolina rushing and passing formations.

Walker said that Tackles Tom Palmer and Jim Staton and Quarterback Dickie Davis will see at least limited action against Carolina. Tackle Bill George, who suffered a broken foot against Southern Methodist, might see action, Walker added.

work learning the duties of a right end. Old Reliable and Ineligible Bob Cox has been given the chore of telling Bunting the whats and what-nots of good end play.

Dalton Ruffin, the towering sophomore tackle-blocking back, who was listed as a permanently injured player in early fall grid drills, was back in the game at tackle Saturday and can be counted on to lend added and needed support in the center of the line. Guard Jack Woodell got the feel of real competition in Saturday's game and is likely to see more action before the season is out.

The pinup girl's pinup boy, Irv Holdash, got in some experience at offensive center maneuvers and apparently looked good to Tar Heel coaches. The word is that he'll be seeing more of the fans in the stands from the field next week.

All-American Art (Where's that stork) Weiner spent the week end working on catching up with the nation's leaders in the pass-receiving department. He caught eight passes to bring his season total to 21. He has covered 332 yards on the plays. That ought to be good enough to top the country this week. He was third after two games and the two men leading him and had played in three games and had caught only 16 passes.

Charlie Justice, whose little son Ronnie got his haircut yesterday, maintained his punting average par excellence in kicking five times for 220 yards. That brings his three game average to 47 yards per boot. And that's three yards better than his last season's record breaking performance.

Hill and Dalers Prepare for Tech

Carolina's cross country team is training hard this week for the expected tough meet with Virginia Tech scheduled for the local course on Monday.

Coach Dale Ranson will probably string along with the same eight men that he used in both of the State meets, which the Tar Heels lost. These men are Capt. Sam Magill, Jerry Lewis, Frank Hooper, Otis Honeycutt, Gordon Hamrick, Jim Bolch, Bill Patterson and Tommy Williams.

Tech last year started off the Tar Heels with a loss here as Sam Magill romped home first and Tech took the next two places and seven of the first ten. There will be a very important meeting of all cross country and track men on Wednesday preceding the cross country workout. Room 304 Woolen.

Tar Heelers Take To Air For Opener With Middies

By Arthur Greenbaum

Twenty-two of Coach Marvin Allen's Tar Heel and Toers will board a plane this afternoon at the Raleigh-Durham airport to fly to Baltimore, Maryland. Here, the booters will travel by bus to Annapolis, where they will engage the Middies in a contest on Wednesday afternoon.

Coach Allen's squad has been anxiously awaiting this opening engagement and should give the Tars a terrific struggle. For the first time in three years, the Tar Heels feel confident that they possess a capable scoring punch that is able to penetrate any defense.

Heading the list of aggressive booters is Eddie Foy, up from last year's freshmen team, who should lead the attack to the Navy's shores on the Severn. Another standout is Jess Greenbaum, who, being a resident of Baltimore, should be very familiar to the tactics of the Navy.

Backing up these key players are veterans Joe Bach at inside left, Bill Lyons at right half, and Dave Ferebee at inside right. Holding down the defense will be All-American Frank Nelson, who should again break up numerous scoring threats of the opponents. Joining with Nelson at fullback will be Bill Rhoads, another ex-freshman, who has shown considerable improvement during fall practice.

Coach Allen has decided to start Ed Betty in the goal, but he will carry a reserve in case of a recurring wrist injury that kept Betty out of practice for a few days.

Many new-comers will make their debut tomorrow against the Middies, although they gained quite a bit of experience on the freshmen team. Art Winsor at right wing, Ernie Montgomery at left wing, and George Stephens at right half have stepped into the shoes of graduating lettermen. Other players making the trip are Bill Moore, John Langely, Jim Gwynn, and Bud Sawyer who will see considerable action in Annapolis tomorrow afternoon.
